FBI Halts Jet Airliner Piracy

Discoverer Shot Fails To Orbit

Air Force Unable To Achieve Goal On 28th Attempt

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Discoverer 28 shot aloft, but failed to orbit and apparently dropped in the ocean Thursday.

Air Force officials blamed technical difficulties. They said the satellite did not appear in orbit on schedule — about 90 minutes after blastoff.

A spokesman added: "We are reasonably certain the entire second stage dropped in the South Pacific."

The satellite was loaded with specialized instruments—some secret, some designed to diagnose its ills.

Plans called for Hawaii-based planes to try for an aerial catch of its space capsule in from one to four days, if all goes well.

The Air Force, disturbed at the high rate of failures in its longest-lived satellite series, listed "reliability testing" as a key objective of No. 28.

Discoverers also test equipment for the supersecret Samos military surveillance and Midas Missile detection satellite systems.

Items aboard Thursday's two stage rocket combination included:

Special control circuits in the Thor booster, to increase its reliability. The booster in shot No. 27 went awry and had to be destroyed.

Special instruments in the second-stage Agena-B rocket — all of which is designed to go into orbit—to check performance of its standard equipment.

If they don't work right, scientists want to know why.

On the last successful shot, No. 26, the Agena's speed was too high, resulting in a longer-than-expected orbital period, which in turn caused its capsule to fall wide of the target area. The planes caught it anyway.

So far, there have been six capsule recoveries in the series — four in the air, two from the sea.

French Paper Warns DeGaulle Of New Revolts

PARIS (UPI) — The influential newspaper Figaro Thursday reported widespread rumors of another rightwing extremist conspiracy to overthrow President Charles de Gaulle this month and warned the government against disregarding the danger signs.

Publication of the story was followed by an announcement by four powerful labor unions that their leaders already had met to map combined action to oppose "any new coup by force."

Rumors of new attempts to depose De Gaulle have persisted in the capital since the abortive "generals revolt" in Algeria last April. In recent weeks, widely-circulated reports had it that the attempt might be made during the August holidays when many Parisians leave for the seashore and country.

In a front page story, Figaro said it had warned about a plot against De Gaulle several weeks before the Algiers revolt but its warnings were ignored.

Cuban Guerillas Join U.S. Army

MIAMI (UPI) — Maj. Joaquin Bembribe, who led an anti-Castro guerilla group in eight months of fighting in the Escambray mountains, signed up for induction as a private in the U. S. Army Thursday with nine of his men.

They were among the first Cubans to take advantage of a new governmental ruling allowing Cuban exiles to enter the U. S. armed forces.

Congress Outraged At Plane Hijackings

Parliament Votes To Join Europe's Common Market

By THOMAS A. REEDY

LONDON (AP) — Parliament voted overwhelmingly Thursday night to open negotiations for British entry into Europe's six-nation Common Market, a bloc led by West Germany and France.

The House of Commons supported Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's proposal by 313-5. The Labor opposition abstained. The House of Lords voted 86-17 for the proposal.

The decision after two days of brisk debate opened the way for Britain to engage in talks, probably in October, on the terms of trade that will have to be met.

Senate Keeps Big Bombers In Money Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate disregarded administration arguments Thursday and voted overwhelmingly to retain a $525 million item for manned bombers in its record peacetime military spending bill.

The funds, earmarked for production of B52 and B58 bombers for the Strategic Air Command, were kept in the measure by a roll call vote of 87 to 4.

The move to delete the bomber funds was offered by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. The only Senators siding with him on the showdown were Prescott Bush, R-Conn.; Allen J. Ellender, D-La., and Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky.

Arguing for the cut, Proxmire cited a letter from Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara which said the administration considered the bomber increase unnecessary.

But opponents of the amendment contended successfully that manned bombers still are the nation's first line of deterrent power. They said curbing production now might mean costly restarts later.

Addition of the new aircraft money by the Senate Appropriations Committee brought the defense money bill to a total of $46.9 billion — larger than the top annual expenditure during the Korean War.

UN Hails New Congo Government

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo — (UPI) — The United Nations Thursday hailed the formation of the new government of Premier Cyrille Adoula as a significant turning point in the blood-soaked history of the Congo.

It expressed hope that it could begin to end military operations and concentrate more on technical aid to the infant African republic which was plunged into chaos shortly after winning independence from Belgium a year ago.

But the political picture was not entirely cleared. There remained the problem of the "breakaway" province of Katanga which boycotted the parliamentary session when refused guarantees to ensure its "independence."

There was also the refusal by Jean Bolikango of a vice premiership because he was not allowed to hold the portfilio of the ministry of information at the same time. Bolikango was deputy premier and official spokesman in the former Leopoldville regime.

Adoula appeared to have resolved one potential controversy by retaining the ministry of defense for himself.

Berlin Crisis Is Outlined For Italians

Khrushchev Tells Fanfani Problem Can Be Negotiated

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani agreed Thursday a negotiated settlement of the Berlin problem is possible. But apparently they moved not one inch toward it.

The talks began with Fanfani's arrival Wednesday and evidently were amiable. They held their last official meeting Thursday at the Italian Embassy, a short distance from the Kremlin. Both premiers then came out and shook hands with dozens of the hundred or more Russians gathered near the door.

Khrushchev repeated his warning that if an agreed solution is not reached he will sign a peace treaty before the end of the year with East Germany "to regulate" the Berlin situation.

Big Powers Get Notes

As the two wound up their talks, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed notes on the Berlin situation to Moscow envoys of Britain, France, West Germany and the United States.

The notes, the contents of which were not immediately disclosed, replied to Western notes delivered July 17 contending that millions of lives are being endangered by Soviet threats to West Berlin.

In a general summary of the conference, Hombert Bianchi, Italian government press spokesman quoted sections of speeches by the two leaders restating their hopes for settlement by negotiation.

"To this idea—that negotiations are opportune and possible—Mr. Khrushchev agreed," Bianchi said.

In a toast at lunch in the Italian Embassy, Khrushchev said the world is "full of combustible materials and there are hotbeds of international tension and even military danger. This worries people and interferes with their quiet life."

Fanfani Cautious

Commenting on the Soviet decision to sign a treaty with East Germany, Fanfani cautioned: "Before surrendering to this inevitability, it is necessary to think deeply to see whether all possible steps at reaching a solution have been made. This means probing and negotiation."

Fanfani, however, warned Khrushchev that, "It would be dangerous to believe that the solution of present difficulties can come from unilateral action."

He said Western moves following Khrushchev's announcement that he would sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany must not be mistaken for aggressive plans.

"Finally," Fanfani said, "the will to negotiate must not be mistaken for weakness."

Ex-President Hungary Dies

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Zoltan Tildy, ex-president of Hungary who was jailed for his part in Hungary's 1956 anti-Soviet revolt, died Thursday, the national news agency MTI announced. He was 72. The cause of death was not given.

Tildy, a former Reform Church minister, led Hungary's center and right-wing Smallholders party to victory at the polls in Hungary's first postwar election in 1945.

His party polled 59.9 per cent of the votes, but was gradually maneuvered into a self-liquidating position by the Communists as they fought for ascendancy in the late 1940s.

Treasurer Sees Federal Budget In Balance

By GARDNER L. BRIDGE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon repeated his belief Thursday that next year's federal budget can be balanced without any increase in taxes if there is no worsening of the international situation.

But Dillon told Congress in a letter that recent world developments and the U.S. military build-up make it essential that loopholes in the present tax laws be closed and that business be encouraged to expand and produce more revenues.

Dillon's letter to Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, was made public as the Dillon left to attend an inter-American economic conference in Uruguay.

He urged enactment this session of President Kennedy's proposed business incentive allowance, but said it should be offset by other revenue raising measures which would "improve and strengthen the tax system" over the long run.

Dillon said incentives for industry to invest in new and modernized plants and equipment are vital to the economic growth which will lead to a return to balanced budgets. This years' budget is expected to end up with a deficit of $5 billion or more.

Waiting For Bus

LONDON (AP)—A bobby testified he spotted Patrick Garrigle, 27, hanging by his fingertips from a window ledge above a busy street, and Garrigle explained: "I am waiting for a bus." The court ruled it was an attempted breakin and sent Garrigle to prison for six months.

Blame Castro For Repeated Outrages

Commercial Crews On All Planes Will Carry Arms

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—High State Department officials were reported Thursday night to have recommended that President Kennedy invoke the "Trading With the Enemy" Act to cut off what remains of U.S.-Cuban trade.

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clerks rushed reports of the latest airliner hijacking to Congress Thursday and tempers flared and words grew bitter there. Most of the anger was aimed at Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Although some, like Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., withheld comment pending more information, most members of Congress assumed the Cuban regime of Castro was behind the hijacking in El Paso, Tex.

If it is established there is a conspiracy, Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., said, "it is an act of war and should be dealt with accordingly."

Rep. Edgar W. Hiestand, R-Calif., sent an angry telegram to President Kennedy. Hiestand said the United States should "quit playing patsy to a pipsqueak and call a halt to continuing disgraces by Communist Cuba."

Wants Death Penalty

Rep. August E. Johansen, R-Mich., introduced a bill providing the mandatory death penalty for anyone convicted of hijacking, or conspiring to hijack, any type of aircraft by force or threat of force while the crew or passengers are aboard.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said "pirates cannot be dealt with slightly." He said the United States should "quarantine Cuba and throw a naval and air blockade around her until Castro purges himself and gives proof that he will not permit recurrence of such excesses."

Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Miss., chairman of a House subcommittee on transportation, said his subcommittee would begin hearings on Johansen's bill and other bills dealing with hijacking planes.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., chairman of a Senate Commerce subcommittee, said his group would consider similar bills Friday.

Crews To Be Armed

The government yesterday authorized the arming of crews of commercial airliners in view of an attempted hijacking incident at El Paso, Tex.

Najeeb E. Halaby, administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency, authorized this step in a telegram to all U.S. air carriers.

He said crew members should be armed "only when they have recent training and demonstrable proficiency" in the use of sidearms.

He also announced that the federal government is offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of persons attempting hijacking of planes.

Powers May Be Sent To Red Work Camp

NORTON, Va. (UPI) — The parents of an American spy pilot brought down over Russian territory disclosed Thursday that their son hopes to be paroled from a Soviet prison to a work camp within three months.

Oliver Powers, father of U2 pilot Francis Powers, said the information was contained in one of six letters received from his son during the month of July.

Powers was convicted by a Russian court of espionage and sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Bourguiba Invites French To Settle Tunisian Dispute

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba Thursday openly invited France to settle the Bizerte dispute through negotiations. He hinted that future cooperation between the two countries is still possible.

The Tunisian president also appealed indirectly to the United States to put pressure on France to induce it to negotiate on gradual evacuation of its troops from the big naval base at Bizerte.

He promised a "reasonable evacuation calendar" and said once the problem is solved "we could start again the work of construction."

Bourguiba's statement, made at a news conference and simultaneously broadcast over the national radio, struck an optimistic echo among Western diplomats in the Tunisian capital.

His speech was seen as by far the most conciliatory and constructive since Tunisia's pressure on France to pull out of Bizerte exploded into bloody fighting which claimed at least 670 Tunisian lives.

Bourguiba's frequent references to President Kennedy's statement on underdeveloped countries were seen as another sign that the Tunisian statesman is still counting on the West.

Kennedy, Bourguiba said, "is a sincere man, a man who believes in what he says." He said he realizes that America's alliance with France puts Washington in a delicate situation.

Bourguiba promised to stop Tunisia's diplomatic drive against France at the United Nations if the French agree to negotiate on withdrawal of this troops from Bizerte.

Asian and African diplomats at U.N. headquarters were close to signing up the majority of members needed to call a special General Assembly session. It appeared the Tunisians were using this threat of a U.N. condemnation as a lever to bring France to the bargaining table.

Bourguiba warned that if France fails to negotiate, he would be forced to pursue his proposed plans. He admitted that the consequences of a U.N. showdown could be grave and hinted that he hopes the United States will see that they are avoided.

West May Ask UN To Review Berlin Crisis

PARIS (UPI)—The Western allies were reported Thursday to be considering taking the Berlin crisis before the United Nations General Assembly meeting next month.

Informed sources said a United Nations airing of the Berlin issue was one of the prime courses of action being considered by a four-nation diplomatic "advance party" meeting in Paris.

The advance men are preparing the way for the conference here Saturday of the U.S., British, French and West German foreign ministers.

The idea of seeking a U.N. debate on Berlin apparently has supplanted tentative proposals for the calling of a 51-nation German peace conference.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt was the first prominent Western figure to suggest a peace conference of all the countries that were at war with Nazi Germany. Some U.S. Democratic senators, notably Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., supported the proposal.

Pilot Killed In Patrol Plane

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (UPI)—A single - engine plane patrolling power lines hit a power line and crashed in flames near Haverhill Thursday, killing the pilot, Arthur Ray Oyster, 37, Louisville, Ohio.

The plane was patrolling the Ohio Power Co. lines near Haverhill about 20 miles southeast of here when it struck a line carrying 34,000 volts.

Oyster burned to death in the flaming plane which crashed in a field near a chemical plant. It was sometime before authorities could get the body out and make an identification.

Power in a 15-mile radius of the crash was cut off for about 2½ hours.

Duck Eliminates His Competition

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (UPI) — A duck owned by David Lazar of Tonawanda, N.Y., earned the title of "Happiest Pet" Thursday at a playground pet show—he also was the "Most Hungry."

As the pets lined up for awards, the duck broke loose from its master and gobbled up a frog, two worms and a cricket.

All the victims were contestants.

Father, Son Thwarted In Plane Theft

President Kennedy Gives Direct Order To Get Pirate Team

By WILLIAM C. PAYETTE

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — FBI agents, under orders from President Kennedy, used fists and bullets Thursday to prevent a father-and-son air pirate team from getting away with a hijacked $5 million Continental Airlines jetliner and flying it off to Fidel Castro's Cuba.

It took more than nine hours to get the hijackers — ex-convict Leon Bearden, 38, of (310 W. Erie) Chandler, Ariz., and his 16-year-old son, Cody—off the plane and into handcuffs.

The plane had a total of 73 passengers on it when the father and son seized it at gunpoint in the air outside Phoenix, Ariz. They let off all except 10 hostages—four passengers and six crew members—at El Paso.

Bearden and his son were arraigned late Thursday before U. S. Commissioner Henry C. Clifton on federal charges of kidnaping and transporting the stolen plane across a state line. The son was additionally charged with violating the Federal Juvenile Delinqnecy Act.

Clifton set bond for father and son at $100,000 each. They both pleaded innocent. The maximum conviction on a federal kidnaping charge is death.

Has Arrest Record

There was no emplanation of why two Americans should try to pirate a plane and take it to Cuba. The elder Bearden has an arrest record dating back to 1941 and now is on parole from a first degree robbery conviction in 1957.

He contacted the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City last January and indicated he wanted to go to Cuba, authorities said.

Kennedy ordered that the hijackers not be allowed to swap the Boeing 707 for a propellor-driven DC7. Kennedy left it up to FBI agents on the spot whether to let the 707 take off.

The pilot said he thought Bearden was "just a desperate man, wanting to get out of the country." He said Bearden told him he had nothing to do with the Castro regime; he simply wanted to get to Cuba.

FBI agents and border patrolmen kept the plane from taking off from El Paso International Airport by shooting holes in the tires and stopping one engine with submachine guns and rifles.

Then, after a siege of more than nine hours, an FBI agent and border patrolmen got on board and jumped the hijackers. The hijackers fired one bullet through the floor with a 45-caliber pistol.

But they were subdued, handcuffed and rushed off by FBI agents for questioning.

The hijackers seized the plane about 5 a.m., EDT. They held a 45-caliber pistol and a 38-caliber pistol on the pilot, Capt. B.D. Rickards of Redondo Beach, Cal. and ordered him to fly to Havana. There were 73 persons on board.

Hijackers Keep Hostages

Richards said he did not have enough fuel to fly to Havana and had to land at El Paso for refueling. The hijackers decided to let 61 passengers get off at El Pasto because a pregnant woman started to get hysterical.

They kept four volunteers from among the passengers as hostages, along with six members of the crew. The pilot suggested trading a DC7 for the jet. He said a huge 707 jet would have trouble landing at Havana.

As the pilot taxied toward the runway, 15 FBI men and border patrolmen rushed under the wings despite the blast and noise of the jets. They shot out the tires and one engine. Tracer bullets cut paths through the undercarriage.

The jet stopped. One of the hijackers sat in a window, making obscene gestures at the estimated 200 officers — FBI men, border patrolmen, Texas department of public safety, El Paso police and deputy sheriffs — swaming helplessly about.

At 1:55 p.m. EDT, Francis E. Crosby, agent in charge of the FBI office, went on board unarmed. That temporarily diverted the attention of the hijackers.

The stewardesses — Lois Carnegey and Tonie Besset, both of Inglewood, Calif. — kicked open the back door and dropped out.

Jack Casey, who works for Continental in Houston, Tex., and Fred Mullen of Washington, dropped out with the stewardesses. Officers, not sure who they were, collared and handcuffed them.

Crosby told the hijackers that "on the highest government authority" they were not going to get away with anything. He or-

Big 3 Powers Ask Reds To End Border Pressure

BERLIN (AP) — The Western Big Three occupying powers asked the Soviet Union Thursday to end restrictions without delay on free movement of commuting workers into West Berlin from Communist East Germany.

Generals commanding the U. S. British and French troops in Berlin sent identical letters of protest to the Soviet commandant, Col. Andrei I. Solovyev.

There was no immediate indication of reaction. The Soviet Union usually says it has no authority over East German Red officials, who are taking sharp action against people under their control with jobs in West Berlin.

Communist police during the day grabbed identity cards from some commuters and sent them home.

These measures have so far succeeded with only a small number of the border-crossing commuters. Most of the estimated 80,000 managed to get to their jobs. How long they will be able to do so is not clear.

West Berlin authorities said about 800 have given up their jobs.

The three generals said the action against the commuters is inconsistent with Western - Soviet agreements, objectionable on humanitarian grounds, and bound to worsen the atmosphere in Berlin.

West Berlin officials said, meanwhile, the East German police had taken new action to force East German townsmen near Berlin to give up jobs in West Berlin. They said the police had started picking up the identity cards of such East Germans and issuing them special ones barring them from Berlin.

About 52,000 East Berliners and East Germans are registered of-lin. Another 25,000 to 30,000 work there "black"—that is, without registering.

Refugees, against whom the Communists are also taking measures, continued to arrive in West Berlin at a 1,500-a-day clip. There were 1,155 officially counted up to 4 p.m. Thursday when the books closed for the day at Marienfelde reception camp.

Hundreds of others arrived and were put up by friends, or flew out immediately to West Germany without registering here.

The Communists, campaigning heavily against the refugees, said they were being lured away by "slave traders."

Swiss Diver Locates Death-Bus Engulfed In Sea Of Mud

Authorities Plan Salvage Operation In Effort To Recover Fifteen Bodies

LUZERN, Switzerland (UPI) — The holiday bus that plunged into Lake Lucerne Wednesday, carrying 16 Americans to their death, was found Thursday engulfed in mud "as black as death."

The bodies of 15 Americans remained in the bus, 150 feet below the surface of the lake. Diver Siegfried Naumann said the mud gripped the bus in a sucking vice that might make it impossible to recover the bodies.

As he groped about the bus deep below the picture-postcard lake, Naumann called up through a tube: "The water is black as tar. And the mud, is as black as death."

In 90 minutes below surface, Naumann recovered only one item — a black raincoat. He said the bodies were not visible —"This mud covers everything."

Twenty-two other persons escaped from the bus in the three minutes it stayed afloat, after it had hit a truck, torn through an iron fence, and plunged into the water.

Naumann said the bus, found earlier Thursday by huge electronic magnets, was upside down. He warned it might sink even deeper into the mud if it is jerked and moved in recovery operations. But authorities still planned to attach ropes to the axles and haul it up.

Of the 38 persons aboard the bus, 35 were Americans, the driver was Italian, and there were two Swiss guides. One body was recovered immediately but 15 others were believed trapped in the bus.

The survivors, many of whom were being treated in nearby Stans Hospital, Thursday, lost everything they were carrying on the bus, including money, tickets home, and other items.

Cardinal Canali Dies Following Heart Attack

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Nicola Cardinal Canali, "Premier" of the Vatican state, died Thursday at the age of 87. He was the second of two close friends and advisers of Pope John XXIII to die within five days.

Cardinal Canali, considered a leader of the Vatican's "old guard," was too weakened by protracted illness to withstand a heart attack suffered during the night.

Pope John, who Wednesday presided at funeral services for Domenico Cardinal Tardini, was informed immediately of Cardinal Canali's passing and he retired to his private chapel to pray. Cardinal Tardini died Sunday of a heart attack. He was 73.

The two deaths reduced the Sacred College of Cardinals to 82, plus three more named "in pectore." Their indenties are known only to Pope John, who will announce their names when he sees fit.

Cardinal Canali had been ill in his Vatican apartment with bronchial pneumonia for more than two months. Last week he suffered a severe relapse and his three doctors said there was little hope. After he lapsed into coma Tuesday, the end was only a question of time.

As president of the Pontifical Commission for the Vatican state, Cardinal Canali in effect was premier of the 108-acre Vatican enclave. Among other influential posts he held was that of Papal Penitentiary Major.

dered them to surrender.

FBI agent Bob Nagel had managed to slip on board. A local border patrol man also got on. Ed Gilman, another border patrol officer, already was on board; he was a volunter hostage.

Nagel and the local border patrol officer hid in the cockpit. The boy went to the back. Gilman jumped him. Looking through a crack in the cockpit door, Nagel and the local border patrol officer jumped the father.

The father's jaw was laid open. Gilman suffered a cut on his jaw. The father fired once through the floor of the plane before his pistol was wrested away.

The FBI brought the son out in a full Nelson grip. Both hijackers were rushed off to the county courthouse, which was promptly put off limits to all except those working there.

Congress Passes Compromise Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress Thursday passed a compromise farm bill to cut the government's price-support stockpile of surplus grain by paying farmers for not growing wheat, corn, and other grains in 1962.

The House approved the omnibus bill on a roll call vote of 224 to 170. The Senate then passed it by voice vote and sent it to the White House. The actions came less than 24 hours after the bill had been approved by a House-Senate conference committee.

President Kennedy, already had said he approved the bill even though it gave him only part of the new powers he wanted to strengthen the farm economy. He was expected to sign the measure into law quickly.

The bill contained the stop-gap program the administration requested to force wheat growers to reduce plantings at least 10 per cent next year in exchange for generous subsidy payments.

Langston Indicted On Perjury Charge In Referendum Petitions

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — William Charles Langston Sr. of Glen Burnie, indicted on a charge of perjury in a probe of referendum petitions filed in Anne Arundel County, was released under $1,500 bond Thursday.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Alan Shipps said Langston was arrested Wednesday night by Anne Arundel County police and held overnight in the county jail.

The county grand jury indicted Langston Monday but the indictment was kept secret until after the arrest. He was accused of perjuring a referendum petition filed against the savings and loan regulatory bill approved by the 1961 General Assembly.

Marylands' Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan declared the petition invalid because of alleged irregularities.

Langston was charged on two counts — that he had falsely sworn all the signatures on the petition were those of qualified registered voters, and that they had been signed in his presence.

Officials said they were instructed not to release the indictment, dated Aug. 1, until after the defendant had been arrested.

Martin To Build Floating Atomic Electric Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army awarded a contract Thursday for a floating atomic-powered plant to be installed in a surplus liberty ship.

The Martin Co. of Baltimore was assigned the contract to design, build and test the 10,000-kilowatt plant.

The total contract will amount to $16,998,127, but the first phase calls only for a $644,046 expenditure for design. The contract requires completion of design in 15 months and construction and testing in the next 3 years.

The floating nuclear power plant will be used to provide electrical power to military installations in coastal areas or to communities damaged by peacetime disaster or wartime attack.

Cancer Causes Death Of Orangutan

BALTIMORE (AP) — Cancer apparently has caused the death of Josephine, an orangutan, at the Baltimore Zoo.

Zoo Director Arthur Watson had hoped Josie would bear the first orang ever born here.

But an abdominal growth which zoo officials had interpreted as a sign of pregnancy proved to be a cancerous growth. Josie died during the night, and her body was found by keepers at the Mammal House Thursday.

Josie and her surviving mate, Jiggs, were brought here in October 1955, at a cost of $4,000. The pair was a gift of the Baltimore Sunpapers.

Campers Honor Agent On Job Anniversary

The seventh anniversary of Miss Mary P. Wise as Allegany County home demonstration agent was celebrated Tuesday at the Adult Women's Camp, being held at the Western Maryland 4-H Center, Bittinger. The evening was climaxed with Miss Wise being made "Queen for a Day."

Under the leadership of Mrs. Marguerite Keller, nine Catholic campers held a vesper service. A "Fun Night" followed with pantomimes, a radio show, an operation, a night in Honolulu, mock wedding and a mock Homemakers meeting. The program concluded with a grand march, and refreshments were served.

During the morning Charles Strauss, biology teacher at Northern Garrett County High School, spoke on bees and displayed a partial hive. He also conducted a nature tour.

Workshops, held each day, include the making of miniature felt mice book marks, Christmas tree decorations, as well as angles on spindle decorations, waste paper cans and hand-painted aprons.

Recreation included boating and swimming.

Monday evening Mrs. Theresa Coleman showed moving pictures of New Guinea; Miss Wise showed nature slides and flower arrangements, and Miss Eileen Morgan, Frostburg, who was one of the 4-H Club members to represent Maryland in the 1960-61 Minnesota-Maryland 4-H exchange program, told of her trip through Minnesota, including the conference at the university and the dairy show at Long Prairie. Miss Morgan is lifeguard at camp this year.

Following the covered dish family picnic for the opening of camp, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Miller and family conducted a vesper service on the banks of the river. A trio from the Springs Mennonite Church sang four selections. Miss Wise and Mrs. Eva Barton extended the welcome. A get-acquainted party followed and an initiation ceremony was held by Mrs. Paul Gilford and Mrs. Katie Kilroy.

It was noted that the 39 campers range from 35 to 83, including a mother of eight whose family made it possible for her to attend this year.

THE PHARMACIST WON'T TELL YOU WHAT DRUGS ARE IN A PRESCRIPTION

COMPLAINTS WE HEAR

The pharmacist won't tell you what drugs are in a prescription or what they do. He has no right to do so. Professional relationships between physician and pharmacist are confidential. The physician knows the patient, and his illness; the pharmacist knows the drugs, but not necessarily the doctor's purpose in prescribing the drug.

Most of today's modern drugs have a great variety of applicatoins. The same drug may be used for fifteen or twenty different conditions none of which are related except possibly by one or two common symptoms. So you see, it would be foolhardy for any pharmacist to attempt to guess at what the doctor had in mind when he wrote a particular prescription.

At Walsh-McCagh, we do not try to second guess anyone. We are much too busy making sure that the prescriptions brought to us for filling are compounded exactly as written by the physician. When you have a prescription to be filled, you want it filled accurately, quickly, professionally and at the lowest price possible. That, in short, is what we offer.

Green Spring School Closing Protested

The Hampshire County Board of Education has voted to reaffirm a decision to close the Green Spring elementary school and consolidate it with the elementary school at Springfield, according to Bernard D. Hughes, superintendent of schools.

Hughes said that the action was taken Tuesday night by the board. A public hearing was held in the matter last Friday with about 40 residents of Green Spring appearing to protest the proposal.

In making the announcement, Hughes listed some of the reasons for the Green Spring closing and transfer of the pupils to Springfield. He said letters will be sent out to the various parties concerned.

Hughes said that the Board of Education has the authority to close or consolidate schools in the event it is deemed necessary. In the case of the Green Spring School closing, Hughes said there has been a school population decline in both Green Spring and Springfield and the latter community has a school with eight rooms while the former has only three rooms.

A saving of $12,000 to $15,000 would be realized annually by the consolidation, Hughes said. He said that the approximately 60 children from the Green Spring area could be transported to Springfield without any crowding of the latter school.

Springfield School has a capacity of 240 to 280 pupils and last school term only 150 attended. Hughes also pointed out that the children of one grade would attend class in one room instead of having several grades in one room as was the situation at Green Spring.

The Board of Education also explained that there would be two less teachers required as a result of the consolidation. Hughes said it was difficult to obtain certified teachers for the Green Spring School. He said last year there were seven different instructors used there.

Hughes also said that the distance between Green Spring and Springfield is only seven miles and the road is hard surfaced and practically level the entire way. He said the shuttle bus which would pick up children in the Green Spring vicnity would be started out a little bit later than last year and the children from the community would leave for Springfield between 8:15 and 8:20 each day. Students of high school age are transported to Romney High School, which is about nine miles further away.

The people protesting the move have retained Attorney William H. Ansel of Springfield to represent them. The attorney said today he had not yet been advised of the board's action but would await a meeting with the committee of Green Spring residents before any decision is made for further action.

The Green Spring residents stated at last Friday public hearing that the removal of the school would lower property values in the area and be generally a detriment to the community. They also state many of the children would be away from home as long as nine hours daily if they had to attend the Springfield school.

Approval Given Piedmont Levy

PIEDMONT—The annual levy for the fiscal year has been approved by the Mayor and Council. The estimate of income and disbursements was placed at $36,685.

The tax rate, the same as for the past several years, is as follows: Class 1—12½ cents on each $100 for personal property and public utilities; Class 2—homes, 25 cents and Class 4—50 cents for real estate and rental. The assessed valuation is estimated at $3,073,000 and estimated taxes, $12,359.

The levy will be forwarded to the state tax commissioner at Charleston for final approval.

Youths Fined, Sentenced On Larceny Count

Two Michigan youths were fined $100 each and sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction yesterday after being convicted of petty larceny.

The youths, William Kazmicki, 19, and Richard Urban, 18, were sentenced by Trial Magistrate Paul W. Barnett.

Magistrate Barnett suspended the jail sentence and placed both youths on parole for a two-year period. However, they were committed to the Allegany County Jail for 30 days in default of the $100 fine.

The youths were apprehended earlier this week in connection with the theft of two commercial money orders from a counter at Keech's Pharmacy, 43 Virginia Avenue, last Thursday night.

Capt. Det. James E. Van, who arrested the youths near Hyndman where they were working, testified yesterday that the youths admitted the theft.

Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, presented the state's case. The defendants were not represented by counsel.

Granted Beer Permit

A permit was granted today by the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage Commissioners to the Cumberland Fair Association to sell beer during the Fair starting August 14.

At the bridge table, as in other activities, even the most hopeless cause merits at least some effort.

for an apparent loss often can be recovered if declarer will just keep a stiff upper lip and play on. South, in today's hand, conceded a one trick set with far too much haste.

North sorted his cards with great pleasure and opened with two no trump. When his partner responded with three spades, he felt that his hand was too good to offer a mere raise, so he temporized with four clubs. South showed his second suit and North, impressed with the fit, jumped to five spades.

South, though he held only six high card points, recognized the great trick taking potential of his hand and, deciding that his diamond void was a key value, contracted for slam.

West opened the king of diamonds. Declarer ruffed and on the first lead of trump West showed out. South gave vent to an appropriate outburst and declared himself down one as he conceded two trump tricks to East.

Now it is true that the situation appeared hopeless, but nothing surely could be accomplished by giving up except the saving of a little time which in this case did not appear vital. South might just as well play along for a few tricks, without any expense and with very little effort.

If East has three cards in each of the other suits, the hand can actually be made. Declarer should take the first trump lead with the king or ace, then ruff another diamond, and then cash three hearts and three clubs and ruff dummy's last diamond. This brings all down to three cards. Declarer passes the eight of spades into East, who must lead away from the queen-ten.

Iced Tea -- The Cool Summer Refresher

You maybe aren't one of the lucky ones who can beat the heat this summer by going to the beach every day or taking dips in your own pool. But you can cool off at home by drinking frosty cold glasses of cooling, thirst quenching iced tea.

Iced tea has been our most popular summertime cooler since 1904 when Richard Blechynden, an exhibitor at the St. Louis World's Fair, hit on the idea of putting ice in his hot tea and serving it to the sun drenched, parched fair goers. Today Americans consume over 10 billion glasses of iced tea during the summer months.

Tea is one summer beverage which isn't filling, with a cloying aftertaste like so many sweet carbonated drinks. It's always non-filling and non-fattening. You can drink glass after glass without adding any calories. In fact, a tall sparkling glass of iced tea has no calories, compared with the 65-100 calories in sweet carbonated drinks. Economical too! Only a penny a glass.

For a glass of thirst quenching iced tea simply put one rounded teaspoon of Instant Tea into a glass of cold tap water and stir. Add ice, sugar and lemon to suit your taste. For a quart of iced tea, just put 4 rounded teaspoons of instant tea into a quart of cold tap water and stir.

Making your iced tea this easy way is just the beginning. It's fun to glamorize your iced tea with all sorts of fancy, fruity garnishes and citrus juices.

Practically any fruit juice will combine beautifully with iced tea. Bright-colored fruit flavors that are especially good tasting companions are grape, lemon, orange, pineapple, cranberry, grapefruit, and raspberry juice. Apricot nectar, lemonade and limeade are also refreshing flavor complements to iced tea.

The number of garnishes you can use is limited only by your imagination. Take, for example, lemon, lime, or orange wedges, mint sprigs, fresh pineapple spears, sugar frosted grapes, fresh strawberries, and maraschino cherries. Thin wedges of peeled cantaloupe or honeydew are also good. It's also fun to make fancy cubes, or freeze a mint leaf, bright berry or cherry into the center of each. You can also try tinting your ice cubes with food coloring. For a special touch make a fruit kabob for a fruity stirrer. Simply place a pineapple cube, slice of lemon or lime, sprig of mint, cherry and fresh strawberry on a stirrer and serve with your iced tea.

Your iced tea containers can be sporty or sophisticated. Serve your iced tea in a brandy snifter, colorful mug, sherbet glass, or old-fashioned glass. And for an outdoor party or barbecue supper, serve your iced tea or tea punch in a hollowed out watermelon gaily garnished with citrus slices and maraschino cherries. Float watermelon balls in the punch.

Tea and the fruits of summer will be your most popular beverage for these sweltering days.

This Week In Congress by Rep. Charles Mathias

Some months ago I voted for the Area Redevelopment Act of 1961. I have been very enthusiastic about this legislation from its inception in Congress since it contains many provisions which offer wide opportunities for new vitality and progress throughout much of Maryland. Let me draw your attention to some of the important consequences of this program.

Last week a number of areas in Maryland's Sixth District were designated as "redevelopment areas" by the United States Department of Agriculture. As a result of this decision these areas —including all of Washington and Garrett counties — are now eligible to receive Federal grants and loans for developing industry and establishing needed public facilities.

Let me emphasize that classification of a redevelopment area under the 1961 Area Redevelopment Act does not mean automatic aid. Responsibility rests with elected officials as well as all citizens to prepare dynamic and progressive plans for economic growth in the areas. As the Redevelopment Act specifies, qualified areas must first gain State and Federal approval of an overall program of economic development before consideration can be given to financial assistance for specific projects designed to create permanent employment opportunities. Thus is is now up to all residents of the redevelopment areas in Maryland to join together in formulating plans and carrying those plans into action for the economic development and consolidation of the Sixth District. My Washington office has already received a number of inquiries from industrial concerns interested in possible relocation in designated redevelopment areas.

As an example of what this program can do for the Sixth District, let me mention the recent case of Gassville, Arkansas. That low-income rural area in the Ozark Mountains received the first assistance provided to any redevelopment area under the new ARA program. A loan of $31,000 and a grant of $129,000 helped to finance a water system in the small town which will make possible the operation of an area-financed shirt factory that will in time employ 1500 persons.

In the weeks and months ahead I want to see loans and grants from this program awarded to areas in our Sixth District. But it will take imaginative planning on your part and a deep faith and interest in your communities. I have often thought, as I know you have, of the vast potential development that exists in our counties. This area redevelopment program now presents an opportunity to transform our potential energy into active, far-reaching progress.

Raspberry Punch

(8-10 servings)

2 Cups water
¾ Cup lemon juice
¼-½ cup sugar

Ski Ball

1 quart hot tea
4 lemon slices
8 whole cloves
4 sticks cinnamon
4 tablespoon honey

Stud each lemon slice with two cloves and place with a stick of cinnamon in each mug. Stir honey into hot tea and pour into mugs. Makes 4 servings.

Versatile Chicken

Chicken is such a versatile favorite that good cooks are pleased, but not surprised, to discover a delicious new way to serve it. However, Sherried Chicken Saute is currently sweeping the country. Its special appeal comes from the truly succulent sauce made with Italian-style mushroom sauce enhanced by the nutty flavor of California Sherry. Bright green pepper adds a note of color.

This is really a delightful way to enjoy the young fryers which are so plentiful this time of year. Glasses of chilled white wine, served with them, will compliment the wine flavor in the chicken and increase enjoyment of the meal.

Try Baked Broccoli Pie

1 egg white
1½ cups dry bread crumbs
¼ cup melted shortening
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup liquid from cooked broccoli
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon thyme
1 small bay leaf
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup grated, process cheese
1 cup diced, cooked, ham or canned luncheon meat
12½ stalks cooked broccoli (9-ounce package frozen broccoli)

To make crumb crust: Beat egg white until foamy. Add dry bread crumbs and shortening. Reserve ¼ cup mixture for top of pie. Press remaining mixture firmly and evenly against the sides and bottom of a (9-inch) pie pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for fifteen minutes.

To make filling: Mix together cornstarch, broccoli liquid and milk in a saucepan until smooth. Add salt, thyme, bay leaf, and onion. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Remove bay leaf. Add butter, cheese and ham; stir until cheese melts. Over the crumb crust, radiate the broccoli stalks with tips at edge of crust. Pour ham and cheese mixture into crust. Sprinkle remaining crumb mixture over top so as to form wheel spokes. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for twenty-five minutes. Let stand five minutes before cutting into wedges for serving.

Yield: 6-8 servings.

⅓ to ½ cup sugar
1½ to 2 teaspoon rum flavoring

*You may use 4 Tea Bags or 4 teaspoons tea in place of the Family Size Tea Bag.

Sandwich Supper

A Meal-in-One Chicken Sandwich makes a superb luncheon or supper dish. Make a medium thick cream sauce using 1 cup milk and 2 tablespoons flour seasoned with butter, salt and pepper. Add 1 egg yolk and cook a few minutes more stirring constantly. Add ½ cup cubed cooked chicken and ⅝&..¾⅞⅞⅞⅞⅞ chicken and ¼ cup diced green pepper. Pour the sauce over Melba toast in a shallow baking dish. Top each sauce covered piece of toast with a tomato slice and a slice of cheddar cheese. Rim each "sandwich" with finely chopped cooked spinach. Bake 15 minutes in a 400 degrees Fahrenheit oven and serve at once.

Entertaining friends in the afternoon? Here's a Chicken Mousse that's sure to impress and please them. Soften one package of unflavored gelatin in ½ cup cold water, and dissolve in 2 cups hot chicken stock or bouillon. Season with grated onion, Worcestershire sauce, paprika, salt and pepper. Chill until slightly thickened. Mix in 2 cups diced cooked chicken, ½ cup finely chopped celery and ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper. Reconstitute ½ cup nonfat dry milk with ½ cup water and beat until stiff. Beat in 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Fold into the gelatin mixture and chill until firm. Serve on crispy fresh watercress or other salad greens.

Or serve this tempting Baked Chicken Casserole, a dish you can just slip in the oven and forget until the guests arrive and it's time to eat. Using a 2 to 2½ pound cut up chicken, dredge pieces in flour seasoned with salt and pepper, and brown in ¼ cup butter. Place pieces in a casserole, add ½ cup sliced fresh-cooked or canned mushrooms and 1 cup sour cream diluted with 1 cup water, sprinkle lightly with thyme, and cover. Bake for 1 hour in a 325 degrees Fahrenheit oven. Serve over fluffy rice or boiled potatoes.

Senate Cloakroom
by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Last Tuesday evening, over the TV and radio networks, President Kennedy reviewed the Berlin situation, and pointed out that the best possible assurance of world peace would be for us to be strong. He outlined plans for building up our military might. It was a thoughtful, reflective talk. In case of a national emergency, party lines always disappear. We will all give whatever support is necessary. To pay the cost of the military build-up, we will have to tighten our belts and give up unnecessary spending. The sympathy of the American people is with the President. They hope he will surround himself with seasoned, experienced men on whom he can depend for sound advice. This is no time for academic, amateurish advice.

FOREIGN AID — Two features of President Kennedy's foreign aid request assure that it will be given a rough time. One is the very size of the request. The other is a proposal to by-pass for the next five years the purse-string controls of the appropriations committees with respect to a big part of foreign aid spending. Congress has granted for foreign aid an average of 3.2 billion dollars a year for the years 1955 through 1961. President Kennedy has requested 4.8 billion for 1962. In the original Eisenhower budget for 1962, it was contemplated that Congress would consider all the proposed foreign aid funds through the regular appropriations process. The Kennedy request, however, calls for funds to be provided through the backdoor spending route — and more of the same for each of the four years after 1962. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has approved the request. It remains to be seen what changes will be made on the Senate floor, then by the House, and finally in conference.

The program is going to be examined closely. The President has candidly admitted these failings in the program: waste, duplication, delays, lack of comprehensive planning, lack of competent career servants to administer it, and lack of coordination with other nations. The President says, however, "that for every example of waste, there are a hundred examples of prudent and successful projects — that, for every nation cited as no better off as a result of our aid, there are a dozen nations which have strengthened their economies and resisted both external and internal attacks, with the help of American goods, food, and dollars."

OUTER MONGOLIA — Outer Mongolia is a Red satellite, a province of Soviet Russia, and I am shocked at the suggestion that the Administration is considering our giving it diplomatic recognition. Recognition would imply acceptance of the fiction that this Red satellite is "an independent nation." It would do great damage to the U. S. position in the Far East and would represent a form of appeasement. It is feared that the real aim of the left-wing forces supporting Outer Mongolia's recognition is not to obtain "a listening post," as claimed, but to soften up the American people's resistance to recognizing Red China.

MEDICARE? — Last year Congress declined to be rushed into an extension of the Social Security system to cover health insurance for the aged; it enacted instead the Kerr-mills bill for a program of assistance through the States to help bear medical costs for the elderly where need exists. Already 27 States have put the Kerr-Mills program into operation. It helps some who would not be aided by the more socialistic bill backed by the Administration. Furthermore, a great deal of medical care is provided by Federally supported welfare or old-age assistance payments, and by municipal hospitals and philanthropic organizations.

Adoption of the Administration-sponsored King bill would open a large door toward socialization of medical services not only for the elderly but for people of all ages. Some of its advocates have avowed that intent. Payment for health services through Government insurance would operate almost inevitably to regiment the practice of medicine and to restrict the selection of a physician, hospital, or healing method. Many believe it would lower the quality of health services, while adding the cost of a Federal bureaucracy.

The voluntary systems which are developing under the Kerr-Mills law and through private insurance give promise of meeting the nation's requirements efficiently and effectively with a preservation of individual freedoms and initiative. They deserve a fair trial and an opportunity to show what they can do.

SPACE PROGRAM — The United States is making great strides in space. The second U. S. astronaut, "Gus" Grissom, went into space and was returned safely through the atmosphere. He traveled at speeds over 5,000 miles an hour 118 miles above the earth and landed exactly where he was supposed to land. His swimming the last 70 feet of the trip, because of an escape hatch blowing out after he had landed, was just part of the day's work. The next goal is to send a man in three great sweeps around the earth and recover him at sea.

President Kennedy has signed the bill to speed up efforts to land a man on the moon. About 400 million dollars was provided for this program in the year ahead. Over the next 10 years the cost will run into possibly 20 to 30 billion dollars. Many pros and cons have been advanced as to why this gigantic expenditure of scientific effort and taxpayers' money would or would not be a wise undertaking. Those in favor, with whom the President has sided, argue that the Soviets are programing an ambitious space program which doubtless will include spectaculars such as a voyage to the moon, that it will have military applications, and that, therefore, to limit America's efforts in this field would jeopardize American security as well as prestige. They argue that the United States will hardly be able to propose a system of international law governing outer space, or an international pooling of space exploration, if its own space stations do not exist and if it is not on the way to making its own landings on the moon. No one knows what the by-products may be—what new metallurgy will develop, what new types of rocket fuel, what nuclear advances, what biology, what rocketry and space-station technology. Tomorrow's space technology may have many applications here on earth; it may also have applications in terms of military hardware and strategy.

A Maryland high school senior, Miss Carolyn Fobbs, has won a national contest with an essay on "I Speak For Democracy." Her essay, too lengthy to reprint here, is inspiring. In one place, the thoughtful teen-ager said: "Only in a democracy may an individual grow to his full possibilities whatever they may be; my form of government has given me a future which I hold in my own hands."

Yes; our forefathers handed down to us the most noble experiment in government. It was founded in religious faith, conceived and nurtured by self-reliant, courageous men and women who were willing to give their genius, their energy, even their lives, to preserve it. When the President, in his inaugural address, exhorted, "Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country," he struck a spark in our hearts. It was as though, for one fleeting moment, the new President made contact with the self-reliance of our pioneer heritage. The people responded with a feeling of pride and courage, as they recognized, perhaps only subconsciously, a basic statement of American faith. Let us be loyal guardians of our heritage.

Shrimp Casserole

A Shrimp Casserole makes an attractive company dish, but may well serve for regular family meals. Arrange the following in layers in a greased 1½-quart casserole: 1 cup cleaned cooked shrimp, 2 sliced hard-cooked eggs and ½ cup sliced ripe olives. Repeat these layers using the same amount of ingredients. Cook ¼ cup chopped onion in 2 pats of butter until soft. Add a can of grated sharp cheese and light cream, and season with dry mustard. Blend until smooth. Pour over the layers. Top with buttered bread crumbs and chopped parsley. Bake 30 minutes in a 350°F. oven.

For a truly elegant salad, cool and refreshing, try shrimp and Fruit Paradise. Use pineapple shells instead of a regular salad bowl. Cut the pineapple in half lengthwise, and carefully remove the core and meat. Arrange the pineapple cubes, orange sections and avocado slices (sprinkled with lemon juice to prevent discoloration) in the pineapple shells. Drain canned shrimp, chill 5 minutes in ice water, drain again, and arrange on top of the fruit. Serve with a favorite oil or sour cream dressing.

Shrimp makes an excellent stuffing. Try it with roast turkey, broiler-fryers, or duck. It goes well as a meat stuffing, too. For a 4-pound bird, cut ½ pound thawed pre-cooked frozen shrimp into small pieces. Cook the shrimp with ½ cup chopped onion and 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, in 3 tablespoons butter or fat, until the onion is tender. Combine 1 beaten egg and 2 tablespoons milk, and season with thyme, salt and pepper. Add it to the shrimp mixture with 3 cups soft bread cubes. Mix together until moistened.

Hot Fruit Punch

1 cup strong Tea
1 cup pineapple juice
1 cup orange juice
2 cups water
¼ cup sugar
6 pineapple spears
24 whole cloves

Combine tea, fruit juices, water and sugar. Heat to a boil. Place clove studded pineapple spear in each mug. Pour in hot punch. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Do you flinch from close inspection because of an oily skin? Make that self-consciousness disappear.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

To Remove The Shine From An Oily Skin

The girl with oily skin usually cares little that her type of skin ages less rapidly than if it were dry. She's much too self-conscious about the shine on her face, constantly caking makeup and the blemishes that are part of her problem.

There can be nothing half-hearted about the care of oily skin. Even cleansing must be extra careful and frequent because the oil attracts dirt and holds it. But the right cleansing plus two special treatments I'm about to describe do result in wonderful improvement — in self-confidence as well as looks — in a matter of weeks.

Cleansing should be thorough at least three times a day. Remove makeup with a non-oily or liquifying skin cleanser and wash the face with tepid water and a floating soap. Work up a good lather and gently massage it into the skin with the finger tips or a complexion brush. Rinse well and pat dry, then use an astringent and let it air dry. Use a night care lotion that discourages oily secretions.

Once every week, use tincture of green soap that can be bought at a drug store. Apply it to your face gently and rinse it off until the water runs clear. If your face is sensitive afterward, follow the soap with a sparing amount of solid albaline and let it remain on the skin overnight.

Weekly, but three days after the green soap, make an oatmeal mask for your face. Beat an egg to a froth and add enough uncooked oatmeal to make a stiff paste, then enough water to make it spread smoothly. Apply the mixture generously, skipping only the areas around the eyes. Now lie down for ten minutes to let the mask do its work. Afterward, the mask strips off with the aid of a tablespoon, and the last few flecks wash away in warm water held in cupped hands.

Talkative Nation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three out of four American homes have telephones, the Census Bureau reported Wednesday on the basis of a survey taken in March, 1960.

It said 39.3 million households, or bout 75 per cent of the nations' 52.6 million homes have telephones. Two years earlier the ratio was 73 per cent.

ANCIENT AUTO

PARIS (UPI) — A 28-year-old automobile will have a starring role in a motion picture to be filmed in Morocco, Greece and Turkey.

The car, a 1933 Rolls Royce, is the central "figure" in "The Rolls of Gold," written by Tom Rowe. The film is the first to be scheduled for production by the new Mediterranean Studios Association, organized by Marion Gering, former Hollywood director. Filming starts in September.

The M.S.A. will utilize existing film studios in Athens, Rabat and Istanbul in a deal designed to develop Morocco and Turkey as motion picture production centers with recognized commercial value.

NATURALLY

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — One of the dancing girls in "The Music Man" complaining about having to report for 9 a.m. rehearsals told director Morton DaCosta, "Dancers and burglars do their best work after dark."

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I got my engagement ring last night and I wanted you to be among the first to know because I think you are responsible.

My boy friend tried to talk me into a few things which I didn't think were right. After a couple of months of battling I knew I needed outside help or I would collapse, so I sent for your booklet "Necking and Petting and How Far To Go."

Whenever I felt myself weakening I took the booklet out of my purse and read him certain sentences. At first he said "Ann's probably a shriveled up old crow who has never had a date in her life. That picture of her must be 30 years old."

Then his brother wrote that he heard you speak and that you were not an old crow, but a fairly decent looking woman. I guess that turned the tide because from then on he stopped making fun of your booklet and last night he gave me my ring. Thanks a lot. —J. R.

DEAR J. R.: You're welcome. From the tone of your letter I don't think you need to send for the follow-up booklet called "Before You Marry — Is It Love or Sex?"

DEAR ANN: My husband's older sister is ruining my life. She'll be 66 next month (a widow) loaded with dough and strong as a mule. She drove alone from Maine to California last winter and changed two tires on the road. Ruth plays poker four nights a week, takes mambo lessons and lives it up. She'll go any place at the drop of a travel folder but when WE want to leave town she becomes mysteriously ill.

Last week we were packed to leave on a fishing trip up north. She phoned at 2 a. m. to say she was having a heart attack. We rushed over there and the doctor said she had a slight muscle spasm in her left arm. (I'll bet she'd been playing the slot machine.)

My husband says he knows she's a liar but if anything happened to her while he was away he'd never forgive himself. What can I do? — CAN'T COPE

DEAR COPE: If your husband knows she's a liar and continues to fall for her dramatics then he's pretty bugged, too.

It sounds as if Ruth travels it up pretty good. Why not plan your trips to coincide with hers? Then if she has a heart attack in Las Vegas while you are in Wisconsin your husband will be able to forgive himself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You gave the right answer to that woman who wanted to know if she should change her son's last name so that it would be the same as his stepfather's

My mother was a widow, too, and when she remarried I had to keep my blood father's name because it said so in the will. My stepfather had sons and it was hard for me to accept them as brothers for a long time because of the different last names.

All through school I had to answer questions and I hated it. It seems very odd to kids that brothers should not have the same last name. Unless children are almost grown, it is my firm belief that their names should be changed when their mother changes hers. — ODD MAN OUT

CONFIDENTIAL TO POOR-FARM FRANK: A wife who goes so completely wild with the charge accounts should be put on a limited allowance. She sounds ill.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

4-H Tractor Driver Event Set For Cumberland Fair

Approximately ten members of the 4-H Boys Club of Allegany County will participate in the tractor operators contest at this month's Cumberland Fair.

James B. Arnold, assistant county farm agent, who is in charge of the contest, said only those boys who attended a series of winter meetings are eligible. The winner will represent the county in the state contest at Timonium later this month if he is over 14 years of age.

The local contest is scheduled for Thursday, August 17, starting at 1 p. m. The boy with the lowest score is adjudged the winner. In addition to the operation of the farm vehicle, contestants will also be given a written examination of 25 questions.

Boys will be judged on safety and skill in operating tractors over a rigid obstacle course featuring sharp turns. Hitting stakes of changing directions, other than those necessary, will cost the contestants points. Maneuvering both two-wheel and four-wheel implements are included in the contest.

The average time for running the course is about five minutes.

Arnold will be master of ceremonies.

The traditional list of wedding anniversaries recommended by social authorities includes wood for the fifth anniversary, tin or aluminum for the tenth, crystal for the 15th and china for the 20th.

Kelly Employe 'Sailor Of Month'

A sergeant on the police force at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant has been chosen "Sailor of the Month" by officers in the Naval Reserve Surface Division here.

Willys L. Smelser, 34, who resides on Maple Street in Bowling Green, was selected on the basis of drill attendance, military bearing, application to duties and advancement in rating, according to Gerard P. Calhoun, commanding officer of the unit.

Smelser, machinist's mate first class, has been a member of the Naval Reserve for seven years, and during World War II served aboard the cruiser, Duluth, which participated in the invasion of Okinawa and operated with the Third Fleet in the Pacific Theatre.

He also was stationed with the occupation forces in Kure, Japan, immediately following the war.

Smelser has been employed by Kelly-Springfield for the past 10 years.

He is married to the former Miss Leona Collins, of Ridgeley. The couple has a daughter, aged 11, and a son, 9.

Farmers Should Report Damage By Deer

Theodore Thoerig, field investigator for the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, said farmers or orchardists having deer damage to crops or orchards should contact him.

This is in connection with the continued deer study, he said.

81 Join Army Here During Fiscal Year

The Army recruiting office in the Cumberland Post Office processed 81 young men into the Army during the fiscal year that ended June 30, M-Sgt. Thomas Walbert, local recruiter, announced yesterday.

During fiscal year 1961, recruiters in the Second U. S. Army Recruiting District enlisted enough young men to comprise almost three modern pentomic infantry Divisions. Col. Fred J. Martineau, district commander said.

There were 33,212 enlistees including 806 young women recruited from the seven-state Second Army area which includes Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and the District of Columbia, Col. Martineau said.

This percentage of enlistees was the largest in the United States and resulted in the Second Army capturing the annual recruiting award which will be presented by the Secretary of the Army.

The trophy is given annually to the Army area which accomplishes the highest percentage of their assigned quota and personnel procurement.

In addition to accomplishing 121 per cent of the assigned objective from the Department of the Army, Second Army led all other Army areas in percentage of enlistments every month from August 1960 through May 1961. nounced yesterday.

A Code Complete With Loopholes

A new code of conduct forbidding government employes from using their official status for private gain may be a helpful guide for conscientious workers. But it may be too flexible to accomplish much with those looking for loopholes.

Note the general language. The code says that no employe "may solicit or accept directly or indirectly anything of economic value as a gift, gratuity or favor which might reasonably be interpreted by others as being of such nature that it could affect his impartiality, from any person, corporation or group."

The catch is in the words "of economic value." Is a fruit cake or a bottle of whisky or some gadget received as a Christmas gift of sufficient "economic value" to affect the impartiality of the employe? Maybe not, but there have been instances of public employes receiving as many as 100 gifts at Christmas.

The economic value of such an accumulation can be considerable. What is the government employe to do—refuse even the small gift? The code isn't precise on that point.

He is forbidden to accept a gift "that might reasonably be interpreted by others" as affecting his impartiality. But who is to know what interpretation "others" will put upon any gift and, indeed, what is a reasonable interpretation? Wouldn't it have been better to have banned all gifts?

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Too Much Secrecy

The news policy of this Administration is neither wise nor efficient. It will not last long. It will only stimulate good reporting which has long been absent, particularly from Washington.

Secrecy leads to rumors and guesses. Congressman Pelly of Washington asked to be furnished with the names of American firms seeking export licenses to deal with Soviet countries. Such data is available in the Department of Commerce. I quote Representative Pelly:

"While my request has not as yet been formally acknowledged, I do know the nature of the reply I shall receive. When Secretary Hodges appeared before the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee on July 11, an opportunity was presented for me to personally ask about the matter, and the Secretary stated that the decision had been made not to disclose the names of any firms doing business with the Kremlin."

Why the secrecy?

Do the firms in this business need protection from boycott or mayhem? If it is as bad as all that, why would they want to do business with Soviet countries? If Americans are ashamed to do business with Iron Curtain countries, they should not do it.

It must be said that the policy of secrecy is at least 20 years old. It did not originate in the Kennedy Administration. But that does not alter the fact that we are dealing with it now and a decision concerning it needs to be made now. It will be recalled that when Mikoyan came to this country, he was wined and dined by American businessmen and bankers. The businessmen were looking for contracts and undoubtedly some got some.

The excuse generally given is that permits are only given for non-strategic material—a term hardly definable in this age of total war. Is wheat non-strategic? Canada ships enormous quantities of wheat to Red China. No item can be strategically more important because Red China is going through a periodical famine. Does Canada, for a profit, wish to keep Mao Tze-tung's regime in office? Even if it is true that business has no conscience, it is also true that nations can go under by making fundamental mistakes in policy.

There can be no excuse for the blabber-mouth in any department, as there can be none for the indiscreet boaster or the homosexual who is subject to blackmail. Nevertheless, a broad, general suppression of information does not succeed. It can only lead to rumor and guessing.

During certain periods of the Roosevelt Administration, it was easier to get accurate information concerning the Administration from London than in Washington.

It may be recalled that we were told that nothing of a secret nature was concluded at the Potsdam Conference. Also, it may be recalled that the reason World War II started was that Germany and Russia invaded Poland. At the conversation between Stalin and Harry Hopkins on May 27, 1945, the Top Secret document to our government stated:

"It is therefore in Russia's vital interest that Poland should be both strong and friendly. He (Stalin) said there was no intention on the part of the Soviet Union to interfere in Poland's internal affairs, that Poland would live under the parliamentary system which is like Czechoslovakia, Belgium and Holland and that any talk of an intention to Sovietize Poland was stupid . . . . The Soviet system was not exportable—it must develop from within on the basis of a set of conditions which were not present in Poland. He said all the Soviet Union wanted was that Poland should not be in a position to open the gates to Germany and in order to prevent this Poland must be strong and democratic."

We know today from the course of events that Stalin was lying. We know that even at that time, Stalin was organizing to make Poland a satellite and that Marshal Rokossovsky was delegated to take control of Poland.

Admiral Zacharias, one of the greatest intelligence officers we have ever had, reported:

"Here again we failed to recognize a major engagement in the cold war, for the Rokossovsky appointment was the first step in a premeditated move to deploy the Soviet forces for the showdown. The strange assignment of a Russian marshal to command a nominally alien army was, indeed, by far the most important show of Stalin's hand."

Reporters at the time evaluated what they could learn of this differently, but it is preferable to have differing reports than none at all.

Ex-Lobbyist For Steamship Group Now Drafts Shipping Legislation

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson is now in Germany checking firsthand on the Berlin crisis. In his absence his column is being written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — In the great game of political pressure, lobbyists are expected to confine their activities to the Capitol corridors and cocktail lounges. But the shipping interests have managed to put a lobbyist on a key Senate committee where he is now drafting the legislation he was formerly paid to peddle.

This dexterous young man is Donald D. Webster, who has the clean-cut, close-cropped look of an Ivy Leaguer.

Back in 1958, he passed the hat among 23 big steamship companies and collected $58,487.40 to set up a Washington lobby. Its purpose: to perpetuate the dual-rate system under which the steamship companies fix rates and grant discounts to faithful shippers.

The shipping men were spurred into action by a 1958 Supreme Court decision which struck a blow at dual-rate practices. Congress passed a quick, temporary measure to permit the industry to continue its old ways until new legislation could be worked out.

As secretary-treasurer and chief lobbyist for the steamship group, Webster hurried up to Capitol Hill to persuade Congressmen to enact into law the system the shipping companies wanted.

But the House Merchant Marine Committee didn't adopt what the shipping men wanted at all. Impressed by disclosures that the big ocean freighters had been flagrantly violating the maritime laws, the committee passed a tough measure that would police the industry and take away past privileges.

Changes His Hat

While this legislation was in the works on the House side, Webster quietly dropped his role as lobbyist and turned up as chief counsel of the Senate Merchant Marine Subcommittee.

He is now paid by the taxpayers to help draft the very legislation he used to be paid by the steamship companies to promote.

It is a happy assignment for the ex-shipping lobbyist, who met with lawyers for the steamship interests only a few days ago to work out a substitute for the tough House bill.

Subcommittee Chairman Clair Engle of California, who gets his advice on such matters from Webster, invited the steamship companies to submit "some language with which ship operators, the shippers, and our foreign competitors can live."

This amounted to an invitation to the shipping men to draft the law under which they would be regulated. Both American and foreign lines, which work together to fix rates, obligingly sent their attorneys to consult with Webster.

Out of this skull session, needless to say, came a proposed bill that would wipe out the House reforms. It would also modify a $1,000-a-day penalty clause, that has been in the law since 1916, for certain maritime violations.

This little item could make a difference of many million dollars for the taxpayers. For several of the big shop operators now face a grand jury investigation which could subject them to the $1,000-a-day fine for violations dating back several years.

The shipping companies' happy helper, Don Webster, also arranged Senate hearings which he tried to stack in favor of the industry's soft-boiled proposals.

Who Killed 'Dead Horse'?

He went through the motions of inviting opponents to testify but warned them not to bother to discuss the House reforms.

"The House bill is a dead horse," he repeated in at least two telephone calls.

One who was called, J. Richard Townsend, attorney for the Pacific Coast Coffee Association, protested indignantly in a letter to key Congressmen:

"In the course of my conversation with Mr. Webster, he stated that any recommendations for strong regulation in the dual-rate bill are not being favorably considered by the Senate committee. . . . We hope that if the Senate adopts any such bill as outlined by Mr. Webster, the House will not agree to it."

How did a shipping lobbyist, who also happens to be a Republican, become chief counsel for the Democratic-dominated Senate subcommittee that passes on shipping legislation?

He was recommended to the subcommittee by George Killion, a Democratic power in California, who has raised campaign funds for Senator Engle. Killion also happens to be president of the American President Lines which contributed $4,111.20 to Webster's former lobbying operation and once hired him as a full-time Washington representative.

Webster is also a political protege of Sen. John Marshall Butler, Maryland Republican, who first brought him to Capitol Hill as an aide. The bright-eyed Butler, who has the expression of a startled Robin, represents the Republican minority on the Merchant Marine Subcommittee.

Webster's comment given to this column: "It is true that I was a lobbyist for the steamship companies before I came to the subcommittee. But no one who knows me would question my integrity."

Quotes And Quips

Pretty Pat Donovan, secretary to Food-For-Peace Director George McGovern, was showing three priests around the White House the other day when they almost bumped into President Kennedy rounding a corner. The President stopped to shake hands and invited them to inspect his office. Said Father James Michael Doyle afterward: "I was more excited than when I met the archbishop." . . .

Minnesota Sen. Hubert Humphrey, reflecting on the role of lobbyists confessed recently that he had been a fair-trade advocate ever since his boyhood spent in a drugstore. When a lobbyist for fair trade laws comes around, Humphrey said, "I don't think of him as a lobbyist with an ax to grind but as a man with sound judgment and good will." . . .

House Clerk Tom Carruthers is obliged to walk a tightrope between those two feuding, cantankerous House leaders, Speaker Sam Rayburn and Rules Chairman Howard Smith. The harassed Carruthers is particularly careful not to talk out of turn to this column, which Smith hates with a Southern passion. For all Carruthers' care, however, his name happened to appear the other day in a routine column story blasting Smith. Carruthers waited in trepidation for his boss's reaction. "Good morning, Tom," greeted Smith sweetly. "I see by the newspapers that you have arrived."

New Balanced Defense Theory Will Be Costly

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

American defense spending will almost certainly remain, hereafter, at the level of about $46,000,000,000 to $47,000,000,000 a year. This level has been reached, this year, because of the emergency appropriation requests caused by the Berlin crisis; and it is also beginning to be regarded as the right and useful permanent level.

In itself, this is a fact of much importance. Another five to six billion a year of defense money, annually injected into the economy will have all sorts of significant impacts. Yet the background fact, which explains the expectation of permanently increased defense spending, is really very much more important.

More defense spending is needed, in plain truth, because Secretary of Defense McNamara has been quietly junking the dominant strategic concepts of the Eisenhower era. The "new look" theory, adopted in 1953 to justify a reduced defense budget, has been tossed in the discard in favor of a new theory of balanced defense.

The "new look" theory was carried to its logical limit when the late John Foster Dulles proclaimed his doctrine of "massive (unclear) retaliation." It downgraded the conventional weapons. It made the nuclear weapons, not just the weapons of last resort, but the orthodox weapons of modern warfare. As formulated in a series of National Security Council directives of the Eisenhower era, the theory called for use of nuclear weapons in any conflict more serious than a local police action.

This theory has not been junked by Secretary McNamara because he is an eager spender of public funds. He is the very opposite, probably to a degree that is dangerous in a Secretary of Defense. The "new look" theory has, in fact been abandoned for the more costly balanced defense theory, solely because it was considered to be hopelessly unworkable.

It had left the United States with quite inadequate means to fight anything but a nuclear war. But a nation with globe-encircling interests and commitments cannot afford this posture. A small, wholly self-contained nation might perhaps say, "If anyone puts a foot across our borders, we'll drop a thermonuclear bomb on him." But you cannot say, "We'll drop thermonuclear bombs if Communist guerrillas are sent into South Vietnam."

This enormous flaw in the "new look" theory was proven in the last Eisenhower years, when Communist guerrillas were indeed sent, both into Laos and South Vietnam. A conventional response—the dispatch of American ground troops to Laos — was very seriously considered by President Eisenhower. It is probably going to prove tragically unfortunate that this Eisenhower plan was not carried out by President Kennedy.

But neither President Eisenhower, nor his Secretary of Defense, nor anyone else in his Administration, ever gave the remotest consideration to defending Southeast Asia in the manner called for by the "new look" theory — with thermonuclear bombs. Meanwhile, the shortage of available ground troops, resulting from the "new look" theory, was a prime reason for President Kennedy's failure to send American forces into Laos.

But the newly adopted theory of a balanced defense is not just intended to cover this sort of situation. It is more ambitious than that. It is intended to provide the means for a rational, measured response to any kind of challenge, all the way from a local guerrilla probe to a Soviet thermonuclear strike.

The best proof that the balanced defense theory does not downgrade or neglect the ultimate weapons is to be found in the immense amount of attention paid to these weapons by the McNamara team. More money is being put into the weapons themselves. More money is also being put into control systems, hardened sites, and other devices to increase the range of possible responses. For even if ultimate weapons have to be used, there are other things to do besides using all of them at once, in a single destructive burst.

But of course it costs money to abandon the idea that any war this country fights will consist of a single, terrible destructive burst. It is remarkably economical to base defense planning on the unspoken assumption that if war comes, the outcome will be known within eight or ten hours. The other approach demands expenditure on more divisions, and more tactical aircraft to support them, and more transport aircraft to provide mobility and many other costly things.

All the same, five to six billion dollars per annum, or about 1 per cent of the national product, is not a large additional sum to pay, in order to purchase a wordable national defense.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

VIRTUOSO — Rep. Emanuel Celler, (D-N. Y.), has built up a warm friendship over the years with a Republican colleague from Pennsylvania, Rep. Carroll Kearns. In high good humor the other day Kearns told the following story on Celler, in the words Celler told it to him:

"When I was a little fellow, I used to play the violin. My father invited Fritz Kreisler in to listen to me play one day and when I had finished the third movement of the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto, my father turned to Kreisler and asked: 'How do you like his execution?' To which Kreisler replied: 'I am in favor of it'."

ACCIDENT INCIDENT — Sen. Frank Church of Idaho was notified that his 3-year-old son "Spuddy" had suffered an accident to his eye. Not knowing that it was of a minor nature, Senator Church rushed to the hospital.

Running up to the first woman in white he saw, the Senator breathlessly introduced himself and hastened to say, "My little boy has been brought here. He's had a bad accident to his eye, and . . ."

"I know," interrupted the woman in white. "I'm your wife."

Hot Weather Not So Bad If You Get Used To It

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most people object to hot weather but it's not so bad after you get used to it. This may take two or more days, depending upon what the individual is doing. Acclimation is delayed by spending most of the time in an air conditioned room; but out of door activity steps it up.

It may be smart to relax or take a siesta during the middle of the day but inactivity has little cooling effect. The system adjusts to the heat faster with normal activity or light exercise.

The salt requirements in torrid weather are influenced by our adjusting mechanism. Most of us get along with normal amounts unless we are working hard and perspiring profusely. The need for salt lessens as the person becomes inured to high temperature.

Perspiration is loaded with salt during the first sizzling days but the amount lessens as we become accustomed to the heat. In this way, needed salt is retained and adding more to the diet only creates thirst.

Some methods of cooling off are not as practical as we have been led to believe. A cool shower or bath, for example, cleans and refreshes temporarily. But cold contracts the skin capillaries and produces a bloodless layer of insulation on the surface. This is the way the system behaves in winter to conserve heat. The opposite must be encouraged so that the capillaries will dilate and bring more blood to the surface, where it is cooled. A hot bath does this but the added heat may be oppressive. Use tepid water.

Many find relief at the beach but this is not always satisfactory unless the individual remains in the water. When the temperature of the air is 105 degrees F. the ground temperature is 145. This is why sidewalks and sand are too hot to walk barefoot. A breeze from the lake or ocean has a cooling effect, especially when the skin is drenched with water or perspiration.

TOMORROW: The lens of the eye.

BOUTS OF GOUT

J. B. writes: Does gout medication have to be continued indefinitely or can it be stopped at intervals?

REPLY

It should be continued indefinitely by those who have had several acute attacks.

SWIMMING AFTER SURGERY

W. E. A. writes: Is it safe for a person to take swimming lessons after having an ulcer operation four months ago?

REPLY

Yes—but no belly flops.

LET SON DECIDE

A. R. writes: My son is engaged to a girl whose mother is extremely overweight. Her older sisters are fast becoming overweight although they were normal when they married. A fat wife would not fit in with our son's future and he says she has promised not to let herself go. Please advise worried parents.

REPLY

Your son will settle his future when he marries "for better or for worse." Let him do the worrying. He may change his mind about fat girls during the next 10 years. If he remains in love and his wife gains weight, he may decide there is more of her to love.

OLD SCARS

E. M. writes: Two years ago I burned my left arm with a curling iron. Is there any way the scar can be eradicated?

REPLY

Yes, but operation would be required and the surgeon should be able to remove the ugly car with or without the use of a skin graft.

CROTCHETY ARTHRITICS

F. H. writes: Does arthritis make a person nervous and irritable?

REPLY

Any infirmity is likely to make the victim cranky, particularly one who is sensitive and can't take it.

GROWNUPS GET IT, TOO

C. V. writes: At what age is rheumatic fever most common?

REPLY

In children between the ages of 5 and 15. But adults are not immune. In World War II there were more than 40,000 cases among members of the armed forces.

SPURRED SPINE

T. J. writes: My husband went to our doctor because of pain in the neck. X-rays showed spurs between the vertebras. Can these projections be removed by surgery?

REPLY

Surgery is not recommended for this purpose, except as a last resort. A neck brace is more helpful because it relieves irritation.

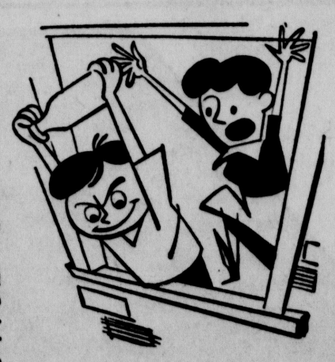
To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Sam Levenson tells about the day his mother collared him just as he was about to drop an empty milk bottle on the noggin of his public school principal from a window in his seventh story apartment. "Have you lost your mind?" cried his mother, giving him a whack over the ear. 'The grocer gives us five cents apiece for empty milk bottles like that."

A ravishing young nurse had just broken her engagement to her doctor fiance and was tearfully reporting the details to her roommate. "Do you mean to say," demanded the indignant roommate, "that that cheap palooka actually demanded every one of his presents to you back?" "Not only that," sniffed the bereft young nurse, "but he handed me a bill for 46 visits."



Co-ed to her studying companion: "What more could any girl want on a cold evening than a warm robe, a glass of milk, a good book to study and — oh, thank heaven! The phone is ringing!"

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Sen. Barry Goldwater

(Editor's Note: Jim Bishop has left for Europe and will write from abroad in about a week. Today's column was written by Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona. It's about vacation memories of his family).

About 15 years of our family life has been spent apart, with only a few "now and thens" when we have been as one. It has been hard on us, but it has made each of us respect and love each other more and, at the same time, has whetted our desire to make our gatherings real occasions — which they are.

When we get together, we show movies and slides of past vacations when the children were younger. Little Peggy can't appreciate them because she is too young, but my other children — Barry, Mike and Joanne, and their Mommy, love to see them and remember.

Rainbow Lodge has long been the center of operations for our outings. I have been a partner in an Indian Trading Post there for many years. My wife, Peggy, and I spent our 15th wedding anniversary camped 11,000 feet up on Navajo Mountain, where the post is located. With two good friends, the Holloways of Los Angeles, and Whitey our guide, we packed bedrolls, a chocolate cake and a bottle of champagne.

Then there was the trip down the Colorado with my two sons, all of my nephews, and 20 boys from the YMCA. I was chief cook and bottle washer. We had 12 days of real fun that time. I have promised the girls that they will make such a trip someday when Congress doesn't stay in session all summer.

Mommy once went on a trip with me down the middle fork of the Salmon. We ran into a blizzard and the weather was biting cold, but the fishing was great. Sometimes, when we're together, we talk of trips we have made to the Snow Bowl up near Flagstaff, or down to the Grand Canyon, or the time all of us went to the bottom of Supai Canyon to visit the Indians and see their beautiful waterfalls.

One Christmas long ago we had a fresh idea. The whole family rented a house in Nassau and we spent two weeks of leisure and enjoyment. We fished from the boat of a friend, and spent as much time skin diving as we did on the surface. In Nassau, Mike bought a symbol of our Christmas gatherings.

It was a pewter beer mug. On it, we have engraved the place where we spent each Christmas vacation and the names of those present. Now, with grandchildren, it is wonderful to wach the engravings grow around the beer mug.

One of the great Christmas vacations was spent at Acapulco. The house came complete with a Mexican family. Not one member could speak English. Joanne and I used our lame Spanish and we did all right. We fished and swam and went water skiing all day and, in the evening, we watched the jai-alai games.

The best evening of that vacation was when our oldest, Joanne, and I set out in the moonlight to meet the rest of the family, on the other side of the bay. We went for a wade in the ocean, stopped in a cantina for a tequila, danced together at the Esqui Club and then walked down the 84 steps that led from the dirt road to our house, counting out each step in Spanish. Mommy was at the bottom, wondering what all the noise was about.

Three years ago, we built a new house. My friend Paul Jones, chairman of the Navajo Tribal Council, named it Be-Nun-I-Kin. It means House on Top of the Hill. There is where we gather now, and the fun goes on. My birthday is New Year's Day and the boys gave me a small cannon. Now, on New Year's Eve, that thing is fired with solemn ceremony.

Come to think of it, all of us are interested in guns. We have built ranges on which we fire different pieces and, when Mike isn't tired, we use the 12-gauge guns on clay pigeons. Another of our rituals is the gathering of wood for our Thanksgiving fire.

It seems strange that people who come from the warm deserts of Southern Arizona would enjoy a roaring fireplace, but we do. We go to the slopes of Sunset Crater, an extinct volcano, and there are thousands of dead pines lying around. The knots are knocked out with an axe or a sledge hammer. In a couple of hours, we have a truckload.

Our fire never goes out. Now, with an expanding family of two granddaughters — Caroline and Cynthia — and one expected in a few weeks, maybe I'll get a chance to be a real grandfather and sit by the flickering fire and spin stories meant for young

Keyser Chief Cites Problem Of Juveniles

KEYSER — A serious juvenile problem in the City of Keyser was cited yesterday before members of the Keyser Rotary Club in an address by the new chief of police, Ralph Marsh.

The chief explained to Rotarians that he and the force will do everything within their power to strictly enforce the law and that he will try "to be a good chief." He said there has been evidence of vandalism in some sections of the city, speeding by teenaged drivers, and many reports that youngsters tell their parents they are spending the night with friends and then roam the streets and drive around throughout the night.

He gave a brief personal background of himself and explained the qualifications expected of one in his profession. He pointed out that the police force is working around the clock to restore order among the young people of the area and that while he will be "impartial" at the same time he will also "be firm."

The chief requested the help of all citizens, particularly the parents, in coping with the situations he outlined.

Two Paperworkers Retire At Luke

LUKE — Two workers at the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper retired Tuesday after long service with the company.

Frederick S. Riggleman, Westernport, started work at the mill 38 years ago in the boiler house and was serving in the lubrication department upon his retirement. He is a native of Keyser.

Charles M. Clark, Luke, worked at the mill for 39 years. He was a quality supervisor in the cutter room when he retired.

PSC Committee Seeks Secretary

KEYSER — A five-man committee to consider proposals for the hiring of an executive secretary for the Potomac State College Alumni Association was named by Thomas J. Conlon, president of the organization.

Assisting T. Warner Lowry, chariman, will be J. Paul Blundon and Joseph W. Kessel, of Keyser; Dr. Lawrence Fanti, Piedmont; and William M. Thompson, Westernport. The first meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mr. Blundon on South Main Street. Mr. Conlon and Kenneth F. Haines, alumni secretary, will serve as consultants for the committee.

Selection of the special group to lay the basic plans for the acquisition of a permanent secretary on the campus is a result of a recent meeting held at the Upper Potomac Shrine Club at which time a representative group of college alumni and business and professional people from the community heard the project outlined.

Should the alumni act favorably on the committee's findings the college has agreed to provide office space for the permanent secretary on the campus. The person chosen for the job would be hired on either a part-time or full-time basis and work in one of several offices being created through a remodeling project of the old library.

A spokesman for the department said "no disease can be conquered overnight, but many can help overcome and conquer poliomyelitis by having children and adults, alike, protected with at least four injections of the vaccine."

Each Saturday morning from 9 a. m. until noon the vaccine is given according to the recommended schedule at the local health department in the Mineral County Court House. Parents up to 40 years of age are requested to take advantage of the clinics and especially to bring their children from three months of age to receive the vaccine, which is given free.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars padded their Rocking Chair Softball League lead yesterday by blanking the Celanese A. A., 3-0, as the second-place Loyal Order of Moose tossers bowed to the Knights of Columbus, 3-1.

Pete Elliott tossed a four-hitter to beat Shorty Long in a hurling duel at Celanese field as the Vets registered their 19th triumph of the campaign against five defeats.

Shortstop Jimmy Eckard was the big gun for the Vets with a triple and two singles at the plate while he and Third Baseman George McGregor starred in the field. Gene Davis made several nice catches for the Celanese in right field.

The loss was the 10th for Celanese in 24 games and prevented them from tying the Moose for second place in the standings.

The Knights of Columbus turned back the Moose as Allan Sheetz outdueled Hayden Phillips in a battle of four-hitters.

Sheetz singled home a pair of runs in the first inning for the winners and Jimmy Collins and Norm Geatz added two-baggers to the K. of C. attack. Paul McGregor had a pair of singles for the Moose and Dick Klavuhn prevented a shutout by belting a solo home run for the losers in the seventh.

Al Martin starred at third base defensively for the Knights.

In other Rocking Chair games the Elks belted Pittsburgh Plate, 11-6, at Stitcher Field and Ritter's A. C. whipped C & P Telephone Company, 15-1, at Campobello.

In the Elks game Bobby Williams collected three hits for the winners while Koelker and Curtis belted home runs for Pittsburgh Plate.

Bunk Warnick and Dave Ritter pounded out circuit blasts and Ritter added a triple to lead Ritter's to its victory. Joe Scarpelli with a triple and Hoppy Crabtree with a double joined in the extra-base bombardment. Glenn Kauffman held the Phonemen to two hits while winning his 11th game. The results:

Westernport defeated the league-leading Barton Braves for the third time this year, scoring a run in the ninth inning to edge the Braves, 6-5, yesterday in an extra-inning Twilight League thriller at Westernport.

Cokie Robertson won the game with one inning of relief pitching.

Jim Wilson had three hits for Barton while Muir and Ray Vinci each had a double and single.

Joe Niland and Jay Hill belted home runs for Westernport while Niland also collected two singles. Coleman had a single in addition to his game-winning double.

W. Va. Streams Spotty; Fishing Not Rated Good

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia anglers apparently will have to pick their streams carefully this weekend if they hope to have any luck at all.

The Natural Resources Department said Thursday prospects again this week end are "spotty" with some streams running clear and others muddy.

The Elkins region and the northwestern area streams were all listed as high and muddy.

The South Branch, Shenandoah and Potomac Rivers in the Eastern Panhandle were reported clear as were the Greenbrier River and Bluestone Reservoir in the southeastern sector.

Conditions were mixed in the central area, with the Sutton Reservoir normal and clear and Elk River high and muddy.

However, it was pointed out that although some of the larger streams are muddy, there may be good fishing in smaller mountain streams if no more rain falls.

Venturi And Lema Pace Eastern Open With 68s

Doug Ford Trails Leaders With 69

BALTIMORE (AP)—Tony Lema chipped the ball into the cup from 35 feet away on the 12th hole for an eagle three Thursday that enabled him to tie his California golfing buddy, Ken Venturi, for the first-round lead in the $35,000 Eastern Open at four strokes under par.

The two San Francisco Bay golfers fashioned their rounds of 68 with scores of 34 on each of the nine holes at the 6,820-yard Pine Ridge course.

Venturi and Lema held a one-stroke lead over their nearest pursuers among the 138 starters in the 72-hole tournament that will wind up Sunday.

Doug Ford, from Crestwood, N.Y., and Rex Baxter Jr., from Amarillo, Tex., lodged themselves in the runner-up spot with scores of 69.

Gene Littler, the defending champion from Singing Hills, Calif., got off the turf for a comeback 70 that tied him with several others.

Doug Sanders, pro's third biggest money winner, chopped three strokes off par in his first six holes only to blow up and finish with an even par 72.

The 30-year-old Venturi first posted his 68 based on half a dozen birdies and a pair of bogeys. The 27-year-old Lema, a great admirer of Venturi after playing with him at the San Francisco Country Club, matched it 10 minutes later with four birdies, two bogeys and his crucial eagle.

At the 507-yard long 12th, Lema smacked a 3-iron shot to the edge of the green and chipped into the hole to gain two precious strokes on par.

Venturi, a slender 170-pounder similar to Lema, started his par busting on the 430-yard second hole with a 20-foot putt for a birdie three. He lost his touch on the fourth and three-putted for a bogey four, but conquered par again on the sixth and ninth with putts of eight and five feet.

Detroit Edges Senators, 2-1

Colavito Blasts 30th Home Run

DETROIT (AP) — Jim Bunning's four-hit pitching and Rocky Colavito's 30th home run enabled the Detroit Tigers to defeat the Washington Senators 2-1 Thursday.

Winning for the seventh time in his last nine decisions, Bunning kept four singles well spaced, struck out six and walked only two in nailing down his 12th victory in 20 decisions.

Colavito's home run, a vicious liner into the lower left field seats, came when he led off in the fourth inning and gave Bunning the edge in a tense pitching duel with Bennie Daniels. Daniels allowed seven hits in the seven innings he worked. Johnny Klippstein finished.

Colavito drove in Detroit's other run with a first-inning single.

Bob Johnson scored Washington's only run. He started the third with a single, went to second on a walk, to third on a bunt and home on an infield out.

McGuire Skips Loaded Queries

Says Warrior Owner Gave Him Control

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Frank McGuire skirted a few loaded questions Thursday, his first as coach-vice president of the Philadelphia Warriors of the National Basketball Association. McGuire has signed a three-year contract.

"I'm not going to answer any loaded questions until I've had a chance to observe things for myself," said the 46-year-old former University of North Carolina coach.

The questions McGuire referred to concerned Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, 7-foot-1 Warriors' star, and the degree of team control owner Eddie Gottlieb had promises him.

Informed that former coach Neil Johnston felt Gotlieb had one set of rules for Chamberlain and another for the rest of the team, McGuire replied:

"I'm not going on what someone else says. I'll form opinions from my own observations. If what I observe necessitates corrections, they'll be made quickly."

McGuire did say that he believes a team has to work as a team. "The players have to work together. The players are the essence. To survive you have to get them to put out for you," he asserted.

As for his control over the team and who will make the decisions, McGuire said Gottlieb promised him complete command.

Beau Prince To Run At Chicago Saturday

CHICAGO (AP) — Beau Prince, Calumet Farm entry, was flown in from the East Thursday to renew his rivalry with Fred W. Hooper's Crozier in the $100,000 added American Derby at Arlington Park Saturday.

Beau Prince finished fourth behind third-running Crozier in the Arlington Classic. He was withdrawn from the $50,000 Choice Stakes at Monmouth Park Wednesday and loaded aboard a plane for Arlington.

Crozier was the early favorite in a field of about eight 3-year-olds.

Braves Defeat Chicago, 5-2

Burdette Pitches Three-Hit Victory

CHICAGO (UPI) — Lew Burdette fired a three-hitter Thursday to pitch the Milwaukee Braves to a 5-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The 34-year-old Milwaukee righthander had a one-hitter going into the ninth when Al Heist singled and Ernie Banks drove a shot into the leftfield bleachers for the Cubs two runs.

Burdette pitched hitless ball from the third until the final inning, yielding only a freakish infield single to George Altman in the second inning.

The Braves jumped on Cub starter Don Cardwell for two runs in the first inning and ex-Cub Frank Thomas led off the fourth with his 17th home run to give the Braves all the runs they needed.

Roy McMillan also homered for the Braves.

Burdette struck out five and walked no one in gaining his 13th victory of the season in 24 starts.

Dapper Phillies Beat Giants, 4-1, Clinch Flag Tie

The Phillies came from behind in the final three innings to defeat the Giants, 4-1, yesterday at Post Field in a Dapper Division game in the Dapper Dan Little League.

The triumph — 13th in 14 games for the league-leaders — gave the Phillies at least a tie for the pennant as they lead the runner-up Cardinals (11-2) by 1½ games.

Tommy McGeady hurled a five-hitter for the Phillies as he picked up his third mound triumph without a setback. Danny Young was the loser.

Jimmy Bennett smacked a triple and single to lead the victors at the plate while Randy Natale chipped in with a two-bagger and a single and Terry Deremer had a pair of singles. Alderton had a double for the Giants' only extra-base blow.

Bennett and Gary Perkins starred at first and second base with several good plays for the Phillies. The former stabbed at a line drive with a runner aboard in the sixth inning, knocked it down, juggled it and finally caught it for the last out. Jimmy Hamilton played an outstanding game defensively for the losers at third base. The results:

Phillies	000	112—4	9 0
Giants	010	000—1	5 0

Tommy McGeady and Billy Meister. Danny Young and Kunis.

Philadelphia Pick To Defeat Bellino, Snead & Company

By TED SMITS

CHICAGO (AP) — The highest rated group of college football All-Stars ever assembled, with an attack centered around Joe Bellino, Norm Snead, Bill Kilmer and Tom Matte, takes on the Philadelphia Eagles Friday night at Soldier Field before a crowd of 65,000.

The game will be televised by ABC starting at 9 p.m., EST. Hot and humid weather with an outside chance of showers is forecast. Proceeds go to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Collegians Win Eight

In the past 27 games the collegians have won 8 and tied 2, but have always entered the contest decided underdogs. This year the Eagles, National Football League champions, are favored by 9 to 9½ points, fewest ever given the pro champions.

This probably will be the last football game for Bellino, Navy's great back of last year. Now an ensign, he starts a four year Navy stint and after that "I'll stay in the Navy as long as I like."

The collegians' three quarterbacks are looking forward to professional careers—Snead of Wake Forest, Kilmer of UCLA and Matte of Ohio State.

This will be the fourth team coached by Otto Graham, the great pro star of yesteryear who shunned the football limelight after quitting active play and took the job as coach and athletic director at the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn. He won the first game, 35-19, against the Detroit Lions, but lost the next two.

Injuries Bother Stars

Injuries have bothered the All-Stars. Tommy Mason of Tulane, Bob Gaiters of New Mexico State and Jim Johnson of UCLA may not see action.

The Eagles, who flew here from Hershey, Pa., Thursday, have not yet settled on a quarterback successor to the great, retired Norm Van Brocklin. Sonny Jurgensen or King Hill may get the call.

One man's opinion is, of course, just that. . .one man's opinion. And, ours is this. Two All Star baseball games is one too many. Much as we love baseball and as exciting as the all star game is we believe that a second such game can accomplish but two things. Both bad. First, we believe that a second game is strictly an also ran from the standpoint of fan appeal and excitement. Secondly, we believe it is foolish to risk injury to the many valuable players who appear in these games. For the benefit of the fans (and players alike) we're solidly behind the old fashioned All Star Game. . .but why run the added risks of the second game with few if any benefits.

What's your opinion partner?

Speaking of opinions. . .we're convinced that you'll enjoy the hospitality, the atmosphere, the companionship, and the fine food and drink at the Cas Taylor's, corner of N. Mecnanic and Valley Streets.

Scheffing Sees Bertoia, Staley Helping Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—Manager Bob Scheffing thinks his Detroit Tigers still can make a serious run for the American League pennant despite injuries that have sidelined two regulars and bothered the effectiveness of two pitchers.

The Tigers acquired third baseman Reno Bertoia and relief pitcher Gerry Staley from the Kansas City Athletics Wednesday night and Scheffing said both will be used extensively.

Frank Lane, general manager of the Athletics, said it was not an earthshaking deal, the one that sent relief pitcher Bill Fischer, utility man Ozzie Virgil and an undisclosed amount of cash to Kansas City.

"It may not be very important to the Athletics," said Scheffing, "but it could be real earthshaking to us—if Bertoia and Staley do a job for us."

The Tigers recently lost third baseman Steve Boros with a broken collarbone and catcher Dick Brown with a broken finger. Both are on the disabled list.

TOUGH SEASONS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Only two seasons, 1955 and 1960, failed to produce a 20-game winner in the American League since it was organized in 1901.

Race Commission Bans Pain-Killer

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission again has imposed a statewide ban on an analgesic known as Butazolidin, a pain-killer used by horse trainers.

Use of the compound was illeval in Maryland at the start of this year, but the ban was lifted during the last week of the Pimlico meeting in May.

The five-man commission, headed by R. Bruce Livie, reportedly legalized the analgesic because Pimlico was faced with a possible scarcity of horses for the final week of its program.

The commission, in a prepared statement, said the ban was reinstated upon the recommendation of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners.

The bout will be a return match. Machen won a decision in the previous bout last April in San Francisco.

Wilson Has Chance To Boost Earnings

SEATTLE (UPI)—Don Wilson, fireball water jockey of Miss U. S. had a chance Thursday to boost the earnings of the Detroit Thunderboat to $1,900 in the time trials for Sunday's world championship Seafair trophy race here on Lake Washington.

The red-haired Wilson, who came out of "retirement" to drive the big red hydroplane, toured the three-mile course three times at an average speed of 112.971 miles an hour Wednesday to take home $500 put up by the race committee, plus $500 donated by a local department store, for the fastest boat on the course that day.

Stocks Join In Orderly Parade To Higher Levels

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market renewed its march to new record highs Thursday, proceeding in orderly upward fashion with the old-line, blue chip issues acting as parade marshals.

Gains of most issues were held to a fractional range, but the time-tested issues in the basic economic industries, which make up popular averages, showed a number of gains ranging from a point and up.

Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 5.25 to 715.71, another new high.

An estimated $2.3 billion dollars was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on a 1.60 rise by The Associated Press average of 60 issues. This left the AP average at 251.90. Industrials were up 2.60 to a record high, rails up 1.20 and utilities up 0.40, also to a new high.

Trading volume shrank to 3.65 million shares from 4.3 million Wednesday.

The most active stock was Avco Corp., off ¼ at 26⅛ on 85,000 shares.

Nine of the 15 most active rose, four declined and two were unchanged.

All told, 632 of the 1,277 issues traded were higher and 405 lower. New 1961 highs were achieved by 56 issues and new lows by 11.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregularly higher on volume of 1.13 million shares, down a bit from Wednesday's 1.32 million.

Corporate bonds were higher but U.S. government issues declined.

Busy Shriners

Shrine To Hold Family Picnic Tomorrow

Everything is being made ready for the moms and kids of four counties to have a big time with the Noble dads of Ali Ghan Temple at their annual family picnic on the 39-acre grounds of the Shrine Country Club tomorrow, with the activities scheduled to begin at the club's new swimming pool at 11 a. m.

More than 1,500 Shriners and their families from Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties have been invited to attend, and local Shriners have been busy for weeks— usually in the evening after their day's work is done— getting the facilities of the club picnic grounds in top shape for the event.

J. Wallace Close is general chairman of the affair, assisted by Roscoe M. McElfish, William G. Umstot, Lester J. Auker, Droze Zembower, Philip W. Ward, Russell H. Shaffer and Edward T. Evans. Zembower is also chairman of the preparations committee, and between 25 and 35 Shriners have been helping with the club's clean-up, paint-up, fix-up program.

Beginning at 2 p. m. there will be pony rides for the youngsters, with ponies being furnished by Gilbert Haus, Mt. Savage, one of the oldest living members of Ali Ghan. There will be games of all kinds throughout the afternoon, and at 5 p. m. a complete chicken dinner catered by the Shrine Country Club under the management of Ernest B. Treat will be served on the picnic grounds.

Illustrious Potentate Lewis J. Ort will welcome the nobles and their families, a band concert will be given by the Ali Ghan band under the direction of Darrell Zeller, and, following the dinner there will be folk dancing on the club pavilion.

No-Loitering Campaign Continues

Trial Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt is continuing his campaign against drunks and loitering in Cumberland.

Yesterday he sentenced six men to jail terms after they were found guilty on either of the charges. Four others forfeited bond on similar charges when they failed to appear for hearings.

Magistrate Weatherholt sentenced four of the men to 30 days in the Allegany County jail when they were brought before him in Police Court.

In Trial Magistrate's Court he sentenced two men to 15 days in the county jail. One of the men, he said, had been convicted in the state court of being drunk on five previous occasions and can now be charged with being a habitual drunk.

A habitual drunk can be taken into Circuit Court where the judge can order him put in jail or given institutional care, the magistrate said.

Earlier this week 15 persons were rounded up by city police on charges of being drunk, loitering or disturbing the peace.

Two were ordered out of the city and others were given jail terms or placed on the "work gang."

Action Course Seminar Set Here Aug. 9

An Action Course in Practical Politics seminar will be held here next week under the sponsorship of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

William Cardin, a member of the staff of the business relations department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will be the instructor for the seminar planned Wednesday, August 9, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Potomac Edison Office on Union Street.

Invitations to attend the seminar have been sent by Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Chamber, to industries, businesses, banks and utilities of this area.

Many of the problems facing local, state and federal governments, Mr. Petersen said, are a direct result of too few businessmen taking an active interest in government.

During the past year, two classes have taken the Action Course in Politics and both have been termed successful.

The seminar is being held to brief representatives of any group or company desiring to sponsor such a course, and to give information to anyone who might be available to act as a conference leader.

Reservations for the seminar may be made by calling the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Three TWUA Officials Are Paroled

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Three officials of the Textile Workers Union of America, including Carolinas director Boyd Payton, left prison Thursday after being paroled from long sentences connected with a bitter strike at a Henderson cotton mill.

Payton and Lawrence Gore were met by their wive at the Central Prison gate in Raleigh. Payton headed for his home at Charlotte and Gore left for Greensboro.

The third man, Charles Auslander, was released from the Caledonia Prison Farm in Halifax County and headed for his home in Reidsville.

Others Paroled

The three were sentenced to six to 10 years for plotting to destroy vital installations of Harriett-Henderson Cotton Mills, embroiled in the labor dispute with the TWUA.

They entered prison along with five other union members last fall after lengthy appeals failed.

The five other men, who received shorter sentences, already have been paroled.

The men were convicted of leading a conspiracy to bomb and burn an electric transformer, the plant's boiler room and the firm's offices during the strike which ran from December, 1958, until it was called off officially by the union last June 1.

During the spring and early summer of 1959, the strike produced picket line violence and nighttime home bombings which resulted in the calling out of highway patrolmen and finally the National Guard.

Was Leader

Payton, as Carolinas union chief, was strike leader. Gore was described as an aide to Payton and a union representative. Auslander was chairman of the union's bicity joint board.

The conspiracy trial was held in Vance Superior Court at Henderson in July, 1960.

Navy Appoints New Staff For Sugar Grove

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy apparently is heeding congressional criticism of construction of its radio telescope center at Sugar Grove, W. Va., and has named a special staff to make sure things go just right from now on.

A recent report on the building of the radio astronomy cited skyrocketing costs, poor management and said decisions were being made "without staff coordination, review and supervision."

The Navy, in a report submitted to a Senate appropriations subcommittee said the new so-called "special project" staff would supervise all aspects of planning, design and construction of the installation.

The report said the new group is headed by an officer who reports directly to the Navy's chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks.

"As a result of these combined efforts, major design problems are being resolved,' the report, released Thursday, said.

The project was originally scheduled to cost about $79 million but costs have skyrocketed and it is expected to run as high as $135 million.

And construction has been painfully slow. All this has made the project one of the Pentagon's most controversial problems.

The Navy says the slow progress on construction can be attributed to the fact that both construction and research was carried on at the same time. Usually the two are done separately, but it was decided this project was urgent enough to try both concurrently.

The station will be built around a dish-shaped antenna which will be used to scan the heavens for sounds from outer space.

It is expected to aid in space exploration and serve a vital function in the nation's defense network.

However, some critics feel the installation may be outdated before it is completed.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., while expressing concern about the cost of the project, still considers it necessary and says he will continue to urge its completion.

Brooke Named Engineer

William R. Brooke, a native of Wiley Ford, has been named electrical engineer at the Johnstown, Pa. plant of Bethlehem Steel Company.

Mr. Brooke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brooke, Wiley Ford, and is a graduate of Ridgeley High School. He attended Potomac State College at Keyser, W. Va., and was employed at the Amcelle plant before entering the Army in World War II.

Mr. Brooke also is a graduate of Tri-State College, Angola, Ind., and began work at the Johnstown plant in 1951 as an engineer in the electrical department.

He is married to the former Mildred Shanholtz, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Shanholtz, 123 Fifth Street. They have two children, Linda, 15, and Robert, 10, and reside at 515 Glenwood Street, Johnstown.

Allegany Community College Will Open On September 25

School Board Names 2-Year Institution

Allegany Community College was agreed upon by the Allegany County Board of Education yesterday afternoon as the official name for the new junior college to be operated at 340 Frederick Street, the former Carver School building.

To satisfy one of the state legal requirements for starting the school here, the school board also adopted the resolution formally authorizing the establishment of the community college subject to the approval of Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster appraised the members of the board of steps already taken to help assure the start of classes in the new college on Monday, September 25.

Biulding Being Prepared

Much has been done since Dr. Robert S. Zimmer of Montgomery County accepted the presidency of the new institution on July 24.

A number of partitions have been removed to provide the college with one large office. The former home economics room at the rear of the building is being converted into a library. The former manual training shop will become the college's science laboratory. State funds are expected to pay about 50 per cent of the cast of the remodeling work, Mr Webster told the board.

A number of used chairs are being reconditioned this summer for use in the two-year college.

Bids will be received until next Wednesday at 3 p.m. for relighting and rewiring the new Allegany Community College.

Parkside Job Awarded

In another significant action yesterday, the Board of Education approved the awarding of the contract to George Construction Company for a new six-room addition to Parkside Elementary School in LaVale the first project in the county's new $5,000,000 school building program. The George firm submitted a low bid of $134,933.

Mr. Webster also informed the school board that the State Association of County School Boards will have its fall meeting October 5 and 6 at Annapolis. Kenneth R. Malcolm of Westernport, a member of the County Board of Education since May 1951, is state president of the association.

The other four members of the County Board of Education, all present at yesterday's meeting, are planning to attend the Annapolis meeting too. They include J. Goodloe Jackson, president; Mrs. Richard Winer, T. Donald Shires and Mrs. George M. Young.

College Questions Answered

Many of the questions being asked about the new Allegany Community College here are answered in a nine-page booklet which has been prepared under the direction of Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president of the new junior college.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster presented copies of this booklet to the members of the County Board of Education at a special meeting yesterday afternoon.

As soon as the board agreed upon the name for the community college he said he would have application blanks printed immediately. They should be ready for distribution to interested persons by the middle of next week.

Mr. Webster presented the school board yesterday a tentative calendar for the college starting with a tentative calendar for the college starting with a faculty workshop from September 11 to 15. Registration is planned for September 20 and 21 from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and from 6 until 8 p. m. Classes are scheduled to begin on September 25.

How To Register

How To Register

The booklet circulated yesterday by the school superintendent lists a six-step procedure to be followed.

These requirements are as follows:

1. File a formal application. Forms may be obtained from the registrar.
2. Pay the application fee of $10.
3. Have a certified copy of the secondary school record and transcripts of all previous college or university records sent to the registrar.
4. Submit a medical examination report.
5. Submit a residence affidavit.
6. Make an appointment with the registrar for an interview and aptitude testing.

The applicant will be notified of his admission status by the college after his application has been received and his credentials reviewed.

Tuition Cost

The tuition cost will be lower for Allegany County residents than other students. The tuition for Allegany countians with a full-time load of 12 or more semester hours will be $100. For a part-time load of 11 or fewer hours the cost per semester hour for Allegany countains will be $10.

For residents of Maryland living outside Allegany County the tuition cost will be twice as high. It will be $200 per semester for full-time load and $20 per semester hour for part-time load.

Non-residents of Maryland will be required to pay $300 per semester tuition for full-time load and $30 per semester hour for part-time load.

The following fees are listed in the booklet:

Application, $10; late registration, $5; change of schedule after first week, $1; special examination, $5; graduation, $10; transcript for each after the first, $1; laboratory fee for courses on the freshman level in biology and chemistry, $5; for courses in the sophomore level in biology, chemsitry and physics, $10; breakage deposit in chemistry, per course, $5; student activity fee for full-time students, per semester, $10; for part-time students, per semester, $5.

Program Of Study

The program of study which will be offered at Allegany Community College will cover the first two years of typical college programs in the arts and sciences, business administration and engineering.

The curricula which will be offered the first year will be for the student who expects to transfer to a four-year college or university or for the student who expects to take only two years of general college education. At a later date the college expects to offer terminal curricula, which will be two-year programs designed for those students who desire to enter upon a technical career for which a two-year course of study is appropriate.

Part-Time Students

A paragraph in the booklet concerning part-time students explains that any student carrying 11 or fewer semester hours of credit will be classified as a part-time student. Part-time programs will be available both for those wishing to work toward a degree and for special students. Students who are employed off-campus on a full-time basis are strongly advised not to carry more than two courses, five or eight semester hours.

Members of the County Board of Education will serve as members of the Board of Trustees of the college.

Governor Gives His Views On Dinner Ducats

Letter Forwarded To Savings, Loan Heads

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes said Thursday he dose not approve of attempts to sell tickets to a testimonial dinner for him because of his backing of savings and loan regulatory legislation.

Tawes was asked for comment on published reports that tickets to the $100-a-plate dinner are being promoted among savings and loan officials on the grounds that the governor strongly backed legislation to regulate the industry.

Tawes said:

"I have had no part whatsoever in the sale of tickets for the testimonial dinner. But since it is a testimonial dinner for me, I would not approve of any attempt to sell tickets on the basis of my actions as governor—for the savings and loan bill or anything else."

The Washington Post, in its Thursday edition, said a letter had been mailed to savings and loan company officials urging them to buy tickets for the Sept. 21 affair in Baltimore.

Letter Is Cited

The letter, signed by William C. Rogers, president of the Security Tilte Guaranty Corp. of Baltimore said the industry officials should give credit to Tawes for his part in the passage of the regulatory bill, the Post reported.

Rogers, a member of the commission which drafted the savings and loan bill, stated in his letter:

"My first approach in serving on this committee is to call on you to be good enough to take a table. If not a table, several tickets at $100 each so that we may be assured of a fine turnout...

"Many of us disagreed as to the effectiveness of a savings and loan bill signed by the governor. However, it now appears that it is possibly the best bill that could have been passed by the recent assembly and we must give credit to the governor for the work he did in getting the bill through."

Tickets to the testimonial dinner apparently aren't the hottest items on the market.

The Baltimore News-Post reported Thursday that state Democratic headquarters here had become concerned about the alleged apathy shown by some party officials.

The newspaper said James H. (Jack) Pollack, Northwest Baltimore Democratic leader, was not "enthusiastic" about the fund-raising affair.

Pollack Backs Petition

Pollack has acknowledged backing a petition campaign against two priority measures of the Tawes Administration during the 1961 session of the General Assembly—the savings and loan regulatory bill and a bill expanding Baltimore's Municipal Court.

The petition campaign was designed to force a referendum on those measures in the 1962 general election.

Former Maryland Gov. William Preston Lane already has withdrawn as honorary chairman of the dinner, and Mayor J. Harold Grady of Baltimore has indicated he may have other commitments the night of the affair, the News-Post said.

Tawes so far has not announced whether he will seek the Democratic nomination for governor in the primary election next May.

But the Democratic State Central Committee seemed rather certain of his candidacy when it announced the dinner "to help finance the campaign for the Tawes ticket next year."

Expected to oppose Tawes for the gubernatorial nomination is George P. Mahoney, a Baltimore County contractor. Mahoney unsuccessfully sought the nomination in 1950 and 1954.

David L. Hume, former treasurer of the Maryland Democratic party, already has filed for the governorship. In recent months, Hume has fought for abolishment of slot machines in Southern Maryland.

Kiddie Parade Winners

This group of youngsters was among those who walked away with prizes last night after the kiddie parade was held in LaVale in conjunction with the summer festival of the volunteer firemen of that community. Standing left to right are Christine Owens dressed as a pumpkin, most original costume; Sarah Elizabeth and Carol Lynn Heinz, dressed as angels who received the judges prize; and Kathy Young who was dressed in the best comic costume.

Eight Testify In LaVale Bridge Dispute

Cobey Decides To Visit Area

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey yesterday heard eight witnesses in an equity suit involving a privately-owned bridge on West Street in LaVale which collapsed on February 25.

The first three witnesses heard yesterday are plaintiffs in the action which was brought against the State Roads Commission and the Cumberland Contracting Company. They are Metro P. Nazelrod, E. Randall Hostetler and E. T. Combs.

Two other witnesses were called by John M. Robb, attorney for the plaintiffs. They were George Christner and Harry T. Skelly, both of whom live near the collapsed bridge.

Three defense witnesses also took the stand. They included John D. Bushby, district engineer for the SRC; George E. Geary, assistant district engineer, and Dewey R. Williamson, superintendent for the Cumberland Contracting Company.

Originally, the plaintiffs filed a bill of complaint seeking a mandatory injunction and damages from the defendants. The dispute involved a drainage ditch constructed by the Cumberland Contracting Company under a contract with the SRC.

The drainage ditch was constructed in LaVale from U. S. Route 40 to Braddock Run. High water in the run caused water in the ditch to be diverted against the foot of the bridge abutment and washed away the bank, causing the bridge to collapse February 25.

On July 11, Judge Cobey filed a five-page opinion sustaining the demurrer of the defendants. In that opinion, he said the plaintiffs have the right to seek an injunction prohibiting the SRC from continuing to divert a heavier burden of water into that portion of Braddock Run adjacent to the plaintiffs' bridge. The plaintiffs were allowed to file an amended bill of complaint and the testimony yesterday involved this amended bill.

Three attorneys argued the case at the conclusion of testimony. They included Mr. Robb, representing the plaintiffs; William Walsh, representing the Cumberland Contracting Company, and Peter J. Carpenti, representing the State Roads Commission.

Judge Cobey gave them permission to file additional memoranda in the case and then decided to drive to LaVale to inspect the bridge himself. Mr. Skelly, who is county roads supervisor, accompanied him.

His decision will be filed later.

Groundhog Hunter Wounded

Donald C. Riffle, 25, of RD 1, Ridgeley, was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday with a gunshot wound in his left arm sustained while groundhog hunting in the vicinity of Patterson Creek.

Police said the shooting apparently was accidental. They questioned George E. Turner, 70, of RD 1, Ridgeley, who was also groundhog hunting in the vicinity.

After learning Riffle had been wounded, Turner went with him to the hospital, according to Ridgeley Police Chief Lawrence Y. Chandler, who questioned Turner.

Attaches said the slug from a .22 calibre rifle went through the upper left arm of Riffle and he was admitted for observation. His condition is "satisfactory."

The two men, police said, were hunting groundhog in a field in the Patterson Creek area although they had not gone hunting together.

The shooting occurred about 6:30 p. m. West Virginia State Police were notified by the Ridgeley police officer. No charges were placed against Turner, police said.

Local Man Fined $150 On Motor Charge

Richard K. Fox, 110 Utah Avenue, was fined $150 and court costs yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court after he pleaded guilty to a state motor vehicle charge.

Fox was arrested last week by City Police after three automobiles and a fire hydrant were struck on South Street.

Magistrate Paul W. Barnett fined Fox after he pleaded guilty through his attorney, William H. Geppert. Several other motor vehicle charges were dismissed by the state.

Mr. Geppert said the defendant was covered by insurance which would take care of all damage involved in the incident.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason prosecuted the case for the state.

Gets Home Permit

Charles A. Redinger secured a permit from the City of Cumberland yesterday to build a one-story dwelling, 28 by 34 feet, on Memorial Avenue Extended. The brick veneer dwelling was estimated to cost $7,000.

Rites Sunday For Boy Killed In Accident

Services for Robert J. Poling, 17, of Pinto, who died yesterday morning when he was pinned beneath a farm tractor on the Mason Farm near Pinto, will be conducted Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Hafer Funeral Home.

Rev. Jacob H. Snyder, pastor of Kingsley Methodist Church, will officiate and interment will be in Zion Memorial Burial Park.

The youth resided with his mother, Mrs. Rose (Dawson) Poling Albright, at Pinto.

Tfc. Thomas E. Ruppert said the youth was killed when the tractor overturned on a steep slope which was slippery from heavy rains.

Tfc. Ruppert said the accident occurred around 5 a. m. shortly after Poling drove out of the barn to check cows in the field. He had driven up one slope of the hill and apparently skidded coming down the other side.

The tractor came to rest on the victim's back. Workers in the area spent sometime getting the machine off and Poling was pronounced dead on arrival at Sacred Heart Hospital.

The deputy county medical examiner's office reported the youth suffered no broken bones in the accident and died from suffocation.

The accident happened on the dairy farm of John T. Mason, an Allegany County commissioner, located between Pinto and Cresaptown.

A native of Cumberland he was a son of the late William Poling.

Besides his mother, he is survived by six sisters, Mrs. Robert Peer, Ridgeley; Louise, Viola Jean and Rose Poling, all of Baltimore; Miss Hazel Poling, Frostburg, and Mrs. Carl Folk, Frostburg; two brothers, Raymond Poling, Baltimore, and Jesse James Poling, Frostburg, and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Lida Runion, Davis, W. Bedford Man Is Charged With Murder

Charles Allen, 48, To Face Grand Jury

A 48-year-old Bedford, Pa., man is being held in the county jail there on a charge of murder in the fatal shooting of his nephew last month, authorities said yesterday.

Charles (Heeter) Allen was given a preliminary hearing yesterday morning when he appeared before Justice of the Peace A. C. Bingham in Bedford.

Fatally wounded was Kenneth (Jack) Allen, 30, also of Bedford, who died July 11 in Bedford County Memorial Hospital. The shooting took place at his uncle's home on July 3, authorities said.

William Van Horn, prosecuting attorney of Bedford County, said the prisioner is being held without bail for action of the September term of the grand jury which will convene on the 11th of that month.

Following his arrest, Allen was charged with assault with intent to kill. After the death of his nephew the murder charge was placed against him.

Deputy Coroner Ralph J. Mickle said the nephew's death was due to complications of a gunshot wound which he sustained on July 3.

Authorities said Allen was wounded with a high-powered hunting rifle. A preliminary investigation disclosed the shooting occurred at 3 p. m. that day at the uncle's home.

The victim, who was married and the father of two children, was employed as an elevator operator and bellman at a Bedford hotel.

Board Approves Carport Permits

The Board of Zoning Appeals last night approved the application of Thomas M. Wagner to build a carport at his home, 907 Kentucky Avenue.

Approval was granted after Mr. Wagner explained the carport will be attached to the home with a shingle roof of the same color as the dwelling.

He said the side of the carport will be a foot from his property line and 12 feet from the adjoining home, which is owned by his brother.

Approved after being tabled at the July 20 meeting was the application of Espy T. Barley, 105 Karns Avenue, to build a carport at his home.

There was no opposition to either application.

Med Student Assigned To Health Unit

A. Leo Franklin, who will be a senior in the University of Maryland Medical School this fall, has been assigned to the Allegany County Health Department staff.

He is a native of Cumberland, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin J. Franklin, Hagerstown. His father was service manager for Remington Rand firm here for many years until he was transferred to Hagerstown last June.

Mr. Franklin was assigned to summer work in Washington and Allegany counties under a public health fellowship awarded by the State Department of Health. He expects to be here the rest of the summer.

He began his work here Monday, and at present is checking all cancer deaths in Allegany County during recent years.

A similar study was started several years ago in Washington County.

Mr. Franklin graduated from LaSalle High School here in 1954 and received a bachelor of science degree from the University of Maryland in 1958.

He is a grandson of Dr. A. Leo Franklin, who died here in 1934. For a number of years, Dr. Franklin operated at hospital on the site of the present Hafer Funeral Home.

Times-News To Sponsor Low-Cost British Tour

The Times-News, in its policy of helping to provide a popular-priced vacation which most anyone can afford, has scheduled this fall a goodwill visit to England, Scotland and Ireland for residents of the Cumberland area.

Mayors and civic leaders of the English and Irish towns to be visited by the local tour have indicated they welcome large parties in the off-season when hotels are no problem.

The airline, TWA, has promised a special section to be reserved for this party if sufficient interest develops before the end of this month.

The group will leave October 6 from the Washington National Airport. The low fall and winter fares enable the local group to make personal visits to people of each community who have like interests and occupations.

This is particularly easy in the British Isles and Ireland because of the language. The welcome mat will be out wherever the group stops, even for tea, and no past tour sponsored by these papers has been promised such close personal contact with the people of overseas countries.

Officials of the State Department who recently discussed the idea with Thomas F. Conlon Jr. feel these groups of average Americans, especially if many types of livelihood are involved, can do a wonderful job in reinforcing the work of the U. S. overseas information people.

Recent tension over the Polaris program in Scotland points up the need for better people-to-people understanding overseas.

Only by making possible low cost trips where a representative group from an American town goes together, can this be done, State Department people assert.

This will be the fifth European tour sponsored by the Times-News in addition to last October's tour to Hawaii.

Three High School Teachers Appointed

Three Frostburg State Teachers College graduates who have teaching experience elsewhere in Maryland have been employed to teach in high schools of Allegany County starting in September, according to Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer.

Miss Wilma Clara Ann Hook, Mt. Savage, has been employed to teach English and social studies at Bruce High School in Westernport. This is an additional teaching position authorized because of increased enrollment at Bruce. A 1956 graduate of Mt. Savage High School, Miss Hook was graduated from Frostburg State Teachers College in 1960. She taught the past year in Mar-

Discoverer Shot Fails To Orbit

Air Force Unable To Achieve Goal On 28th Attempt

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Discoverer 28 shot aloft, but failed to orbit and apparently dropped in the ocean Thursday.

Air Force officials blamed technical difficulties. They said the satellite did not appear in orbit on schedule — about 90 minutes after blastoff.

A spokesman added: "We are reasonably certain the entire second stage dropped in the South Pacific."

The satellite was loaded with specialized instruments—some secret, some designed to diagnose its ills.

Plans called for Hawaii-based planes to try for an aerial catch of its space capsule in from one to four days, if all goes well.

The Air Force, disturbed at the high rate of failures in its longest-lived satellite series, listed "reliability testing" as a key objective of No. 28.

Discoverers also test equipment for the supersecret Samos military surveillance and Midas Missile detection satellite systems.

Items aboard Thursday's two stage rocket combination included:

Special control circuits in the Thor booster, to increase its reliability. The booster in shot No. 27 went awry and had to be destroyed.

Special instruments in the second-stage Agena-B rocket — all of which is designed to go into orbit—to check performance of its standard equipment.

If they don't work right, scientists want to know why.

On the last successful shot, No. 26, the Agena's speed was too high, resulting in a longer-than-expected orbital period, which in turn caused its capsule to fall wide of the target area. The planes caught it anyway.

So far, there have been six capsule recoveries in the series — four in the air, two from the sea.

French Paper Warns DeGaulle Of New Revolts

PARIS (UPI) — The influential newspaper Figaro Thursday reported widespread rumors of another rightwing extremist conspiracy to overthrow President Charles de Gaulle this month and warned the government against disregarding the danger signs.

Publication of the story was followed by an announcement by four powerful labor unions that their leaders already had met to map combined action to oppose "any new coup by force."

Rumors of new attempts to depose De Gaulle have persisted in the capital since the abortive "generals revolt" in Algeria last April. In recent weeks, widely-circulated reports had it that the attempt might be made during the August holidays when many Parisians leave for the seashore and country.

In a front page story, Figaro said it had warned about a plot against De Gaulle several weeks before the Algiers revolt but its warnings were ignored.

Cuban Guerillas Join U.S. Army

MIAMI (UPI) — Maj. Joaquin Bembribe, who led an anti-Castro guerilla group in eight months of fighting in the Escambray mountains, signed up for induction as a private in the U. S. Army Thursday with nine of his men.

They were among the first Cubans to take advantage of a new governmental ruling allowing Cuban exiles to enter the U. S. armed forces.

Congress Outraged At Plane Hijackings

Parliament Votes To Join Europe's Common Market

By THOMAS A. REEDY

LONDON (AP) — Parliament voted overwhelmingly Thursday night to open negotiations for British entry into Europe's six-nation Common Market, a bloc led by West Germany and France.

The House of Commons supported Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's proposal by 313-5. The Labor opposition abstained. The House of Lords voted 86-17 for the proposal.

The decision after two days of brisk debate opened the way for Britain to engage in talks, probably in October, on the terms of trade that will have to be met.

Senate Keeps Big Bombers In Money Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate disregarded administration arguments Thursday and voted overwhelmingly to retain a $525 million item for manned bombers in its record peacetime military spending bill.

The funds, earmarked for production of B52 and B58 bombers for the Strategic Air Command, were kept in the measure by a roll call vote of 87 to 4.

The move to delete the bomber funds was offered by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis. The only Senators siding with him on the showdown were Prescott Bush, R-Conn.; Allen J. Ellender, D-La., and Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky.

Arguing for the cut, Proxmire cited a letter from Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara which said the administration considered the bomber increase unnecessary.

But opponents of the amendment contended successfully that manned bombers still are the nation's first line of deterrent power. They said curbing production now might mean costly restarts later.

Addition of the new aircraft money by the Senate Appropriations Committee brought the defense money bill to a total of $46.9 billion — larger than the top annual expenditure during the Korean War.

UN Hails New Congo Government

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo — (UPI) — The United Nations Thursday hailed the formation of the new government of Premier Cyrille Adoula as a significant turning point in the blood-soaked history of the Congo.

It expressed hope that it could begin to end military operations and concentrate more on technical aid to the infant African republic which was plunged into chaos shortly after winning independence from Belgium a year ago.

But the political picture was not entirely cleared. There remained the problem of the "breakaway" province of Katanga which boycotted the parliamentary session when refused guarantees to ensure its "independence."

There was also the refusal by Jean Bolikango of a vice premiership because he was not allowed to hold the portifilio of the ministry of information at the same time. Bolikango was deputy premier and official spokesman in the former Leopoldville regime.

Adoula appeared to have resolved one potential controversy by retaining the ministry of defense for himself.

Berlin Crisis Is Outlined For Italians

Khrushchev Tells Fanfani Problem Can Be Negotiated

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani agreed Thursday a negotiated settlement of the Berlin problem is possible. But apparently they moved not one inch toward it.

The talks began with Fanfani's arrival Wednesday and evidently were amiable. They held their last official meeting Thursday at the Italian Embassy, a short distance from the Kremlin. Both premiers then came out and shook hands with dozens of the hundred or more Russians gathered near the door.

Khrushchev repeated his warning that if an agreed solution is not reached he will sign a peace treaty before the end of the year with East Germany "to regulate" the Berlin situation.

Big Powers Get Notes

As the two wound up their talks, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed notes on the Berlin situation to Moscow envoys of Britain, France, West Germany and the United States.

The notes, the contents of which were not immediately disclosed, replied to Western notes delivered July 17 contending that millions of lives are being endangered by Soviet threats to West Berlin.

In a general summary of the conference, Hombert Bianchi, Italian government press spokesman quoted sections of speeches by the two leaders restating their hopes for settlement by negotiation.

"To this idea—that negotiations are opportune and possible—Mr. Khrushchev agreed," Bianchi said.

In a toast at lunch in the Italian Embassy, Khrushchev said the world is "full of combustible materials and there are hotbeds of international tension and even military danger. This worries people and interferes with their quiet life."

Fanfani Cautious

Commenting on the Soviet decision to sign a treaty with East Germany, Fanfani cautioned: "Before surrendering to this inevitability, it is necessary to think deeply to see whether all possible steps at reaching a solution have been made. This means probing and negotiation."

Fanfani, however, warned Khrushchev that, "It would be dangerous to believe that the solution of present difficulties can come from unilateral action."

He said Western moves following Khrushchev's announcement that he would sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany must not be mistaken for aggressive plans.

"Finally," Fanfani said, "the will to negotiate must not be mistaken for weakness."

Ex-President Hungary Dies

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Zoltan Tildy, ex-president of Hungary who was jailed for his part in Hungary's 1956 anti-Soviet revolt, died Thursday, the national news agency MTI announced. He was 72. The cause of death was not given.

Tildy, a former Reform. Church minister, led Hungary's center and right-wing Smallholders party to victory at the polls in Hungary's first postwar election in 1945.

His party polled 59.9 per cent of the votes, but was gradually maneuvered into a self-liquidating position by the Communists as they fought for ascendancy in the late 1940s.

Treasurer Sees Federal Budget In Balance

By GARDNER L. BRIDGE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon repeated his belief Thursday that next year's federal budget can be balanced without any increase in taxes if there is no worsening of the international situation.

But Dillon told Congress in a letter that recent world developments and the U.S. military buildup make it essential that loopholes in the present tax laws be closed and that business be encouraged to expand and produce more revenues.

Dillon's letter to Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, was made public as the Dillon left to attend an inter-American economic conference in Uruguay.

He urged enactment this session of President Kennedy's proposed business incentive allowance, but said it should be offset by other revenue raising measures which would "improve and strengthen the tax system" over the long run.

Dillon said incentives for industry to invest in new and modernized plants and equipment are vital to the economic growth which will lead to a return to balanced budgets. This years' budget is expected to end up with a deficit of $5 billion or more.

Waiting For Bus

LONDON (AP)—A bobby testified he spotted Patrick Garrigle, 27, hanging by his fingertips from a window ledge above a busy street, and Garrigle explained: "I am waiting for a bus." The court ruled it was an attempted breakin and sent Garrigle to prison for six months.

Blame Castro For Repeated Outrages

Commercial Crews On All Planes Will Carry Arms

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—High State Department officials were reported Thursday night to have recommended that President Kennedy invoke the "Trading With the Enemy" Act to cut off what remains of U.S.-Cuban trade.

By STANLEY MEISLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clerks rushed reports of the latest airliner hijacking to Congress Thursday and tempers flared and words grew bitter there. Most of the anger was aimed at Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Although some, like Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., withheld comment pending more information, most members of Congress assumed the Cuban regime of Castro was behind the hijacking in El Paso, Tex.

If it is established there is a conspiracy, Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., said, "it is an act of war and should be dealt with accordingly."

Rep. Edgar W. Hiestand, R-Calif., sent an angry telegram to President Kennedy. Hiestand said the United States should "quit playing patsy to a pipsqueak and call a halt to continuing disgraces by Communist Cuba."

Wants Death Penalty

Rep. August E. Johansen, R-Mich., introduced a bill providing the mandatory death penalty for anyone convicted of hijacking, or conspiring to hijack, any type of aircraft by force or threat of force while the crew or passengers are aboard.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said "pirates cannot be dealt with slightly." He said the United States should "quarantine Cuba and throw a naval and air blockade around her until Castro purges himself and gives proof that he will not permit recurrence of such excesses."

Rep. John Bell Williams, D-Miss., chairman of a House subcommittee on transportation, said his subcommittee would begin hearings on Johansen's bill and other bills dealing with hijacking planes.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., chairman of a Senate Commerce subcommittee, said his group would consider similar bills Friday.

Crews To Be Armed

The government yesterday authorized the arming of crews of commercial airliners in view of an attempted hijacking incident at El Paso, Tex.

Najeeb E. Halaby, administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency, authorized this step in a telegram to all U.S. air carriers.

He said crew members should be armed "only when they have recent training and demonstrable proficiency" in the use of sidearms.

He also announced that the federal government is offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of persons attempting hijacking of planes.

Powers May Be Sent To Red Work Camp

NORTON, Va. (UPI) — The parents of an American spy pilot brought down over Russian territory disclosed Thursday that their son hopes to be paroled from a Soviet prison to a work camp within three months.

Oliver Powers, father of U2 pilot Francis Powers, said the information was contained in one of six letters received from his son during the month of July.

Powers was convicted by a Russian court of espionage and sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Bourguiba Invites French To Settle Tunisian Dispute

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba Thursday openly invited France to settle the Bizerte dispute through negotiations. He hinted that future cooperation between the two countries is still possible.

The Tunisian president also appealed indirectly to the United States to put pressure on France to induce it to negotiate on gradual evacuation of its troops from the big naval base at Bizerte.

He promised a "reasonable evacuation calendar" and said once the problem is solved "we could start again the work of construction."

Bourguiba's statement, made at a news conference and simultaneously broadcast over the national radio, struck an optimistic echo among Western diplomats in the Tunisian capital.

His speech was seen as by far the most conciliatory and constructive since Tunisia's pressure on France to pull out of Bizerte exploded into bloody fighting which claimed at least 670 Tunisian lives.

Bourguiba's frequent references to President Kennedy's statement on underdeveloped countries were seen as another sign that the Tunisian statesman is still counting on the West.

Kennedy, Bourguiba said, "is a sincere man, a man who believes in what he says." He said he realizes that America's alliance with France puts Washington in a delicate situation.

Bourguiba promised to stop Tunisia's diplomatic drive against France at the United Nations if the French agree to negotiate on withdrawal of this troops from Bizerte.

Asian and African diplomats at U.N. headquarters were close to signing up the majority of members needed to call a special General Assembly session. It appeared the Tunisians were using this threat of a U.N. condemnation as a lever to bring France to the bargaining table.

Bourguiba warned that if France fails to negotiate, he would be forced to pursue his proposed plans. He admitted that the consequences of a U.N. showdown could be grave and hinted that he hopes the United States will see that they are avoided.

West May Ask UN To Review Berlin Crisis

PARIS (UPI)—The Western allies were reported Thursday to be considering taking the Berlin crisis before the United Nations General Assembly meeting next month.

Informed sources said a United Nations airing of the Berlin issue was one of the prime courses of action being considered by a four-nation diplomatic "advance party" meeting in Paris.

The advance men are preparing the way for the conference here Saturday of the U.S., British, French and West German foreign ministers.

The idea of seeking a U.N. debate on Berlin apparently has supplanted tentative proposals for the calling of a 51-nation German peace conference.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt was the first prominent Western figure to suggest a peace conference of all the countries that were at war with Nazi Germany. Some U.S. Democratic senators, notably Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., supported the proposal.

Pilot Killed In Patrol Plane

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (UPI)—A single - engine plane patrolling power lines hit a power line and crashed in flames near Haverhill Thursday, killing the pilot, Arthur Ray Oyster, 37, Louisville, Ohio.

The plane was patrolling the Ohio Power Co. lines near Haverhill about 20 miles southeast of here when it struck a line carrying 34,000 volts.

Oyster burned to death in the flaming plane which crashed in a field near a chemical plant. It was sometime before authorities could get the body out and make an identification.

Power in a 15-mile radius of the crash was cut off for about 2½ hours.

Duck Eliminates His Competition

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (UPI) — A duck owned by David Lazar of Tonawanda, N.Y., earned the title of "Happiest Pet" Thursday at a playground pet show—he also was the "Most Hungry."

As the pets lined up for awards, the duck broke loose from its master and gobbled up a frog, two worms and a cricket.

All the victims were contestants.

Father, Son Thwarted In Plane Theft

President Kennedy Gives Direct Order To Get Pirate Team

By WILLIAM C. PAYETTE

EL PASO, Tex. (UPI) — FBI agents, under orders from President Kennedy, used fists and bullets Thursday to prevent a father-and-son air pirate team from getting away with a hijacked $5 million Continental Airlines jetliner and flying it off to Fidel Castro's Cuba.

It took more than nine hours to get the hijackers — ex-convict Leon Bearden, 38, of (310 W. Erie) Chandler, Ariz., and his 16-year-old son, Cody—off the plane and into handcuffs.

The plane had a total of 73 passengers on it when the father and son seized it at gunpoint in the air outside Phoenix, Ariz. They let off all except 10 hostages—four passengers and six crew members—at El Paso.

Bearden and his son were arraigned late Thursday before U. S. Commissioner Henry C. Clifton on federal charges of kidnaping and transporting the stolen plane across a state line. The son was additionally charged with violating the Federal Juvenile Delinqnecy Act.

Clifton set bond for father and son at $100,000 each. They both pleaded innocent. The maximum conviction on a federal kidnaping charge is death.

Has Arrest Record

There was no emplanation of why two Americans should try to pirate a plane and take it to Cuba. The elder Bearden has an arrest record dating back to 1941 and now is on parole from a first degree robbery conviction in 1957.

He contacted the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City last January and indicated he wanted to go to Cuba, authorities said.

Kennedy ordered that the hijackers not be allowed to swap the Boeing 707 for a propeller-driven DC7. Kennedy left it up to FBI agents on the spot whether to let the 707 take off.

The pilot said he thought Bearden was "just a desperate man, wanting to get out of the country." He said Bearden told him he had nothing to do with the Castro regime; he simply wanted to get to Cuba.

FBI agents and border patrolmen kept the plane from taking off from El Paso International Airport by shooting holes in the tires and stopping one engine with submachine guns and rifles.

Then, after a siege of more than nine hours, an FBI agent and border patrolmen got on board and jumped the hijackers. The hijackers fired one bullet through the floor with a 45-caliber pistol.

But they were subdued, handcuffed and rushed off by FBI agents for questioning.

The hijackers seized the plane about 5 a.m., EDT. They held a 45-caliber pistol and a 38-caliber pistol on the pilot, Capt. B.D. Rickards of Redondo Beach, Cal. and ordered him to fly to Havana. There were 73 persons on board.

Hijackers Keep Hostages

Richards said he did not have enough fuel to fly to Havana and had to land at El Paso for refueling. The hijackers decided to let 61 passengers get off at El Pasto because a pregnant woman started to get hysterical.

They kept four volunteers from among the passengers as hostages, along with six members of the crew. The pilot suggested trading a DC7 for the jet. He said a huge 707 jet would have trouble landing at Havana.

As the pilot taxied toward the runway, 15 FBI men and border patrolmen rushed under the wings despite the blast and noise of the jets. They shot out the tires and one engine. Tracer bullets cut paths through the undercarriage.

The jet stopped. One of the hijackers sat in a window, making obscene gestures at the estimated 200 officers — FBI men, border patrolmen, Texas department of public safety, El Paso police and deputy sheriffs — swaming helplessly about.

At 1:55 p.m. EDT, Francis E. Crosby, agent in charge of the FBI office, went on board unarmed. That temporarily diverted the attention of the hijackers.

The stewardesses — Lois Carnegey and Tonie Besset, both of Inglewood, Calif. — kicked open the back door and dropped out.

Jack Casey, who works for Continental in Houston, Tex., and Fred Mullen of Washington, dropped out with the stewardesses. Officers, not sure who they were, collared and handcuffed them.

Crosby told the hijackers that "on the highest government authority" they were not going to get away with anything. He or-

Big 3 Powers Ask Reds To End Border Pressure

BERLIN (AP) — The Western Big Three occupying powers asked the Soviet Union Thursday to end restrictions without delay on free movement of commuting workers into West Berlin from Communist East Germany.

Generals commanding the U. S. British and French troops in Berlin sent identical letters of protest to the Soviet commandant, Col. Andrei I. Solovyev.

There was no immediate indication of reaction. The Soviet Union usually says it has no authority over East German Red officials, who are taking sharp action against people under their control with jobs in West Berlin.

Communist police during the day grabbed identity cards from some commuters and sent them home.

These measures have so far succeeded with only a small number of the border-crossing commuters. Most of the estimated 80,000 managed to get to their jobs. How long they will be able to do so is not clear.

West Berlin authorities said about 800 have given up their jobs.

The three generals said the action against the commuters is inconsistent with Western - Soviet agreements, objectionable on humanitarian grounds, and bound to worsen the atmosphere in Berlin.

West Berlin officials said, meanwhile, the East German police had taken new action to force East German townsmen near Berlin to give up jobs in West Berlin. They said the police had started picking up the identity cards of such East Germans and issuing them special ones barring them from Berlin.

About 52,000 East Berliners and East Germans are registered of-lin. Another 25,000 to 30,000 work there "black"—that is, without registering.

Refugees, against whom the Communists are also taking measures, continued to arrive in West Berlin at a 1,500-a-day clip. There were 1,155 officially counted up to 4 p.m. Thursday when the books closed for the day at Marienfelde reception camp.

Hundreds of others arrived and were put up by friends, or flew out immediately to West Germany without registering here.

The Communists, campaigning heavily against the refugees, said they were being lured away by "slave traders."

Swiss Diver Locates Death-Bus Engulfed In Sea Of Mud

Authorities Plan Salvage Operation In Effort To Recover Fifteen Bodies

LUZERN, Switzerland (UPI) — The holiday bus that plunged into Lake Lucerne Wednesday, carrying 16 Americans to their death, was found Thursday engulfed in mud "as black as death.'

The bodies of 15 Americans remained in the bus, 150 feet below the surface of the lake. Diver Siegfried Naumann said the mud gripped the bus in a sucking vice that might make it impossible to recover the bodies.

As he groped about the bus deep below the picture-postcard lake, Naumann called up through a tube: "The water is black as tar. And the mud, is as black as death."

In 90 minutes below surface, Naumann recovered only one item — a black raincoat. He said the bodies were not visible —"This mud covers everything."

Twenty-two other persons escaped from the bus in the three minutes it stayed afloat, after it had hit a truck, torn through an iron fence, and plunged into the water.

Naumann said the bus, found earlier Thursday by huge electronic magnets, was upside down. He warned it might sink even deeper into the mud if it is jerked and moved in recovery operations. But authorities still planned to attach ropes to the axles and haul it up.

Of the 38 persons aboard the bus, 35 were Americans, the driver was Italian, and there were two Swiss guides. One body was recovered immediately but 15 others were believed trapped in the bus.

The survivors, many of whom were being treated in nearby Stans Hospital, Thursday, lost everything they were carrying on the bus, including money, tickets home, and other items.

Cardinal Canali Dies Following Heart Attack

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Nicola Cardinal Canali, "Premier" of the Vatican state, died Thursday at the age of 87. He was the second of two close friends and advisers of Pope John XXIII to die within five days.

Cardinal Canali, considered a leader of the Vatican's "old guard," was too weakened by protracted illness to withstand a heart attack suffered during the night.

Pope John, who Wednesday presided at funeral services for Domenico Cardinal Tardini, was informed immediately of Cardinal Canali's passing and he retired to his private chapel to pray. Cardinal Tardini died Sunday of a heart attack. He was 73.

The two deaths reduced the Sacred College of Cardinals to 82, plus three more named "in pectore." Their indenties are known only to Pope John, who will announce their names when he sees fit.

Cardinal Canali had been ill in his Vatican apartment with bronchial pneumonia for more than two months. Last week he suffered a severe relapse and his three doctors said there was little hope. After he lapsed into coma Tuesday, the end was only a question of time.

As president of the Pontifical Commission for the Vatican state, Cardinal Canali in effect was premier of the 108-acre Vatican enclave. Among other influential posts he held was that of Papal Penitentiary Major.

dered them to surrender.

FBI agent Bob Nagel had managed to slip on board. A local border patrol man also got on. Ed Gilman, another border patrol officer, already was on board; he was a volunter hostage.

Nagel and the local border patrol officer hid in the cockpit. The boy went to the back. Gilman jumped him. Looking through a crack in the cockpit door, Nagel and the local border patrol officer jumped the father.

The father's jaw was laid open. Gilman suffered a cut on his jaw. The father fired once through the floor of the plane before his pistol was wrested away.

The FBI brought the son out in a full Nelson grip. Both hijackers were rushed off to the county courthouse, which was promptly put off limits to all except those working there.

Congress Passes Compromise Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress Thursday passed a compromise farm bill to cut the government's price-support stockpile of surplus grain by paying farmers for not growing wheat, corn, and other grains in 1962.

The House approved the omnibus bill on a roll call vote of 224 to 170. The Senate then passed it by voice vote and sent it to the White House. The actions came less than 24 hours after the bill had been approved by a House-Senate conference committee.

President Kennedy, already had said he approved the bill even though it gave him only part of the new powers he wanted to strengthen the farm economy. He was expected to sign the measure into law quickly.

The bill contained the stop-gap program the administration requested to force wheat growers to reduce plantjngs at least 10 per cent next year in exchange for generous subsidy payments.

Langston Indicted On Perjury Charge In Referendum Petitions

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — William Charles Langston Sr. of Glen Burnie, indicted on a charge of perjury in a probe of referendum petitions filed in Anne Arundel County, was released under $1,500 bond Thursday.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Alan Shipps said Langston was arrested Wednesday night by Anne Arundel County police and held overnight in the county jail.

The county grand jury indicted Langston Monday but the indictment was kept secret until after the arrest. He was accused of perjuring a referendum petition filed against the savings and loan regulatory bill approved by the 1961 General Assembly.

Marylands' Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan declared the petition invalid because of alleged irregularities.

Langston was charged on two counts — that he had falsely sworn all the signatures on the petition were those of qualified registered voters, and that they had been signed in his presence.

Officials said they were instructed not to release the indictment, dated Aug. 1, until after the defendant had been arrested.

Martin To Build Floating Atomic Electric Plant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army awarded a contract Thursday for a floating atomic-powered plant to be installed in a surplus liberty ship.

The Martin Co. of Baltimore was assigned the contract to design, build and test the 10,000-kilowatt plant.

The total contract will amount to $16,998,127, but the first phase calls only for a $644,046 expenditure for design. The contract requires completion of design in 15 months and construction and testing in the next 3 years.

The floating nuclear power plant will be used to provide electrical power to military installations in coastal areas or to communities damaged by peacetime disaster or wartime attack.

Supersonic Jet Crashes Near Dover, Del.

DOVER, Del (AP) — A supersonic jet fighter interceptor crashed in a wooded area south of here Thursday about 10 minutes after it had left Dover Air Force Base on a routine training flight.

The pilot and radar observer, the only men aboard the F101 Voodoo jet, safely ejected from the plane and parachuted to safety.

Both suffered injuries in landing.

The pilot, 1st Lt. Joseph O. Kilkeary, 24, suffered lacerations and bruises when he came down about two miles from the spot where the aircraft plunged to earth.

First Lt. Royce E. Oliver Jr., 25, landed in a bean field and suffered a compound fracture of the left leg, lacerations and bruises.

The plane gouged a 30-foot-wide hole in the ground as it struck earth near Waple's Pond, between Milford and Lewes off Delaware Route 14.

Kilkeary, who is married and lives in Dover, was taken to the Dover base hospital for treatment.

Oliver, who is married and lives with his wife and one child in Dover, was taken to Memorial Hospital at Milford.

Cancer Causes Death Of Orangutan

BALTIMORE (AP) — Cancer apparently has caused the death of Josephine, an orangutan, at the Baltimore Zoo.

Zoo Director Arthur Watson had hoped Josie would bear the first orang ever born here.

But an abdominal growth which zoo officials had interpreted as a sign of pregnancy proved to be a cancerous growth. Josie died during the night, and her body was found by keepers at the Mammal House Thursday.

Josie and her surviving mate, Jiggs, were brought here in October 1955, at a cost of $4,000. The pair was a gift of the Baltimore Sunpapers.

Campers Honor Agent On Job Anniversary

The seventh anniversary of Miss Mary P. Wise as Allegany County home demonstration agent was celebrated Tuesday at the Adult Women's Camp, being held at the Western Maryland 4-H Center, Bittinger. The evening was climaxed with Miss Wise being made "Queen for a Day."

Under the leadership of Mrs. Marguerite Keller, nine Catholic campers held a vesper service. A "Fun Night" followed with pantomimes, a radio show, an operation, a night in Honolulu, mock wedding and a mock Homemakers meeting. The program concluded with a grand march, and refreshments were served.

During the morning Charles Strauss, biology teacher at Northern Garrett County High School, spoke on bees and displayed a partial hive. He also conducted a nature tour.

Workshops, held each day, include the making of miniature felt mice book marks, Christmas tree decorations, as well as angles on spindle decorations, waste paper cans and hand-painted aprons.

Recreation included boating and swimming.

Monday evening Mrs. Theresa Coleman showed moving pictures of New Guinea; Miss Wise showed nature slides and flower arrangements, and Miss Eileen Morgan, Frostburg, who was one of the 4-H Club members to represent Maryland in the 1960-61 Minnesota-Maryland 4-H exchange program, told of her trip through Minnesota, including the conference at the university and the dairy show at Long Prairie. Miss Morgan is lifeguard at camp this year.

Following the covered dish family picnic for the opening of camp, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Miller and family conducted a vesper service on the banks of the river. A trio from the Springs Mennonite Church sang four selections. Miss Wise and Mrs. Eva Barton extended the welcome. A get-acquainted party followed and an initiation ceremony was held by Mrs. Paul Gilford and Mrs. Katie Kilroy.

It was noted that the 39 campers range from 35 to 83, including a mother of eight whose family made it possible for her to attend this year.

Blume Family Reunion

Plans for a 10th anniversary reunion were discussed at the ninth reunion of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Blume, which was held Sunday at Minke's Christie Road. It is to be either an old fashioned family get-together or a sightseeing trip.

This year swimming featured the entertainment.

THE PHARMACIST WON'T TELL YOU WHAT DRUGS ARE IN A PRESCRIPTION

The pharmacist won't tell you what drugs are in a prescription or what they do. He has no right to do so. Professional relationships between physician and pharmacist are confidential. The physician knows the patient, and his illness; the pharmacist knows the drugs, but not necessarily the doctor's purpose in prescribing the drug.

Most of today's modern drugs have a great variety of applicatoins. The same drug may be used for fifteen or twenty different conditions none of which are related except possibly by one or two common symptoms. So you see, it would be foolhardy for any pharmacist to attempt to guess at what the doctor had in mind when he wrote a particular prescription.

At Walsh-McCagh, we do not try to second guess anyone. We are much too busy making sure that the prescriptions brought to us for filling are compounded exactly as written by the physician. When you have a prescription to be filled, you want it filled accurately, quickly, professionally and at the lowest price possible. That, in short, is what we offer.

Green Spring School Closing Protested

The Hampshire County Board of Education has voted to reaffirm a decision to close the Green Spring elementary school and consolidate it with the elementary school at Springfield, according to Bernard D. Hughes, superintendent of schools.

Hughes said that the action was taken Tuesday night by the board. A public hearing was held in the matter last Friday with about 40 residents of Green Spring appearing to protest the proposal.

In making the announcement, Hughes listed some of the reasons for the Green Spring closing and transfer of the pupils to Springfield. He said letters will be sent out to the various parties concerned.

Hughes said that the Board of Education has the authority to close or consolidate schools in the event it is deemed necessary. In the case of the Green Spring School closing, Hughes said there has been a school population decline in both Green Spring and Springfield and the latter community has a school with eight rooms while the former has only three rooms.

A saving of $12,000 to $15,000 would be realized annually by the consolidation, Hughes said. He said that the approximately 60 children from the Green Spring area could be transported to Springfield without any crowding of the latter school.

Springfield School has a capacity of 240 to 280 pupils and last school term only 150 attended. Hughes also pointed out that the children of one grade would attend class in one room instead of having several grades in one room as was the situation at Green Spring.

The Board of Education also explained that there would be two less teachers required as a result of the consolidation. Hughes said it was difficult to obtain certified teachers for the Green Spring School. He said last year there were seven different instructors used there.

Hughes also said that the distance between Green Spring and Springfield is only seven miles and the road is hard surfaced and practically level the entire way. He said the shuttle bus which would pick up children in the Green Spring vicnity would be started out a little bit later than last year and the children from the community would leave for Springfield between 8:15 and 8:20 each day. Students of high school age are transported to Romney High School, which is about nine miles further away.

The people protesting the move have retained Attorney William H. Ansel of Springfield to represent them. The attorney said today he had not yet been advised of the board's action but would await a meeting with the committee of Green Spring residents before any decision is made for further action.

The Green Spring residents stated at last Friday public hearing that the removal of the school would lower property values in the area and be generally a detriment to the community. They also state many of the children would be away from home as long as nine hours daily if they had to attend the Springfield school.

Approval Given Piedmont Levy

PIEDMONT—The annual levy for the fiscal year has been approved by the Mayor and Council. The estimate of income and disbursements was placed at $36,685.

The tax rate, the same as for the past several years, is as follows: Class 1—12½ cents on each $100 for personal property and public utilities; Class 2—homes, 25 cents and Class 4—50 cents for real estate and rental. The assessed valuation is estimated at $3,073,000 and estimated taxes, $12,359.

The levy will be forwarded to the state tax commissioner at Charleston for final approval.

Youths Fined, Sentenced On Larceny Count

Two Michigan youths were fined $100 each and sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction yesterday after being convicted of petty larceny.

The youths, William Kazmicki, 19, and Richard Urban, 18, were sentenced by Trial Magistrate Paul W. Barnett.

Magistrate Barnett suspended the jail sentence and placed both youths on parole for a two-year period. However, they were committed to the Allegany County Jail for 30 days in default of the $100 fine.

The youths were apprehended earlier this week in connection with the theft of two commercial money orders from a counter at Keech's Pharmacy, 43 Virginia Avenue, last Thursday night.

Capt. Det. James E. Van, who arrested the youths near Hyndman where they were working, testified yesterday that the youths admitted the theft.

Donald W. Mason, assistant state's attorney, presented the state's case. The defendants were not represented by counsel.

Granted Beer Permit

A permit was granted today by the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage Commissioners to the Cumberland Fair Association to sell beer during the Fair starting August 14.

At the bridge table, as in other activities, even the most hopeless cause merits at least some effort for an apparent loss often can be recovered if declarer will just keep a stiff upper lip and play on. South, in today's hand, conceded a one trick set with far too much haste.

North sorted his cards with great pleasure and opened with two no trump. When his partner responded with three spades, he felt that his hand was too good to offer a mere raise, so he temporized with four clubs. South showed his second suit and North, impressed with the fit, jumped to five spades.

South, though he held only six high card points, recognized the great trick taking potential of his hand and, deciding that his diamond void was a key value, contracted for slam.

West opened the king of diamonds. Declarer ruffed and on the first lead of trump West showed out. South gave vent to an appropriate outburst and declared himself down one as he conceded two trump tricks to East.

Now it is true that the situation appeared hopeless, but nothing surely could be accomplished by giving up except the saving of a little time which in this case did not appear vital. South might just as well play along for a few tricks, without any expense and with very little effort.

If East has three cards in each of the other suits, the hand can actually be made. Declarer should take the first trump lead with the king or ace, then ruff another diamond, and then cash three hearts and three clubs and ruff dummy's last diamond. This brings all down to three cards. Declarer passes the eight of spades into East, who must lead away from the queen-ten.

Iced Tea -- The Cool Summer Refresher

You maybe aren't one of the lucky ones who can beat the heat this summer by going to the beach every day or taking dips in your own pool. But you can cool off at home by drinking frosty cold glasses of cooling, thirst quenching iced tea.

Iced tea has been our most popular summertime cooler since 1904 when Richard Blechynden, an exhibitor at the St. Louis World's Fair, hit on the idea of putting ice in his hot tea and serving it to the sun drenched, parched fair goers. Today Americans consume over 10 billion glasses of iced tea during the summer months.

Tea is one summer beverage which isn't filling, with a cloying aftertaste like so many sweet carbonated drinks. It's always non-filling and non-fattening. You can drink glass after glass without adding any calories. In fact, a tall sparkling glass of iced tea has no calories, compared with the 65-100 calories in sweet carbonated drinks. Economical too! Only a penny a glass.

For a glass of thirst quenching iced tea simply put one rounded teaspoon of Instant Tea into a glass of cold tap water and stir. Add ice, sugar and lemon to suit your taste. For a quart of iced tea, just put 4 rounded teaspoons of instant tea into a quart of cold tap water and stir.

Making your iced tea this easy way is just the beginning. It's fun to glamorize your iced tea with all sorts of fancy, fruity garnishes and citrus juices.

Practically any fruit juice will combine beautifully with iced tea. Bright-colored fruit flavors that are especially good tasting companions are grape, lemon, orange, pineapple, cranberry, grapefruit, and raspberry juice. Apricot nectar, lemonade and limeade are also refreshing flavor complements to iced tea.

The number of garnishes you can use is limited only by your imagination. Take, for example, lemon, lime, or orange wedges, mint sprigs, fresh pineapple spears, sugar frosted grapes, fresh strawberries, and maraschino cherries. Thin wedges of peeled cantaloupe or honeydew are also good. It's also fun to make fancy cubes, or freeze a mint leaf, bright berry or cherry into the center of each. You can also try tinting your ice cubes with food coloring. For a special touch make a fruit kabob for a fruity stirrer. Simply place a pineapple cube, slice of lemon or lime, sprig of mint, cherry and fresh strawberry on a stirrer and serve with your iced tea.

Your iced tea containers can be sporty or sophisticated. Serve your iced tea in a brandy snifter, colorful mug, sherbet glass, or old-fashioned glass. And for an outdoor party or barbecue supper, serve your iced tea or tea punch in a hollowed out watermelon gaily garnished with citrus slices and maraschino cherries. Float watermelon balls in the punch.

Tea and the fruits of summer will be your most popular beverage for these sweltering days.

This Week In Congress
by Rep. Charles Mathias

Some months ago I voted for the Area Redevelopment Act of 1961. I have been very enthusiastic about this legislation from its inception in Congress since it contains many provisions which offer wide opportunities for new vitality and progress throughout much of Maryland. Let me draw your attention to some of the important consequences of this program.

Last week a number of areas in Maryland's Sixth District were designated as "redevelopment areas" by the United States Department of Agriculture. As a result of this decision these areas —including all of Washington and Garrett counties — are now eligible to receive Federal grants and loans for developing industry and establishing needed public facilities.

Let me emphasize that classification of a redevelopment area under the 1961 Area Redevelopment Act does not mean automatic aid. Responsibility rests with elected officials as well as all citizens to prepare dynamic and progressive plans for economic growth in the areas. As the Redevelopment Act specifies, qualified areas must first gain State and Federal approval of an overall program of economic development before consideration can be given to financial assistance for specific projects designed to create permanent employment opportunities. Thus is is now up to all residents of the redevelopment areas in Maryland to join together in formulating plans and carrying those plans into action for the economic development and consolidation of the Sixth District. My Washington office has already received a number of inquiries from industrial concerns interested in possible relocation in designated redevelopment areas.

As an example of what this program can do for the Sixth District, let me mention the recent case of Gassville, Arkansas. That low-income rural area in the Ozark Mountains received the first assistance provided to any redevelopment area under the new ARA program. A loan of $31,000 and a grant of $129,000 helped to finance a water system in the small town which will make possible the operation of an area-financed shirt factory that will in time employ 1500 persons.

In the weeks and months ahead I want to see loans and grants from this program awarded to areas in our Sixth District. But it will take imaginative planning on your part and a deep faith and interest in your communities. I have often thought, as I know you have, of the vast potential development that exists in our counties. This area redevelopment program now presents an opportunity to transform our potential energy into active, far-reaching progress.

Versatile Chicken

Chicken is such a versatile favorite that good cooks are pleased, but not surprised, to discover a delicious new way to serve it. However, Sherried Chicken Saute is currently sweeping the country. Its special appeal comes from the truly succulent sauce made with Italian-style mushroom sauce enhanced by the nutty flavor of California Sherry. Bright green pepper adds a note of color.

This is really a delightful way to enjoy the young fryers which are so plentiful this time of year. Glasses of chilled white wine, served with them, will compliment the wine flavor in the chicken and increase enjoyment of the meal.

¼ cup melted shortening
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup liquid from cooked broccoli
½ cup milk

Sandwich Supper

A Meal-in-One Chicken Sandwich makes a superb luncheon or supper dish. Make a medium thick cream sauce using 1 cup milk and 2 tablespoons flour seasoned with butter, salt and pepper. Add 1 egg yolk and cook a few minutes more stirring constantly. Add ½ cup cubed cooked chicken and ⅝&..¾⅞⅞⅞⅞⅞ chicken and ¼ cup diced green pepper. Pour the sauce over Melba toast in a shallow baking dish. Top each sauce covered piece of toast with a tomato slice and a slice of cheddar cheese. Rim each "sandwich" with finely chopped cooked spinach. Bake 15 minutes in a 400 degrees Fahrenheit oven and serve at once.

Entertaining friends in the afternoon? Here's a Chicken Mousse that's sure to impress and please them. Soften one package of unflavored gelatin in ½ cup cold water, and dissolve in 2 cups hot chicken stock or bouillon. Season with grated onion, Worcestershire sauce, paprika, salt and pepper. Chill until slightly thickened. Mix in 2 cups diced cooked chicken, ½ cup finely chopped celery and ¼ cup finely chopped green pepper. Reconstitute ½ cup nonfat dry milk with ½ cup water and beat until stiff. Beat in 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Fold into the gelatin mixture and chill until firm. Serve on crispy fresh watercress or other salad greens.

Or serve this tempting Baked Chicken Casserole, a dish you can just slip in the oven and forget until the guests arrive and it's time to eat. Using a 2 to 2½ pound cut up chicken, dredge pieces in flour seasoned with salt and pepper, and brown in ¼ cup butter. Place pieces in a casserole, add ½ cup sliced fresh-cooked or canned mushrooms and 1 cup sour cream diluted with 1 cup water, sprinkle lightly with thyme, and cover. Bake for 1 hour in a 325 degrees Fahrenheit oven. Serve over fluffy rice or boiled potatoes.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Last Tuesday evening, over the TV and radio networks, President Kennedy reviewed the Berlin situation, and pointed out that the best possible assurance of world peace would be for us to be strong. He outlined plans for building up our military might. It was a thoughtful, reflective talk. In case of a national emergency, party lines always disappear. We will all give whatever support is necessary. To pay the cost of the military build-up, we will have to tighten our belts and give up unnecessary spending. The sympathy of the American people is with the President. They hope he will surround himself with seasoned, experienced men on whom he can depend for sound advice. This is no time for academic, amateurish advice.

FOREIGN AID — Two features of President Kennedy's foreign aid request assure that it will be given a rough time. One is the very size of the request. The other is a proposal to by-pass for the next five years the purse-string controls of the appropriations committees with respect to a big part of foreign aid spending. Congress has granted for foreign aid an average of 3.2 billion dollars a year for the years 1955 through 1961. President Kennedy has requested 4.8 billion for 1962. In the original Eisenhower budget for 1962, it was contemplated that Congress would consider all the proposed foreign aid funds through the regular appropriations process. The Kennedy request, however, calls for funds to be provided through the backdoor spending route — and more of the same for each of the four years after 1962. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has approved the request. It remains to be seen what changes will be made on the Senate floor, then by the House, and finally in conference.

The program is going to be examined closely. The President has candidly admitted these failings in the program: waste, duplication, delays, lack of comprehensive planning, lack of competent career servants to administer it, and lack of coordination with other nations. The President says, however, "that for every example of waste, there are a hundred examples of prudent and successful projects — that, for every nation cited as no better off as a result of our aid, there are a dozen nations which have strengthened their economies and resisted both external and internal attacks, with the help of American goods, food, and dollars."

OUTER MONGOLIA — Outer Mongolia is a Red satellite, a province of Soviet Russia, and I am shocked at the suggestion that the Administration is considering our giving it diplomatic recognition. Recognition would imply acceptance of the fiction that this Red satellite is "an independent nation." It would do great damage to the U. S. position in the Far East and would represent a form of appeasement. It is feared that the real aim of the left-wing forces supporting Outer Mongolia's recognition is not to obtain "a listening post," as claimed, but to soften up the American people's resistance to recognizing Red China.

MEDICARE? — Last year Congress declined to be rushed into an extension of the Social Security system to cover health insurance for the aged; it enacted instead the Kerr-mills bill for a program of assistance through the States to help bear medical costs for the elderly where need exists. Already 27 States have put the Kerr-Mills program into operation. It helps some who would not be aided by the more socialistic bill backed by the Administration. Furthermore, a great deal of medical care is provided by Federally supported welfare or old-age assistance payments, and by municipal hospitals and philanthropic organizations.

Adoption of the Administration-sponsored King bill would open a large door toward socialization of medical services not only for the elderly but for people of all ages. Some of its advocates have avowed that intent. Payment for health services through Government insurance would operate almost inevitably to regiment the practice of medicine and to restrict the selection of a physician, hospital, or healing method. Many believe it would lower the quality of health services, while adding the cost of a Federal bureaucracy.

The voluntary systems which are developing under the Kerr-Mills law and through private insurance give promise of meeting the nation's requirements efficiently and effectively with a preservation of individual freedoms and initiative. They deserve a fair trial and an opportunity to show what they can do.

SPACE PROGRAM — The United States is making great strides in space. The second U. S. astronaut, "Gus" Grissom, went into space and was returned safely through the atmosphere. He traveled at speeds over 5,000 miles an hour 118 miles above the earth and landed exactly where he was supposed to land. His swimming the last 70 feet of the trip, because of an escape hatch blowing out after he had landed, was just part of the day's work. The next goal is to send a man in three great sweeps around the earth and recover him at sea.

President Kennedy has signed the bill to speed up efforts to land a man on the moon. About 400 million dollars was provided for this program in the year ahead. Over the next 10 years the cost will run into possibly 20 to 30 billion dollars. Many pros and cons have been advanced as to why this gigantic expenditure of scientific effort and taxpayers' money would or would not be a wise undertaking. Those in favor, with whom the President has sided, argue that the Soviets are programing an ambitious space program which doubtless will include spectaculars such as a voyage to the moon, that it will have military applications, and that, therefore, to limit America's efforts in this field would jeopardize American security as well as prestige. They argue that the United States will hardly be able to propose a system of international law governing outer space, or an international pooling of space exploration, if its own space stations do not exist and if it is not on the way to making its own landings on the moon. No one knows what the by-products may be—what new metallurgy will develop, what new types of rocket fuel, what nuclear advances, what biology, what rocketry and space-station technology. Tomorrow's space technology may have many applications here on earth; it may also have applications in terms of military hardware and strategy.

A Maryland high school senior, Miss Carolyn Fobbs, has won a national contest with an essay on "I Speak For Democracy." Her essay, too lengthy to reprint here, is inspiring. In one place, the thoughtful teen-ager said: "Only in a democracy may an individual grow to his full possibilities whatever they may be; my form of government has given me a future which I hold in my own hands."

Yes; our forefathers handed down to us the most noble experiment in government. It was founded in religious faith, conceived and nurtured by self-reliant, courageous men and women who were willing to give their genius, their energy, even their lives, to preserve it. When the President, in his inaugural address, exhorted, "Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country," he struck a spark in our hearts. It was as though, for one fleeting moment, the new President made contact with the self-reliance of our pioneer heritage. The people responded with a feeling of pride and courage, as they recognized, perhaps only subconsciously, a basic statement of American faith. Let us be loyal guardians of our heritage.

Shrimp Casserole

A Shrimp Casserole makes an attractive company dish, but may well serve for regular family meals. Arrange the following in layers in a greased 1½-quart casserole: 1 cup cleaned cooked shrimp, 2 sliced hard-cooked eggs and ½ cup sliced ripe olives. Repeat these layers using the same amount of ingredients. Cook ¼ cup chopped onion in 2 pats of butter until soft. Add a can of grated sharp cheese and light cream, and season with dry mustard. Blend until smooth. Pour over the layers. Top with buttered bread crumbs and chopped parsley. Bake 30 minutes in a 350°F. oven.

For a truly elegant salad, cool and refreshing, try shrimp and Fruit Paradise. Use pineapple shells instead of a regular salad bowl. Cut the pineapple in half lengthwise, and carefully remove the core and meat. Arrange the pineapple cubes, orange sections and avocado slices (sprinkled with lemon juice to prevent discoloration) in the pineapple shells. Drain canned shrimp, chill 5 minutes in ice water, drain again, and arrange on top of the fruit. Serve with a favorite oil or sour cream dressing.

Shrimp makes an excellent stuffing. Try it with roast turkey, broiler-fryers, or duck. It goes well as a meat stuffing, too. For a 4-pound bird, cut ½ pound thawed pre-cooked frozen shrimp into small pieces. Cook the shrimp with ½ cup chopped onion and 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, in 3 tablespoons butter or fat, until the onion is tender. Combine 1 beaten egg and 2 tablespoons milk, and season with thyme, salt and pepper. Add it to the shrimp mixture with 3 cups soft bread cubes. Mix together until moistened.

Hot Fruit Punch

1 cup strong Tea
1 cup pineapple juice
1 cup orange juice
2 cups water
¼ cup sugar
6 pineapple spears
24 whole cloves

Combine tea, fruit juices, water and sugar. Heat to a boil. Place clove studded pineapple spear in each mug. Pour in hot punch. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Do you flinch from close inspection because of an oily skin? Make that self-consciousness disappear.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

To Remove The Shine From An Oily Skin

The girl with oily skin usually cares little that her type of skin ages less rapidly than if it were dry. She's much too self-conscious about the shine on her face, constantly caking makeup and the blemishes that are part of her problem.

There can be nothing half-hearted about the care of oily skin. Even cleansing must be extra careful and frequent because the oil attracts dirt and holds it. But the right cleansing plus two special treatments I'm about to describe do result in wonderful improvement — in self-confidence as well as looks — in a matter of weeks.

Cleansing should be thorough at least three times a day. Remove makeup with a non-oily or liquifying skin cleanser and wash the face with tepid water and a floating soap. Work up a good lather and gently massage it into the skin with the finger tips or a complexion brush. Rinse well and pat dry, then use an astringent and let it air dry. Use a night care lotion that discourages oily secretions.

Once every week, use tincture of green soap that can be bought at a drug store. Apply it to your face gently and rinse it off until the water runs clear. If your face is sensitive afterward, follow the soap with a sparing amount of solid albaline and let it remain on the skin overnight.

Weekly, but three days after the green soap, make an oatmeal mask for your face. Beat an egg to a froth and add enough uncooked oatmeal to make a stiff paste, then enough water to make it spread smoothly. Apply the mixture generously, skipping only the areas around the eyes. Now lie down for ten minutes to let the mask do its work. Afterward, the mask strips off with the aid of a tablespoon, and the last few flecks wash away in warm water held in cupped hands.

Whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a pattern of safe, laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin, plus stamped self-addressed envelope.

ANCIENT AUTO

PARIS (UPI) — A 28-year-old automobile will have a starring role in a motion picture to be filmed in Morocco, Greece and Turkey.

The car, a 1933 Rolls Royce, is the central "figure" in "The Rolls of Gold," written by Tom Rowe. The film is the first to be scheduled for production by the new Mediterranean Studios Association, organized by Marion Gering, former Hollywood director. Filming starts in September.

The M.S.A. will utilize existing film studios in Athens, Rabat and Istanbul in a deal designed to develop Morocco and Turkey as motion picture production centers with recognized commercial value.

NATURALLY

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I got my engagement ring last night and I wanted you to be among the first to know because I think you are responsible.

My boy friend tried to talk me into a few things which I didn't think were right. After a couple of months of battling I knew I needed outside help or I would collapse, so I sent for your booklet "Necking and Petting and How Far To Go."

Whenever I felt myself weakening I took the booklet out of my purse and read him certain sentences. At first he said "Ann's probably a shriveled up old crow who has never had a date in her life. That picture of her must be 30 years old."

Then his brother wrote that he heard you speak and that you were not an old crow, but a fairly decent looking woman. I guess that turned the tide because from then on he stopped making fun of your booklet and last night he gave me my ring. Thanks a lot. —J. R.

DEAR J. R.: You're welcome. From the tone of your letter I don't think you need to send for the follow-up booklet called "Before You Marry — Is It Love or Sex?"

DEAR ANN: My husband's older sister is ruining my life. She'll be 66 next month (a widow) loaded with dough and strong as a mule. She drove alone from Maine to California last winter and changed two tires on the road. Ruth plays poker four nights a week, takes mambo lessons and lives it up. She'll go any place at the drop of a travel folder but when WE want to leave town she becomes mysteriously ill.

Last week we were packed to leave on a fishing trip up north. She phoned at 2 a. m. to say she was having a heart attack. We rushed over there and the doctor said she had a slight muscle spasm in her left arm. (I'll bet she'd been playing the slot machine.)

My husband says he knows she's a liar but if anything happened to her while he was away he'd never forgive himself. What can I do? — CAN'T COPE

DEAR COPE: If your husband knows she's a liar and continues to fall for her dramatics then he's pretty bugged, too.

It sounds as if Ruth travels it up pretty good. Why not plan your trips to coincide with hers? Then if she has a heart attack in Las Vegas while you are in Wisconsin your husband will be able to forgive himself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You gave the right answer to that woman who wanted to know if she should change her son's last name so that it would be the same as his stepfather's

My mother was a widow, too, and when she remarried I had to keep my blood father's name because it said so in the will. My stepfather had sons and it was hard for me to accept them as brothers for a long time because of the different last names.

All through school I had to answer questions and I hated it. It seems very odd to kids that brothers should not have the same last name. Unless children are almost grown, it is my firm belief that their names should be changed when their mother changes hers. — ODD MAN OUT

CONFIDENTIAL TO POOR-FARM FRANK: A wife who goes so completely wild with the charge accounts should be put on a limited allowance. She sounds ill.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

4-H Tractor Driver Event Set For Cumberland Fair

Approximately ten members of the 4-H Boys Club of Allegany County will participate in the tractor operators contest at this month's Cumberland Fair.

James B. Arnold, assistant county farm agent, who is in charge of the contest, said only those boys who attended a series of winter meetings are eligible. The winner will represent the county in the state contest at Timonium later this month if he is over 14 years of age.

The local contest is scheduled for Thursday, August 17, starting at 1 p. m. The boy with the lowest score is adjudged the winner. In addition to the operation of the farm vehicle, contestants will also be given a written examination of 25 questions.

Boys will be judged on safety and skill in operating tractors over a rigid obstacle course featuring sharp turns. Hitting stakes of changing directions, other than those necessary, will cost the contestants points. Maneuvering both two-wheel and four-wheel implements are included in the contest.

The average time for running the course is about five minutes.

Arnold will be master of ceremonies.

The traditional list of wedding anniversaries recommended by social authorities includes wood for the fifth anniversary, tin or aluminum for the tenth, crystal for the 15th and china for the 20th.

GETS SCHOLARSHIP — A scholarship has been awarded to Diane Hill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wayne W. Hill, 517 Louisiana Avenue, to the University of Pittsburgh where she will study journalism.

Kelly Employe 'Sailor Of Month'

A sergeant on the police force at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant has been chosen "Sailor of the Month" by officers in the Naval Reserve Surface Division here.

Willys L. Smelser, 34, who resides on Maple Street in Bowling Green, was selected on the basis of drill attendance, military bearing, application to duties and advancement in rating, according to Gerard P. Calhoun, commanding officer of the unit.

Smelser, machinist's mate first class, has been a member of the Naval Reserve for seven years, and during World War II served aboard the cruiser, Duluth, which participated in the invasion of Okinawa and operated with the Third Fleet in the Pacific Theatre.

He also was stationed with the occupation forces in Kure, Japan, immediately following the war.

Smelser has been employed by Kelly-Springfield for the past 10 years.

He is married to the former Miss Leona Collins, of Ridgeley. The couple has a daughter, aged 11, and a son, 9.

81 Join Army Here During Fiscal Year

The Army recruiting office in the Cumberland Post Office processed 81 young men into the Army during the fiscal year that ended June 30, M-Sgt. Thomas Walbert, local recruiter, announced yesterday.

During fiscal year 1961, recruiters in the Second U. S. Army Recruiting District enlisted enough young men to comprise almost three modern pentomic infantry Divisions. Col. Fred J. Martineau, district commander said.

There were 33,212 enlistees including 806 young women recruited from the seven-state Second Army area which includes Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and the District of Columbia, Col. Martineau said.

This percentage of enlistees was the largest in the United States and resulted in the Second Army capturing the annual recruiting award which will be presented by the Secretary of the Army.

The trophy is given annually to the Army area which accomplishes the highest percentage of their assigned quota and personnel procurement.

In addition to accomplishing 121 per cent of the assigned objective from the Department of the Army, Second Army led all other Army areas in percentage of enlistments every month from August 1960 through May 1961. nounced yesterday.

A Code Complete With Loopholes

A new code of conduct forbidding government employes from using their official status for private gain may be a helpful guide for conscientious workers. But it may be too flexible to accomplish much with those looking for loopholes.

Note the general language. The code says that no employe "may solicit or accept directly or indirectly anything of economic value as a gift, gratuity or favor which might reasonably be interpreted by others as being of such nature that it could affect his impartiality, from any person, corporation or group."

The catch is in the words "of economic value." Is a fruit cake or a bottle of whisky or some gadget received as a Christmas gift of sufficient "economic value" to affect the impartiality of the employe? Maybe not, but there have been instances of public employes receiving as many as 100 gifts at Christmas.

The economic value of such an accumulation can be considerable. What is the government employe to do—refuse even the small gift? The code isn't precise on that point.

He is forbidden to accept a gift "that might reasonably be interpreted by others" as affecting his impartiality. But who is to know what interpretation "others" will put upon any gift and, indeed, what is a reasonable interpretation? Wouldn't it have been better to have banned all gifts?

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Too Much Secrecy

The news policy of this Administration is neither wise nor efficient. It will not last long. It will only stimulate good reporting which has long been absent, particularly from Washington.

Secrecy leads to rumors and guesses. Congressman Pelly of Washington asked to be furnished with the names of American firms seeking export licenses to deal with Soviet countries. Such data is available in the Department of Commerce. I quote Representative Pelly:

"While my request has not as yet been formally acknowledged, I do know the nature of the reply I shall receive. When Secretary Hodges appeared before the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee on July 11, an opportunity was presented for me to personally ask about the matter, and the Secretary stated that the decision had been made not to disclose the names of any firms doing business with the Kremlin."

Why the secrecy?

Do the firms in this business need protection from boycott or mayhem? If it is as bad as all that, why would they want to do business with Soviet countries? If Americans are ashamed to do business with Iron Curtain countries, they should not do it.

It must be said that the policy of secrecy is at least 20 years old. It did not originate in the Kennedy Administration. But that does not alter the fact that we are dealing with it now and a decision concerning it needs to be made now. It will be recalled that when Mikoyan came to this country, he was wined and dined by American businessmen and bankers. The businessmen were looking for contracts and undoubtedly some got some.

The excuse generally given is that permits are only given for non-strategic material—a term hardly definable in this age of total war. Is wheat non-strategic? Canada ships enormous quantities of wheat to Red China. No item can be strategically more important because Red China is going through a periodical famine. Does Canada, for a profit, wish to keep Mao Tze-tung's regime in office? Even if it is true that business has no conscience, it is also true that nations can go under by making fundamental mistakes in policy.

There can be no excuse for the blabber-mouth in any department, as there can be none for the indiscreet boaster or the homosexual who is subject to blackmail. Nevertheless, a broad, general suppression of information does not succeed. It can only lead to rumor and guessing.

During certain periods of the Roosevelt Administration, it was easier to get accurate information concerning the Administration from London than in Washington.

It may be recalled that we were told that nothing of a secret nature was concluded at the Potsdam Conference. Also, it may be recalled that the reason World War II started was that Germany and Russia invaded Poland. At the conversation between Stalin and Harry Hopkins on May 27, 1945, the Top Secret document to our government stated:

"It is therefore in Russia's vital interest that Poland should be both strong and friendly. He (Stalin) said there was no intention on the part of the Soviet Union to interfere in Poland's internal affairs, that Poland would live under the parliamentary system which is like Czechoslovakia, Belgium and Holland and that any talk of an intention to Sovietize Poland was stupid . . . . The Soviet system was not exportable—it must develop from within on the basis of a set of conditions which were not present in Poland. He said all the Soviet Union wanted was that Poland should not be in a position to open the gates to Germany and in order to prevent this Poland must be strong and democratic."

We know today from the course of events that Stalin was lying. We know that even at that time, Stalin was organizing to make Poland a satellite and that Marshal Rokossovsky was delegated to take control of Poland.

Admiral Zacharias, one of the greatest intelligence officers we have ever had, reported:

"Here again we failed to recognize a major engagement in the cold war, for the Rokossovsky appointment was the first step in a premeditated move to deploy the Soviet forces for the showdown. The strange assignment of a Russian marshal to command a nominally alien army was, indeed, by far the most important show of Stalin's hand."

Reporters at the time evaluated what they could learn of this differently, but it is preferable to have differing reports than none at all.

Ex-Lobbyist For Steamship Group Now Drafts Shipping Legislation

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson is now in Germany checking firsthand on the Berlin crisis. In his absence his column is being written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — In the great game of political pressure, lobbyists are expected to confine their activities to the Capitol corridors and cocktail lounges. But the shipping interests have managed to put a lobbyist on a key Senate committee where he is now drafting the legislation he was formerly paid to peddle.

This dexterous young man is Donald D. Webster, who has the clean-cut, close-cropped look of an Ivy Leaguer.

Back in 1958, he passed the hat among 23 big steamship companies and collected $58,487.40 to set up a Washington lobby. Its purpose: to perpetuate the dual-rate system under which the steamship companies fix rates and grant discounts to faithful shippers.

The shipping men were spurred into action by a 1958 Supreme Court decision which struck a blow at dual-rate practices. Congress passed a quick, temporary measure to permit the industry to continue its old ways until new legislation could be worked out.

As secretary-treasurer and chief lobbyist for the steamship group, Webster hurried up to Capitol Hill to persuade Congressmen to enact into law the system the shipping companies wanted.

But the House Merchant Marine Committee didn't adopt what the shipping men wanted at all. Impressed by disclosures that the big ocean freighters had been flagrantly violating the maritime laws, the committee passed a tough measure that would police the industry and take away past privileges.

Changes His Hat

While this legislation was in the works on the House side, Webster quietly dropped his role as lobbyist and turned up as chief counsel of the Senate Merchant Marine Subcommittee.

He is now paid by the taxpayers to help draft the very legislation he used to be paid by the steamship companies to promote.

It is a happy assignment for the ex-shipping lobbyist, who met with lawyers for the steamship interests only a few days ago to work out a substitute for the tough House bill.

Subcommittee Chairman Clair Engle of California, who gets his advice on such matters from Webster, invited the steamship companies to submit "some language with which ship operators, the shippers, and our foreign competitors can live."

This amounted to an invitation to the shipping men to draft the law under which they would be regulated. Both American and foreign lines, which work together to fix rates, obligingly sent their attorneys to consult with Webster.

Out of this skull session, needless to say, came a proposed bill that would wipe out the House reforms. It would also modify a $1,000-a-day penalty clause, that has been in the law since 1916, for certain maritime violations.

This little item could make a difference of many million dollars for the taxpayers. For several of the big shop operators now face a grand jury investigation which could subject them to the $1,000-a-day fine for violations dating back several years.

The shipping companies' happy helper, Don Webster, also arranged Senate hearings which he tried to stack in favor of the industry's soft-boiled proposals.

Who Killed 'Dead Horse'?

He went through the motions of inviting opponents to testify but warned them not to bother to discuss the House reforms.

"The House bill is a dead horse," he repeated in at least two telephone calls.

One who was called, J. Richard Townsend, attorney for the Pacific Coast Coffee Association, protested indignantly in a letter to key Congressmen:

"In the course of my conversation with Mr. Webster, he stated that any recommendations for strong regulation in the dual-rate bill are not being favorably considered by the Senate committee. . . . We hope that if the Senate adopts any such bill as outlined by Mr. Webster, the House will not agree to it."

How did a shipping lobbyist, who also happens to be a Republican, become chief counsel for the Democratic-dominated Senate subcommittee that passes on shipping legislation?

He was recommended to the subcommittee by George Killion, a Democratic power in California, who has raised campaign funds for Senator Engle. Killion also happens to be president of the American President Lines which contributed $4,111.20 to Webster's former lobbying operation and once hired him as a full-time Washington representative.

Webster is also a political protege of Sen. John Marshall Butler, Maryland Republican, who first brought him to Capitol Hill as an aide. The bright-eyed Butler, who has the expression of a startled Robin, represents the Republican minority on the Merchant Marine Subcommittee.

Webster's comment given to this column: "It is true that I was a lobbyist for the steamship companies before I came to the subcommittee. But no one who knows me would question my integrity."

Quotes And Quips

Pretty Pat Donovan, secretary to Food-For-Peace Director George McGovern, was showing three priests around the White House the other day when they almost bumped into President Kennedy rounding a corner. The President stopped to shake hands and invited them to inspect his office. Said Father James Michael Doyle afterward: "I was more excited than when I met the archbishop." . . .

Minnesota Sen. Hubert Humphrey, reflecting on the role of lobbyists confessed recently that he had been a fair-trade advocate ever since his boyhood spent in a drugstore. When a lobbyist for fair trade laws comes around, Humphrey said, "I don't think of him as a lobbyist with an ax to grind but as a man with sound judgment and good will." . . .

House Clerk Tom Carruthers is obliged to walk a tightrope between those two feuding, cantankerous House leaders, Speaker Sam Rayburn and Rules Chairman Howard Smith. The harassed Carruthers is particularly careful not to talk out of turn to this column, which Smith hates with a Southern passion. For all Carruthers' care, however, his name happened to appear the other day in a routine column story blasting Smith. Carruthers waited in trepidation for his boss's reaction. "Good morning, Tom," greeted Smith sweetly. "I see by the newspapers that you have arrived."

New Balanced Defense Theory Will Be Costly

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

American defense spending will almost certainly remain, hereafter, at the level of about $46,000,000,000 to $47,000,000,000 a year. This level has been reached, this year, because of the emergency appropriation requests caused by the Berlin crisis; and it is also beginning to be regarded as the right and useful permanent level.

In itself, this is a fact of much importance. Another five to six billion a year of defense money, annually injected into the economy will have all sorts of significant impacts. Yet the background fact, which explains the expectation of permanently increased defense spending, is really very much more important.

More defense spending is needed, in plain truth, because Secretary of Defense McNamara has been quietly junking the dominant strategic concepts of the Eisenhower era. The "new look" theory, adopted in 1953 to justify a reduced defense budget, has been tossed in the discard in favor of a new theory of balanced defense.

The "new look" theory was carried to its logical limit when the late John Foster Dulles proclaimed his doctrine of "massive (unclear) retaliation." It downgraded the conventional weapons. It made the nuclear weapons, not just the weapons of last resort, but the orthodox weapons of modern warfare. As formulated in a series of National Security Council directives of the Eisenhower era, the theory called for use of nuclear weapons in any conflict more serious than a local police action.

This theory has not been junked by Secretary McNamara because he is an eager spender of public funds. He is the very opposite, probably to a degree that is dangerous in a Secretary of Defense. The "new look" theory has, in fact been abandoned for the more costly balanced defense theory, solely because it was considered to be hopelessly unworkable.

It had left the United States with quite inadequate means to fight anything but a nuclear war. But a nation with globe-encircling interests and commitments cannot afford this posture. A small, wholly self-contained nation might perhaps say, "If anyone puts a foot across our borders, we'll drop a thermonuclear bomb on him." But you cannot say, "We'll drop thermonuclear bombs if Communist guerrillas are sent into South Vietnam."

This enormous flaw in the "new look" theory was proven in the last Eisenhower years, when Communist guerrillas were indeed sent, both into Laos and South Vietnam. A conventional response—the dispatch of American ground troops to Laos — was very seriously considered by President Eisenhower. It is probably going to prove tragically unfortunate that this Eisenhower plan was not carried out by President Kennedy.

But neither President Eisenhower, nor his Secretary of Defense, nor anyone else in his Administration, ever gave the remotest consideration to defending Southeast Asia in the manner called for by the "new look" theory — with thermonuclear bombs. Meanwhile, the shortage of available ground troops, resulting from the "new look" theory, was a prime reason for President Kennedy's failure to send American forces into Laos.

But the newly adopted theory of a balanced defense is not just intended to cover this sort of situation. It is more ambitious than that. It is intended to provide the means for a rational, measured response to any kind of challenge, all the way from a local guerrilla probe to a Soviet thermonuclear strike.

The best proof that the balanced defense theory does not downgrade or neglect the ultimate weapons is to be found in the immense amount of attention paid to these weapons by the McNamara team. More money is being put into the weapons themselves. More money is also being put into control systems, hardened sites, and other devices to increase the range of possible responses. For even if ultimate weapons have to be used, there are other things to do besides using all of them at once, in a single destructive burst.

But of course it costs money to abandon the idea that any war this country fights will consist of a single, terrible destructive burst. It is remarkably economical to base defense planning on the unspoken assumption that if war comes, the outcome will be known within eight or ten hours. The other approach demands expenditure on more divisions, and more tactical aircraft to support them, and more transport aircraft to provide mobility and many other costly things.

All the same, five to six billion dollars per annum, or about 1 per cent of the national product, is not a large additional sum to pay, in order to purchase a wordable national defense.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

VIRTUOSO — Rep. Emanuel Celler, (D-N. Y.), has built up a warm friendship over the years with a Republican colleague from Pennsylvania, Rep. Carroll Kearns. In high good humor the other day Kearns told the following story on Celler, in the words Celler told it to him:

"When I was a little fellow, I used to play the violin. My father invited Fritz Kreisler in to listen to me play one day and when I had finished the third movement of the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto, my father turned to Kreisler and asked: 'How do you like his execution?' To which Kreisler replied: 'I am in favor of it'."

ACCIDENT INCIDENT — Sen. Frank Church of Idaho was notified that his 3-year-old son "Spuddy" had suffered an accident to his eye. Not knowing that it was of a minor nature, Senator Church rushed to the hospital.

Running up to the first woman in white he saw, the Senator breathlessly introduced himself and hastened to say, "My little boy has been brought here. He's had a bad accident to his eye, and . . ."

"I know," interrupted the woman in white. "I'm your wife."

Hot Weather Not So Bad If You Get Used To It

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most people object to hot weather but it's not so bad after you get used to it. This may take two or more days, depending upon what the individual is doing. Acclimation is delayed by spending most of the time in an air conditioned room; but out of door activity steps it up.

It may be smart to relax or take a siesta during the middle of the day but inactivity has little cooling effect. The system adjusts to the heat faster with normal activity or light exercise.

The salt requirements in torrid weather are influenced by our adjusting mechanism. Most of us get along with normal amounts unless we are working hard and perspiring profusely. The need for salt lessens as the person becomes inured to high temperature.

Perspiration is loaded with salt during the first sizzling days but the amount lessens as we become accustomed to the heat. In this way, needed salt is retained and adding more to the diet only creates thirst.

Some methods of cooling off are not as practical as we have been led to believe. A cool shower or bath, for example, cleans and refreshes temporarily. But cold contracts the skin capillaries and produces a bloodless layer of insulation on the surface. This is the way the system behaves in winter to conserve heat. The opposite must be encouraged so that the capillaries will dilate and bring more blood to the surface, where it is cooled. A hot bath does this but the added heat may be oppressive. Use tepid water.

Many find relief at the beach but this is not always satisfactory unless the individual remains in the water. When the temperature of the air is 105 degrees F. the ground temperature is 145. This is why sidewalks and sand are too hot to walk barefoot. A breeze from the lake or ocean has a cooling effect, especially when the skin is drenched with water or perspiration.

TOMORROW: The lens of the eye.

BOUTS OF GOUT

J. B. writes: Does gout medication have to be continued indefinitely or can it be stopped at intervals?

REPLY

It should be continued indefinitely by those who have had several acute attacks.

SWIMMING AFTER SURGERY

W. E. A. writes: Is it safe for a person to take swimming lessons after having an ulcer operation four months ago?

REPLY

Yes—but no belly flops.

LET SON DECIDE

A. R. writes: My son is engaged to a girl whose mother is extremely overweight. Her older sisters are fast becoming overweight although they were normal when they married. A fat wife would not fit in with our son's future and he says she has promised not to let herself go. Please advise worried parents.

REPLY

Your son will settle his future when he marries "for better or for worse." Let him do the worrying. He may change his mind about fat girls during the next 10 years. If he remains in love and his wife gains weight, he may decide there is more of her to love.

OLD SCARS

E. M. writes: Two years ago I burned my left arm with a curling iron. Is there any way the scar can be eradicated?

REPLY

Yes, but operation would be required and the surgeon should be able to remove the ugly car with or without the use of a skin graft.

CROTCHETY ARTHRITICS

F. H. writes: Does arthritis make a person nervous and irritable?

REPLY

Any infirmity is likely to make the victim cranky, particularly one who is sensitive and can't take it.

GROWNUPS GET IT, TOO

C. V. writes: At what age is rheumatic fever most common?

REPLY

In children between the ages of 5 and 15. But adults are not immune. In World War II there were more than 40,000 cases among members of the armed forces.

SPURRED SPINE

T. J. writes: My husband went to our doctor because of pain in the neck. X-rays showed spurs between the vertebras. Can these projections be removed by surgery?

REPLY

Surgery is not recommended for this purpose, except as a last resort. A neck brace is more helpful because it relieves irritation.

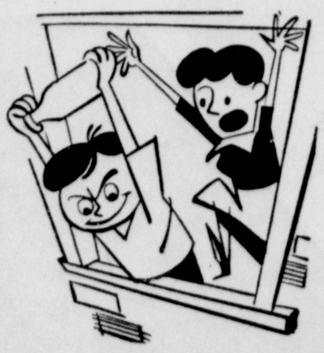
To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Sam Levenson tells about the day his mother collared him just as he was about to drop an empty milk bottle on the noggin of his public school principal from a window in his seventh story apartment. "Have you lost your mind?" cried his mother, giving him a whack over the ear. 'The grocer gives us five cents apiece for empty milk bottles like that."

A ravishing young nurse had just broken her engagement to her doctor fiance and was tearfully reporting the details to her roommate. "Do you mean to say," demanded the indignant roommate, "that that cheap palooka actually demanded every one of his presents to you back?" "Not only that," sniffed the bereft young nurse, "but he handed me a bill for 46 visits."



Co-ed to her studying companion: "What more could any girl want on a cold evening than a warm robe, a glass of milk, a good book to study and — oh, thank heaven! The phone is ringing!"

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Sen. Barry Goldwater

(Editor's Note: Jim Bishop has left for Europe and will write from abroad in about a week. Today's column was written by Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona. It's about vacation memories of his family).

About 15 years of our family life has been spent apart, with only a few "now and thens" when we have been as one. It has been hard on us, but it has made each of us respect and love each other more and, at the same time, has whetted our desire to make our gatherings real occasions — which they are.

When we get together, we show movies and slides of past vacations when the children were younger. Little Peggy can't appreciate them because she is too young, but my other children — Barry, Mike and Joanne, and their Mommy, love to see them and remember.

Rainbow Lodge has long been the center of operations for our outings. I have been a partner in an Indian Trading Post there for many years. My wife, Peggy, and I spent our 15th wedding anniversary camped 11,000 feet up on Navajo Mountain, where the post is located. With two good friends, the Holloways of Los Angeles, and Whitey our guide, we packed bedrolls, a chocolate cake and a bottle of champagne.

Then there was the trip down the Colorado with my two sons, all of my nephews, and 20 boys from the YMCA. I was chief cook and bottle washer. We had 12 days of real fun that time. I have promised the girls that they will make such a trip someday when Congress doesn't stay in session all summer.

Mommy once went on a trip with me down the middle fork of the Salmon. We ran into a blizzard and the weather was biting cold, but the fishing was great. Sometimes, when we're together, we talk of trips we have made to the Snow Bowl up near Flagstaff, or down to the Grand Canyon, or the time all of us went to the bottom of Supai Canyon to visit the Indians and see their beautiful waterfalls.

One Christmas long ago we had a fresh idea. The whole family rented a house in Nassau and we spent two weeks of leisure and enjoyment. We fished from the boat of a friend, and spent as much time skin diving as we did on the surface. In Nassau, Mike bought a symbol of our Christmas gatherings.

It was a pewter beer mug. On it, we have engraved the place where we spent each Christmas vacation and the names of those present. Now, with grandchildren, it is wonderful to wach the engravings grow around the beer mug.

One of the great Christmas vacations was spent at Acapulco. The house came complete with a Mexican family. Not one member could speak English. Joanne and I used our lame Spanish and we did all right. We fished and swam and went water skiing all day and, in the evening, we watched the jai-alai games.

The best evening of that vacation was when our oldest, Joanne, and I set out in the moonlight to meet the rest of the family, on the other side of the bay. We went for a wade in the ocean, stopped in a cantina for a tequila, danced together at the Esqui Club and then walked down the 84 steps that led from the dirt road to our house, counting out each step in Spanish. Mommy was at the bottom, wondering what all the noise was about.

Three years ago, we built a new house. My friend Paul Jones, chairman of the Navajo Tribal Council, named it Be-Nun-I-Kin. It means House on Top of the Hill. There is where we gather now, and the fun goes on. My birthday is New Year's Day and the boys gave me a small cannon. Now, on New Year's Eve, that thing is fired with solemn ceremony.

Come to think of it, all of us are interested in guns. We have built ranges on which we fire different pieces and, when Mike isn't tired, we use the 12-gauge guns on clay pigeons. Another of our rituals is the gathering of wood for our Thanksgiving fire.

It seems strange that people who come from the warm deserts of Southern Arizona would enjoy a roaring fireplace, but we do. We go to the slopes of Sunset Crater, an extinct volcano, and there are thousands of dead pines lying around. The knots are knocked out with an axe or a sledge hammer. In a couple of hours, we have a truckload.

Our fire never goes out. Now, with an expanding family of two granddaughters — Caroline and Cynthia — and one expected in a few weeks, maybe I'll get a chance to be a real grandfather and sit by the flickering fire and spin stories meant for young

KEYSER — A serious juvenile problem in the City of Keyser was cited yesterday before members of the Keyser Rotary Club in an address by the new chief of police, Ralph Marsh.

The chief explained to Rotarians that he and the force will do everything within their power to strictly enforce the law and that he will try "to be a good chief." He said there has been evidence of vandalism in some sections of the city, speeding by teenaged drivers, and many reports that youngsters tell their parents they are spending the night with friends and then roam the streets and drive around throughout the night.

He gave a brief personal background of himself and explained the qualifications expected of one in his profession. He pointed out that the police force is working around the clock to restore order among the young people of the area and that while he will be "impartial" at the same time he will also "be firm."

The chief requested the help of all citizens, particularly the parents, in coping with the situations he outlined.

First runnerup was Miss Carolyn Goldizen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Goldizen, Lahmansville, who reigned as "Miss Tri-County Fair" last year and "Miss FFA of 1961." She is a graduate of Petersburg High School.

Miss Kay Judy Harper, Moorefield, was the second runnerup.

A junior at Petersburg High School, Miss Evans was crowned by U. S. Sen. Robert C. Byrd. She was sponsored by the Beacon Milling Company.

The queen's ball will be held today from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. in Moorefield High School gymnasium. Art Shaffer's orchestra from Cumberland will provide music.

An old fashioned riding tournament has been scheduled for Saturday at 6 p. m. at the carnival grounds. Approximately 20 knights bearing titles will compete.

Business sessions and educational meetings were conducted in the local fire hall throughout the day.

Two Paperworkers Retire At Luke

LUKE — Two workers at the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper retired Tuesday after long service with the company.

Frederick S. Riggleman, Westernport, started work at the mill 38 years ago in the boiler house and was serving in the lubrication department upon his retirement. He is a native of Keyser.

Charles M. Clark, Luke, worked at the mill for 39 years. He was a quality supervisor in the cutter room when he retired.

PSC Committee Seeks Secretary

KEYSER — A five-man committee to consider proposals for the hiring of an executive secretary for the Potomac State College Alumni Association was named by Thomas J. Conlon, president of the organization.

Assisting T. Warner Lowry, chariman, will be J. Paul Blundon and Joseph W. Kessel, of Keyser; Dr. Lawrence Fanti, Piedmont; and William M. Thompson, Westernport. The first meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mr. Blundon on South Main Street. Mr. Conlon and Kenneth F. Haines, alumni secretary, will serve as consultants for the committee.

Selection of the special group to lay the basic plans for the acquisition of a permanent secretary on the campus is a result of a recent meeting held at the Upper Potomac Shrine Club at which time a representative group of college alumni and business and professional people from the community heard the project outlined.

Should the alumni act favorably on the committee's findings the college has agreed to provide office space for the permanent secretary on the campus. The person chosen for the job would be hired on either a part-time or full-time basis and work in one of several offices being created through a remodeling project of the old library.

Polio Shots Available

KEYSER — An urgent appeal for as many people as possible to take advantage of the polio vaccine shots was made by officials of the Mineral County Health Department.

A spokesman for the department said "no disease can be conquered overnight, but many can help overcome and conquer poliomyelitis by having children and adults, alike, protected with at least four injections of the vaccine."

Each Saturday morning from 9 a. m. until noon the vaccine is given according to the recommended schedule at the local health department in the Mineral County Court House. Parents up to 40 years of age are requested to take advantage of the clinics and especially to bring their children from three months of age to receive the vaccine, which is given free.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars padded their Rocking Chair Softball League lead yesterday by blanking the Celanese A. A., 3-0, as the second-place Loyal Order of Moose tossers bowed to the Knights of Columbus, 3-1.

Pete Elliott tossed a four-hitter to beat Shorty Long in a hurling duel at Celanese field as the Vets registered their 19th triumph of the campaign against five defeats.

Shortstop Jimmy Eckard was the big gun for the Vets with a triple and two singles at the plate while he and Third Baseman George McGregor starred in the field. Gene Davis made several nice catches for the Celanese in right field.

The loss was the 10th for Celanese in 24 games and prevented them from tying the Moose for second place in the standings.

The Knights of Columbus turned back the Moose as Allan Sheetz outdueled Hayden Phillips in a battle of four-hitters.

Sheetz singled home a pair of runs in the first inning for the winners and Jimmy Collins and Norm Geatz added two-baggers to the K. of C. attack. Paul McGregor had a pair of singles for the Moose and Dick Klavuhn prevented a shutout by belting a solo home run for the losers in the seventh.

In other Rocking Chair games the Elks belted Pittsburgh Plate, 11-6, at Stitcher Field and Ritter's A. C. whipped C & P Telephone Company, 15-1, at Campobello.

In the Elks game Bobby Williams collected three hits for the winners while Koelker and Curtis belted home runs for Pittsburgh Plate.

Bunk Warnick and Dave Ritter pounded out circuit blasts and Ritter added a triple to lead Ritter's to its victory. Joe Scarpelli with a triple and Hoppy Crabtree with a double joined in the extra-base bombardment. Glenn Kauffman held the Phonemen to two hits while winning his 11th game. The results:

LaVale's pennant-winning Maroons bowed 3-2 to runner-up Barrelville yesterday in the final game of the Pen Mar Little League season for both teams at Barrelville.

Barrelville broke a 2-2 deadlock in the last inning, shoving over the winning run on three singles. Gary O'Baker opened the frame by beating out an infield hit. Moreland Martin singled and John Helmick drove home the winning tally with another single.

Martin obtained three hits for the winners as did Steve Rice while Steve Wilson chimed in with a triple and single. Mark Perry and Corky Hickle each had two hits for LaVale. The results:

Elks Defeat Bedford Road On No-Hitter

Price And Joyce Hurl 7-1 Triumph

Dave Price anad Jim Joyce combined to hurl a no-hitter last night as the B. P. O. Elks tossers defeated Bedford Road Optimists, 7-1, in the Hot Stove League at Penn Avenue.

Price, limited to six innings of pitching because of league rules, struck out 10 but walked eight in winning his eighth game against four losses. Joyce pitched only the second inning and whiffed two in presesving the no-hitter.

Ronnie McFarland was the hitting star for the Elks, belting a grand-slam home run in the first, a two-run circuit belt over the left-centerfield fence in the fifth, and a run-scoring triple in the third to bat in all the winners' runs. Pat Chorpenning chipped in with a double and single for the Elks and starred afield at shortstop with several nice plays.

Lee Miller struck out 11 in a relief role for Bedford Road. Jim Willis was the losing pitcher.

In another game at Mason Road field, the league-leading Cumberland Optimists padded their lead with a 3-1 victory over second-place Jaycees as Bill Lueck tossed a four-hitter for his sixth win of the season.

The triumph was the 17th in 20 decisions for the Optimists who can clinch the pennant with any combination of four wins and losses by the second-place team in the remaining seven games on the schedule.

Lueck had three hits, Howard Reynolds banged out a single and double and Gene Zais belted a single and a three-bagger to lead the Cumberland Optimists at the plate. Maiers had two hits for the losers who dropped into a tie for third with the Elks behind Bedford Road. The results:

Dan Braves Top Tigers, 7-4, To Take Loop Lead

Tommy Beyer hit a grand-slam home run in the first inning to give the Braves their margin of victory as Manager Bert Lawler's tossers took over first place in the Dan Division of the Dapper Dan Little League with a 7-4 triumph over the Tigers yesterday at Penn Avenue field.

The victory closed out the regular season for the Braves who now lead the runner-up Indians (11-3) by one-half game with a 12-3 mark. The Indians end their season against the Athletics today and can deadlock the race for the pennant with a win.

Jim Brannon won his sixth mound victory for the Braves although he was touched for seven hits including a double and single by Gary Neus, a triple by Rick Scalletta and a solo home run by Mervin Uhl. Glenn Cross also had a pair of singles for the Tigers. Brannon struck out nine and walked only one for his win.

Beyer was the big gun for the Braves, connecting for his four-run blast after two errors and an intentional walk to Brannon had loaded the bases in the first against Lefty Ted Malloy, the loser. Beyer also chipped in with a single and Herbie Springer had two hits for the winners.

Kevin Friend, nine-year-old second baseman, made a tumbling catch of a looping fly ball in the sixth inning for the fielding highlight for the Braves. The results:

W. Va. Streams Spotty; Fishing Not Rated Good

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia anglers apparently will have to pick their streams carefully this weekend if they hope to have any luck at all.

The Natural Resources Department said Thursday prospects again this week end are "spotty" with some streams running clear and others muddy.

The Elkins region and the northwestern area streams were all listed as high and muddy.

The South Branch, Shenandoah and Potomac Rivers in the Eastern Panhandle were reported clear as were the Greenbrier River and Bluestone Reservoir in the southeastern sector.

Conditions were mixed in the central area, with the Sutton Reservoir normal and clear and Elk River high and muddy.

However, it was pointed out that although some of the larger streams are muddy, there may be good fishing in smaller mountain streams if no more rain falls.

Venturi And Lema Pace Eastern Open With 68s

Doug Ford Trails Leaders With 69

BALTIMORE (AP)—Tony Lema chipped the ball into the cup from 35 feet away on the 12th hole for an eagle three Thursday that enabled him to tie his California golfing buddy, Ken Venturi, for the first-round lead in the $35,000 Eastern Open at four strokes under par.

The two San Francisco Bay golfers fashioned their rounds of 68 with scores of 34 on each of the nine holes at the 6,820-yard Pine Ridge course.

Venturi and Lema held a one-stroke lead over their nearest pursuers among the 138 starters in the 72-hole tournament that will wind up Sunday.

Doug Ford, from Crestwood, N.Y., and Rex Baxter Jr., from Amarillo, Tex., lodged themselves in the runner-up spot with scores of 69.

Gene Littler, the defending champion from Singing Hills, Calif., got off the turf for a comeback 70 that tied him with several others.

Doug Sanders, pro's third biggest money winner, chopped three strokes off par in his first six holes only to blow up and finish with an even par 72.

The 30-year-old Venturi first posted his 68 based on half a dozen birdies and a pair of bogeys. The 27-year-old Lema, a great admirer of Venturi after playing with him at the San Francisco Country Club, matched it 10 minutes later with four birdies, two bogeys and his crucial eagle.

At the 507-yard long 12th, Lema smacked a 3-iron shot to the edge of the green and chipped into the hole to gain two precious strokes on par.

Venturi, a slender 170-pounder similar to Lema, started his par busting on the 430-yard second hole with a 20-foot putt for a birdie three. He lost his touch on the fourth and three-putted for a bogey four, but conquered par again on the sixth and ninth with putts of eight and five feet.

Detroit Edges Senators, 2-1

Colavito Blasts 30th Home Run

DETROIT (AP) — Jim Bunning's four-hit pitching and Rocky Colavito's 30th home run enabled the Detroit Tigers to defeat the Washington Senators 2-1 Thursday.

Winning for the seventh time in his last nine decisions, Bunning kept four singles well spaced, struck out six and walked only two in nailing down his 12th victory in 20 decisions.

Colavito's home run, a vicious liner into the lower left field seats, came when he led off in the fourth inning and gave Bunning the edge in a tense pitching duel with Bennie Daniels. Daniels allowed seven hits in the seven innings he worked. Johnny Klippstein finished.

Colavito drove in Detroit's other run with a first-inning single.

Bob Johnson scored Washington's only run. He started the third with a single, went to second on a walk, to third on a bunt and home on an infield out.

McGuire Skips Loaded Queries

Says Warrior Owner Gave Him Control

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Frank McGuire skirted a few loaded questions Thursday, his first as coach-vice president of the Philadelphia Warriors of the National Basketball Association. McGuire has signed a three-year contract.

"I'm not going to answer any loaded questions until I've had a chance to observe things for myself," said the 46-year-old former University of North Carolina coach.

The questions McGuire referred to concerned Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, 7-foot-1 Warriors' star, and the degree of team control owner Eddie Gottlieb had promises him.

Informed that former coach Neil Johnston felt Gotlieb had one set of rules for Chamberlain and another for the rest of the team, McGuire replied:

"I'm not going on what someone else says. I'll form opinions from my own observations. If what I observe necessitates corrections, they'll be made quickly."

McGuire did say that he believes a team has to work as a team. "The players have to work together. The players are the essence. To survive you have to get them to put out for you," he asserted.

As for his control over the team and who will make the decisions, McGuire said Gottlieb promised him complete command.

Beau Prince To Run At Chicago Saturday

CHICAGO (AP) — Beau Prince, Calumet Farm entry, was flown in from the East Thursday to renew his rivalry with Fred W. Hooper's Crozier in the $100,000 added American Derby at Arlington Park Saturday.

Beau Prince finished fourth behind third-running Crozier in the Arlington Classic. He was withdrawn from the $50,000 Choice Stakes at Monmouth Park Wednesday and loaded aboard a plane for Arlington.

Crozier was the early favorite in a field of about eight 3-year-olds.

Braves Defeat Chicago, 5-2

Burdette Pitches Three-Hit Victory

CHICAGO (UPI) — Lew Burdette fired a three-hitter Thursday to pitch the Milwaukee Braves to a 5-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The 34-year-old Milwaukee right-hander had a one-hitter going into the ninth when Al Heist singled and Ernie Banks drove a shot into the leftfield bleachers for the Cubs two runs.

Burdette pitched hitless ball from the third until the final inning, yielding only a freakish infield single to George Altman in the second inning.

The Braves jumped on Cub starter Don Cardwell for two runs in the first inning and ex-Cub Frank Thomas led off the fourth with his 17th home run to give the Braves all the runs they needed.

Roy McMillan also homered for the Braves.

Dapper Phillies Beat Giants, 4-1, Clinch Flag Tie

The Phillies came from behind in the final three innings to defeat the Giants, 4-1, yesterday at Post Field in a Dapper Division game in the Dapper Dan Little League.

The triumph — 13th in 14 games for the league-leaders — gave the Phillies at least a tie for the pennant as they lead the runner-up Cardinals (11-2) by 1½ games.

Tommy McGeady hurled a five-hitter for the Phillies as he picked up his third mound triumph without a setback. Danny Young was the loser.

Jimmy Bennett smacked a triple and single to lead the victors at the plate while Randy Natale chipped in with a two-bagger and a single and Terry Deremer had a pair of singles. Alderton had a double for the Giants' only extra-base blow.

Bennett and Gary Perkins starred at first and second base with several good plays for the Phillies. The former stabbed at a line drive with a runner aboard in the sixth inning, knocked it down, juggled it and finally caught it for the last out. Jimmy Hamilton played an outstanding game defensively for the losers at third base. The results:

Phillies	000	112— 4	9 0
Giants	010	000— 1	5 0

Tommy McGeady and Billy Meister. Danny Young and Kunis.

Philadelphia Pick To Defeat Bellino, Snead & Company

By TED SMITS

CHICAGO (AP) — The highest rated group of college football All-Stars ever assembled, with an attack centered around Joe Bellino, Norm Snead, Bill Kilmer and Tom Matte, takes on the Philadelphia Eagles Friday night at Soldier Field before a crowd of 65,000.

The game will be televised by ABC starting at 9 p.m., EST. Hot and humid weather with an outside chance of showers is forecast. Proceeds go to the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Collegians Win Eight

In the past 27 games the collegians have won 8 and tied 2, but have always entered the contest decided underdogs. This year the Eagles, National Football League champions, are favored by 9 to 9½ points, fewest ever given the pro champions.

This probably will be the last football game for Bellino, Navy's great back of last year. Now an ensign, he starts a four year Navy stint and after that "I'll stay in the Navy as long as I like."

The collegians' three quarterbacks are looking forward to professional careers—Snead of Wake Forest, Kilmer of UCLA and Matte of Ohio State.

This will be the fourth team coached by Otto Graham, the great pro star of yesteryear who shunned the football limelight after quitting active play and took the job as coach and athletic director at the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn. He won the first game, 35-19, against the Detroit Lions, but lost the next two.

Injuries Bother Stars

Injuries have bothered the All-Stars. Tommy Mason of Tulane, Bob Gaiters of New Mexico State and Jim Johnson of UCLA may not see action.

The Eagles, who flew here from Hershey, Pa., Thursday, have not yet settled on a quarterback successor to the great, retired Norm Van Brocklin. Sonny Jurgensen or King Hill may get the call.

One man's opinion is, of course, just that. . .one man's opinion. And, ours is this. Two All Star baseball games is one too many. Much as we love baseball and as exciting as the all star game is we believe that a second such game can accomplish but two things. Both bad. First, we believe that a second game is strictly an also ran from the standpoint of fan appeal and excitement. Secondly, we believe it is foolish to risk injury to the many valuable players who appear in these games. For the benefit of the fans (and players alike) we're solidly behind the old fashioned All Star Game. . .but why run the added risks of the second game with few if any benefits.

What's your opinion partner?

Speaking of opinions. . .we're convinced that you'll enjoy the hospitality, the atmosphere, the companionship, and the fine food and drink at the Cas Taylor's, corner of N. Mecnanic and Valley Streets.

Scheffing Sees Bertoia, Staley Helping Tigers

DETROIT (AP)—Manager Bob Scheffing thinks his Detroit Tigers still can make a serious run for the American League pennant despite injuries that have sidelined two regulars and bothered the effectiveness of two pitchers.

The Tigers acquired third baseman Reno Bertoia and relief pitcher Gerry Staley from the Kansas City Athletics Wednesday night and Scheffing said both will be used extensively.

Frank Lane, general manager of the Athletics, said it was not an earthshaking deal, the one that sent relief pitcher Bill Fischer, utility man Ozzie Virgil and an undisclosed amount of cash to Kansas City.

"It may not be very important to the Athletics," said Scheffing, "but it could be real earthshaking to us—if Bertoia and Staley do a job for us."

The Tigers recently lost third baseman Steve Boros with a broken collarbone and catcher Dick Brown with a broken finger. Both are on the disabled list.

TOUGH SEASONS

NEW YORK (UPI)—Only two seasons, 1955 and 1960, failed to produce a 20-game winner in the American League since it was organized in 1901.

Race Commission Bans Pain-Killer

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Racing Commission again has imposed a statewide ban on an analgesic known as Butazolidin, a pain-killer used by horse trainers.

Use of the compound was illeval in Maryland at the start of this year, but the ban was lifted during the last week of the Pimlico meeting in May.

The five-man commission, headed by R. Bruce Livie, reportedly legalized the analgesic because Pimlico was faced with a possible scarcity of horses for the final week of its program.

The commission, in a prepared statement, said the ban was reinstated upon the recommendation of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners.

Machen, DeJohn Signed For Bout

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Eddie Machen and Mike DeJohn, a pair of top-ranking heavyweights, have signed to meet Sept. 16 in a 10-round bout at War Memorial Auditorium, Syracuse promoter Norman Rothschild has announced.

The bout will be a return match. Machen won a decision in the previous bout last April in San Francisco.

Wilson Has Chance To Boost Earnings

SEATTLE (UPI)—Don Wilson, fireball water jockey of Miss U. S. had a chance Thursday to boost the earnings of the Detroit Thunderboat to $1,900 in the time trials for Sunday's world championship Seafair trophy race here on Lake Washington.

The red-haired Wilson, who came out of "retirement" to drive the big red hydroplane, toured the three-mile course three times at an average speed of 112.971 miles an hour Wednesday to take home $500 put up by the race committee, plus $500 donated by a local department store, for the fastest boat on the course that day.

Stocks Join In Orderly Parade To Higher Levels

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market renewed its march to new record highs Thursday, proceeding in orderly upward fashion with the old-line, blue chip issues acting as parade marshals.

Gains of most issues were held to a fractional range, but the time-tested issues in the basic economic industries, which make up popular averages, showed a number of gains ranging from a point and up.

Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 5.25 to 715.71, another new high.

An estimated $2.3 billion dollars was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on a 1.60 rise by The Associated Press average of 60 issues. This left the AP average at 251.90. Industrials were up 2.60 to a record high, rails up 1.20 and utilities up 0.40, also to a new high.

Trading volume shrank to 3.65 million shares from 4.3 million Wednesday.

The most active stock was Avco Corp., off ¼ at 26⅛ on 85,000 shares.

Nine of the 15 most active rose, four declined and two were unchanged.

All told, 632 of the 1,277 issues traded were higher and 405 lower. New 1961 highs were achieved by 56 issues and new lows by 11.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregularly higher on volume of 1.13 million shares, down a bit from Wednesday's 1.32 million.

Corporate bonds were higher but U.S. government issues declined.

Lutherans Plan Course For Leaders

Lutheran churches in this area will conduct an accredited Lutheran leadership education course next month at St. Paul's Church here.

The course will begin Monday, September 18, and will be sponsored by churches in Cumberland, Frostburg, Westernport and Keyser, W. Va. The school term this fall will cover six weeks and classes will be held once a week for two hours.

The subjects offered this year and the instructors will be:

"Synoptic Gospels," Rev. Kenneth E. Morelock, St. Paul's Church, Frostburg; "Ways of Teaching," Rev. Robert B. Logan, St. John's Church here; and "Church, Theology and Beliefs," Rev. John F. Sammel, St. Paul's Church, Cumberland.

Certificates of progress will be awarded by the Board of Parish Education, Philadelphia, Pa., to those who complete the course. It is planned that eventually the school will progress to the point where it can offer religious courses on a college level.

The courses are open to community participation and enrollment cards will be available soon at the various Lutheran churches. Deadline for registration has been set for September 9.

Busy Shriners

Shrine To Hold Family Picnic Tomorrow

Everything is being made ready for the moms and kids of four counties to have a big time with the Noble dads of Ali Ghan Temple at their annual family picnic on the 39-acre grounds of the Shrine Country Club tomorrow, with the activities scheduled to begin at the club's new swimming pool at 11 a. m.

More than 1,500 Shriners and their families from Frederick, Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties have been invited to attend, and local Shriners have been busy for weeks— usually in the evening after their day's work is done— getting the facilities of the club picnic grounds in top shape for the event.

J. Wallace Close is general chairman of the affair, assisted by Roscoe M. McElfish, William G. Umstot, Lester J. Auker, Droze Zembower, Philip W. Ward, Russell H. Shaffer and Edward T. Evans. Zembower is also chairman of the preparations committee, and between 25 and 35 Shriners have been helping with the club's clean-up, paint-up, fix-up program.

Beginning at 2 p. m. there will be pony rides for the youngsters, with ponies being furnished by Gilbert Haus, Mt. Savage, one of the oldest living members of Ali Ghan. There will be games of all kinds throughout the afternoon, and at 5 p. m. a complete chicken dinner catered by the Shrine Country Club under the management of Ernest B. Treat will be served on the picnic grounds.

Illustrious Potentate Lewis J. Ort will welcome the nobles and their families, a band concert will be given by the Ali Ghan band under the direction of Darrell Zeller, and, following the dinner there will be folk dancing on the club pavilion.

No-Loitering Campaign Continues

Trial Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt is continuing his campaign against drunks and loitering in Cumberland.

Yesterday he sentenced six men to jail terms after they were found guilty on either of the charges. Four others forfeited bond on similar charges when they failed to appear for hearings.

Magistrate Weatherholt sentenced four of the men to 30 days in the Allegany County jail when they were brought before him in Police Court.

In Trial Magistrate's Court he sentenced two men to 15 days in the county jail. One of the men, he said, had been convicted in the state court of being drunk on five previous occasions and can now be charged with being a habitual drunk.

A habitual drunk can be taken into Circuit Court where the judge can order him put in jail or given institutional care, the magistrate said.

Earlier this week 15 persons were rounded up by city police on charges of being drunk, loitering or disturbing the peace.

Two were ordered out of the city and others were given jail terms or placed on the "work gang."

Action Course Seminar Set Here Aug. 9

An Action Course in Practical Politics seminar will be held here next week under the sponsorship of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

William Cardin, a member of the staff of the business relations department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, will be the instructor for the seminar planned Wednesday, August 9, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Potomac Edison Office on Union Street.

Invitations to attend the seminar have been sent by Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Chamber, to industries, businesses, banks and utilities of this area.

Many of the problems facing local, state and federal governments, Mr. Petersen said, are a direct result of too few businessmen taking an active interest in government.

During the past year, two classes have taken the Action Course in Politics and both have been termed successful.

The seminar is being held to brief representatives of any group or company desiring to sponsor such a course, and to give information to anyone who might be available to act as a conference leader.

Reservations for the seminar may be made by calling the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Instructors for the course were Gerald L. Barb and William J. Sullivan.

The final session Wednesday was entitled "The Politicians Speak," and seven local politicians participated in a panel discussion. Speakers were James S. Three TWUA Officials Are Paroled

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Three officials of the Textile Workers Union of America, including Carolinas director Boyd Payton, left prison Thursday after being paroled from long sentences connected with a bitter strike at a Henderson cotton mill.

Payton and Lawrence Gore were met by their wive at the Central Prison gate in Raleigh. Payton headed for his home at Charlotte and Gore left for Greensboro.

The third man, Charles Auslander, was released from the Caledonia Prison Farm in Halifax County and headed for his home in Reidsville.

Others Paroled

The three were sentenced to six to 10 years for plotting to destroy vital installations of Harriett-Henderson Cotton Mills, embroiled in the labor dispute with the TWUA.

They entered prison along with five other union members last fall after lengthy appeals failed.

The five other men, who received shorter sentences, already have been paroled.

The men were convicted of leading a conspiracy to bomb and burn an electric transformer, the plant's boiler room and the firm's offices during the strike which ran from December, 1958, until it was called off officially by the union last June 1.

During the spring and early summer of 1959, the strike produced picket line violence and nighttime home bombings which resulted in the calling out of highway patrolmen and finally the National Guard.

Was Leader

Payton, as Carolinas union chief, was strike leader. Gore was described as an aide to Payton and a union representative. Auslander was chairman of the union's bicity joint board.

The conspiracy trial was held in Vance Superior Court at Henderson in July, 1959.

Navy Appoints New Staff For Sugar Grove

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy apparently is heeding congressional criticism of construction of its radio telescope center at Sugar Grove, W. Va., and has named a special staff to make sure things go just right from now on.

A recent report on the building of the radio astronomy cited skyrocketing costs, poor management and said decisions were being made "without staff coordination, review and supervision."

The Navy, in a report submitted to a Senate appropriations subcommittee said the new so-called "special project" staff would supervise all aspects of planning, design and construction of the installation.

The report said the new group is headed by an officer who reports directly to the Navy's chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks.

"As a result of these combined efforts, major design problems are being resolved," the report, released Thursday, said.

The project was originally scheduled to cost about $79 million but costs have skyrocketed and it is expected to run as high as $135 million.

And construction has been painfully slow. All this has made the project one of the Pentagon's most controversial problems.

The Navy says the slow progress on construction can be attributed to the fact that both construction and research was carried on at the same time. Usually the two are done separately, but it was decided this project was urgent enough to try both concurrently.

The station will be built around a dish-shaped antenna which will be used to scan the heavens for sounds from outer space.

It is expected to aid in space exploration and serve a vital function in the nation's defense network.

However, some critics feel the installation may be outdated before it is completed.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., while expressing concern about the cost of the project, still considers it necessary and says he will continue to urge its completion.

Allegany Community College Will Open On September 25

School Board Names 2-Year Institution

Allegany Community College was agreed upon by the Allegany County Board of Education yesterday afternoon as the official name for the new junior college to be operated at 340 Frederick Street, the former Carver School building.

To satisfy one of the state legal requirements for starting the school here, the school board also adopted the resolution formally authorizing the establishment of the community college subject to the approval of Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., state superintendent of schools.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster appraised the members of the board of steps already taken to help assure the start of classes in the new college on Monday, September 25.

Biulding Being Prepared

Much has been done since Dr. Robert S. Zimmer of Montgomery County accepted the presidency of the new institution on July 24.

A number of partitions have been removed to provide the college with one large office. The former home economics room at the rear of the building is being converted into a library. The former manual training shop will become the college's science laboratory. State funds are expected to pay about 50 per cent of the cast of the remodeling work, Mr. Webster told the board.

A number of used chairs are being reconditioned this summer for use in the two-year college.

Bids will be received until next Wednesday at 3 p.m. for relighting and rewiring the new Allegany Community College.

Parkside Job Awarded

In another significant action yesterday, the Board of Education approved the awarding of the contract to George Construction Company for a new six-room addition to Parkside Elementary School in LaVale the first project in the county's new $5,000,000 school building program. The George firm submitted a low bid of $134,933.

Mr. Webster also informed the school board that the State Association of County School Boards will have its fall meeting October 5 and 6 at Annapolis. Kenneth R. Malcolm of Westernport, a member of the County Board of Education since May 1951, is state president of the association.

The other four members of the County Board of Education, all present at yesterday's meeting, are planning to attend the Annapolis meeting too. They include J. Goodloe Jackson, president; Mrs. Richard Winer, T. Donald Shires and Mrs. George M. Young.

College Questions Answered

Many of the questions being asked about the new Allegany Community College here are answered in a nine-page booklet which has been prepared under the direction of Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, president of the new junior college.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster presented copies of this booklet to the members of the County Board of Education at a special meeting yesterday afternoon.

As soon as the board agreed upon the name for the community college he said he would have application blanks printed immediately. They should be ready for distribution to interested persons by the middle of next week.

Mr. Webster presented the school board yesterday a tentative calendar for the college starting with a tentative calendar for the college starting with a faculty workshop from September 11 to 15. Registration is planned for September 20 and 21 from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and from 6 until 8 p. m. Classes are scheduled to begin on September 25.

How To Register

The booklet circulated yesterday by the school superintendent lists a six-step procedure to be followed.

4. Submit a medical examination report.
5. Submit a residence affidavit.
6. Make an appointment with the registrar for an interview and aptitude testing.

The applicant will be notified of his admission status by the college after his application has been received and his credentials reviewed.

Tuition Cost

The tuition cost will be lower for Allegany County residents than other students. The tuition for Allegany countians with a full-time load of 12 or more semester hours will be $100. For a part-time load of 11 or fewer hours the cost per semester hour for Allegany countains will be $10.

For residents of Maryland living outside Allegany County the tuition cost will be twice as high. It will be $200 per semester for full-time load and $20 per semester hour for part-time load.

Non-residents of Maryland will be required to pay $300 per semester tuition for full-time load and $30 per semester hour for part-time load.

The following fees are listed in the booklet:

Application, $10; late registration, $5; change of schedule after first week, $1; special examination, $5; graduation, $10; transcript for each after the first, $1; laboratory fee for courses on the freshman level in biology and chemistry, $5; for courses in the sophomore level in biology, chemsitry and physics, $10; breakage deposit in chemistry, per course, $5; student activity fee for full-time students, per semester, $10; for part-time students, per semester, $5.

The program of study which will be offered at Allegany Community College will cover the first two years of typical college programs in the arts and sciences, business administration and engineering.

The curricula which will be offered the first year will be for the student who expects to transfer to a four-year college or university or for the student who expects to take only two years of general college education. At a later date the college expects to offer terminal curricula, which will be two-year programs designed for those students who desire to enter upon a technical career for which a two-year course of study is appropriate.

Part-Time Students

A paragraph in the booklet concerning part-time students explains that any student carrying 11 or fewer semester hours of credit will be classified as a part-time student. Part-time programs will be available both for those wishing to work toward a degree and for special students. Students who are employed off-campus on a full-time basis are strongly advised not to carry more than two courses, five or eight semester hours.

Members of the County Board of Education will serve as members of the Board of Trustees of the college.

Governor Gives His Views On Dinner Ducats

Letter Forwarded To Savings, Loan Heads

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes said Thursday he dose not approve of attempts to sell tickets to a testimonial dinner for him because of his backing of savings and loan regulatory legislation.

Tawes was asked for comment on published reports that tickets to the $100-a-plate dinner are being promoted among savings and loan officials on the grounds that the governor strongly backed legislation to regulate the industry.

Tawes said:

"I have had no part whatsoever in the sale of tickets for the testimonial dinner. But since it is a testimonial dinner for me, I would not approve of any attempt to sell tickets on the basis of my actions as governor—for the savings and loan bill or anything else."

The Washington Post, in its Thursday edition, said a letter had been mailed to savings and loan company officials urging them to buy tickets for the Sept. 21 affair in Baltimore.

Letter Is Cited

The letter, signed by William C. Rogers, president of the Security Tilte Guaranty Corp. of Baltimore said the industry officials should give credit to Tawes for his part in the passage of the regulatory bill, the Post reported.

Rogers, a member of the commission which drafted the savings and loan bill, stated in his letter:

"My first approach in serving on this committee is to call on you to be good enough to take a table. If not a table, several tickets at $100 each so that we may be assured of a fine turnout...

"Many of us disagreed as to the effectiveness of a savings and loan bill signed by the governor. However, it now appears that it is possibly the best bill that could have been passed by the recent assembly and we must give credit to the governor for the work he did in getting the bill through."

Tickets to the testimonial dinner apparently aren't the hottest items on the market.

The Baltimore News-Post reported Thursday that state Democratic headquarters here had become concerned about the alleged apathy shown by some party officials.

The newspaper said James H. (Jack) Pollack, Northwest Baltimore Democratic leader, was not "enthusiastic" about the fund-raising affair.

Pollack Backs Petition

Pollack has acknowledged backing a petition campaign against two priority measures of the Tawes Administration during the 1961 session of the General Assembly—the savings and loan regulatory bill and a bill expanding Baltimore's Municipal Court.

The petition campaign was designed to force a referendum on those measures in the 1962 general election.

Former Maryland Gov. William Preston Lane already has withdrawn as honorary chairman of the dinner, and Mayor J. Harold Grady of Baltimore has indicated he may have other commitments the night of the affair, the News-Post said.

Tawes so far has not announced whether he will seek the Democratic nomination for governor in the primary election next May.

But the Democratic State Central Committee seemed rather certain of his candidacy when it announced the dinner "to help finance the campaign for the Tawes ticket next year."

Expected to oppose Tawes for the gubernatorial nomination is George P. Mahoney, a Baltimore County contractor. Mahoney unsuccessfully sought the nomination in 1950 and 1954.

David L. Hume, former treasurer of the Maryland Democratic party, already has filed for the governorship. In recent months, Hume has fought for abolishment of slot machines in Southern Maryland.

Kiddie Parade Winners

This group of youngsters was among those who walked away with prizes last night after the kiddie parade was held in LaVale in conjunction with the summer festival of the volunteer firemen of that community. Jeff Young won the prize for having the best decorated tricycle. He is "towing" his sister, Beth, who is riding a fire truck. Standing left to right are Christine Owens dressed as a pumpkin, most original costume; Sarah Elizabeth and Carol Lynn Heinz, dressed as angels who received the judges prize; and Kathy Young who was dressed in the best comic costume.

Eight Testify In LaVale Bridge Dispute

Cobey Decides To Visit Area

Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey yesterday heard eight witnesses in an equity suit involving a privately-owned bridge on West Street in LaVale which collapsed on February 25.

The first three witnesses heard yesterday are plaintiffs in the action which was brought against the State Roads Commission and the Cumberland Contracting Company. They are Metro P. Nazelrod, E. Randall Hostetler and E. T. Combs.

Two other witnesses were called by John M. Robb, attorney for the plaintiffs. They were George Christner and Harry T. Skelly, both of whom live near the collapsed bridge.

Three defense witnesses also took the stand. They included John D. Bushby, district engineer for the SRC; George E. Geary, assistant district engineer, and Dewey R. Williamson, superintendent for the Cumberland Contracting Company.

Originally, the plaintiffs filed a bill of complaint seeking a mandatory injunction and damages from the defendants. The dispute involved a drainage ditch constructed by the Cumberland Contracting Company under a contract with the SRC.

The drainage ditch was constructed in LaVale from U. S. Route 40 to Braddock Run. High water in the run caused water in the ditch to be diverted against the foot of the bridge abutment and washed away the bank, causing the bridge to collapse February 25.

On July 11, Judge Cobey filed a five-page opinion sustaining the demurrer of the defendants. In that opinion, he said the plaintiffs have the right to seek an injunction prohibiting the SRC from continuing to divert a heavier burden of water into that portion of Braddock Run adjacent to the plaintiffs' bridge. The plaintiffs were allowed to file an amended bill of complaint and the testimony yesterday involved this amended bill.

Three attorneys argued the case at the conclusion of testimony. They included Mr. Robb, representing the plaintiffs; William Walsh, representing the Cumberland Contracting Company, and Peter J. Carpenti, representing the State Roads Commission.

Judge Cobey gave them permission to file additional memoranda in the case and then decided to drive to LaVale to inspect the bridge himself. Mr. Skelly, who is county roads supervisor, accompanied him.

His decision will be filed later.

Groundhog Hunter Wounded

Donald C. Riffle, 25, of RD 1, Ridgeley, was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday with a gunshot wound in his left arm sustained while groundhog hunting in the vicinity of Patterson Creek.

Police said the shooting apparently was accidental. They questioned George E. Turner, 70, of RD 1, Ridgeley, who was also groundhog hunting in the vicinity.

After learning Riffle had been wounded, Turner went with him to the hospital, according to Ridgeley Police Chief Lawrence Y. Chandler, who questioned Turner.

Attaches said the slug from a .22 calibre rifle went through the upper left arm of Riffle and he was admitted for observation. His condition is "satisfactory."

The two men, police said, were hunting groundhog in a field in the Patterson Creek area although they had not gone hunting together.

The shooting occurred about 6:30 p. m. West Virginia State Police were notified by the Ridgeley police officer. No charges were placed against Turner, police said.

Local Man Fined $150 On Motor Charge

Richard K. Fox, 110 Utah Avenue, was fined $150 and court costs yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court after he pleaded guilty to a state motor vehicle charge.

Fox was arrested last week by City Police after three automobiles and a fire hydrant were struck on South Street.

Magistrate Paul W. Barnett fined Fox after he pleaded guilty through his attorney, William H. Geppert. Several other motor vehicle charges were dismissed by the state.

Mr. Geppert said the defendant was covered by insurance which would take care of all damage involved in the incident.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason prosecuted the case for the state.

Gets Home Permit

Charles A. Redinger secured a permit from the City of Cumberland yesterday to build a one-story dwelling, 28 by 34 feet, on Memorial Avenue Extended. The brick veneer dwelling was estimated to cost $7,000.

Services for Robert J. Poling, 17, of Pinto, who died yesterday morning when he was pinned beneath a farm tractor on the Mason Farm near Pinto, will be conducted Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Hafer Funeral Home.

Rev. Jacob H. Snyder, pastor of Kingsley Methodist Church, will officiate and interment will be in Zion Memorial Burial Park.

Bedford Man Is Charged With Murder

Charles Allen, 48, To Face Grand Jury

A 48-year-old Bedford, Pa., man is being held in the county jail there on a charge of murder in the fatal shooting of his nephew last month, authorities said yesterday.

Charles (Heeter) Allen was given a preliminary hearing yesterday morning when he appeared before Justice of the Peace A. C. Bingham in Bedford.

Fatally wounded was Kenneth (Jack) Allen, 30, also of Bedford, who died July 11 in Bedford County Memorial Hospital. The shooting took place at his uncle's home on July 3, authorities said.

William Van Horn, prosecuting attorney of Bedford County, said the prisioner is being held without bail for action of the September term of the grand jury which will convene on the 11th of that month.

Following his arrest, Allen was charged with assault with intent to kill. After the death of his nephew the murder charge was placed against him.

Deputy Coroner Ralph J. Mickle said the nephew's death was due to complications of a gunshot wound which he sustained on July 3.

Authorities said Allen was wounded with a high-powered hunting rifle. A preliminary investigation disclosed the shooting occurred at 3 p. m. that day at the uncle's home.

The victim, who was married and the father of two children, was employed as an elevator operator and bellman at a Bedford hotel.

Board Approves Carport Permits

The Board of Zoning Appeals last night approved the application of Thomas M. Wagner to build a carport at his home, 907 Kentucky Avenue.

Approval was granted after Mr. Wagner explained the carport will be attached to the home with a shingle roof of the same color as the dwelling.

He said the side of the carport will be a foot from his property line and 12 feet from the adjoining home, which is owned by his brother.

Approved after being tabled at the July 20 meeting was the application of Espy T. Barley, 105 Karns Avenue, to build a carport at his home.

There was no opposition to either application.

Times-News To Sponsor Low-Cost British Tour

The Times-News, in its policy of helping to provide a popular-priced vacation which most anyone can afford, has scheduled this fall a goodwill visit to England, Scotland and Ireland for residents of the Cumberland area.

Mayors and civic leaders of the English and Irish towns to be visited by the local tour have indicated they welcome large parties in the off-season when hotels are no problem.

The airline, TWA, has promised a special section to be reserved for this party if sufficient interest develops before the end of this month.

The group will leave October 6 from the Washington National Airport. The low fall and winter fares enable the local group to make personal visits to people of each community who have like interests and occupations.

This is particularly easy in the British Isles and Ireland because of the language. The welcome mat will be out wherever the group stops, even for tea, and no past tour sponsored by these papers has been promised such close personal contact with the people of overseas countries.

Officials of the State Department who recently discussed the idea with Thomas F. Conlon Jr. feel these groups of average Americans, especially if many types of livelihood are involved, can do a wonderful job in reinforcing the work of the U. S. overseas information people.

Recent tension over the Polaris program in Scotland points up the need for better people-to-people understanding overseas.

Only by making possible low cost trips where a representative group from an American town goes together, can this be done, State Department people assert.

This will be the fifth European tour sponsored by the Times-News in addition to last October's tour to Hawaii.
